WAR POLICY TEST TODAY

FRENCH CLAIM PART OF VERDUN FOE WIPED OUT

Violent Assaults North of City Broken Down—Fort de Vaux Reported Lost.

NEW OFFENSIVE OPENS

LONDON, March 2.—The gigantic German offensive in the vicinity of Verdun has been resumed, according to official advices from Paris.

To the north of the main fortress Teuton attacks of great violence, both artillery and infantry, have been inaugurated, but the official communication from the French war office says the infantry assaults have been repulsed by the defenders "whose fire decimated the ranks of the enemy."

SECOND FRENCH FORT FALLS.

An Amsterdam dispatch to the Central News says that Fort Vaux, five miles to the northeast of Verdun, has been destroyed by the German heavy mortars, but this victory is not claimed in the Berlin official report nor admitted in the French communication.

The dispatch adds that while the fort has been leveled, the Germans cannot occupy what remains of the stronghold, as the French have brought heavy artillery to bear on the approaches.

CALL FRENCH LOSSES LIGHT.

The exact figures of the French losses at Verdun have been given to the committee of military affairs of the French chamber of deputies by Col. Boucabeille, chief secretary to Gen. Gallieni, minister of war. It is stated that they were not high.

The Petit Parisien, according to a dispatch from Paris, says that the German losses to date in the Verdun fighting amount to between 125,000 and 130,000, and constitute about one-third of the German effectives actively employed.

These figures do not include the losses resulting from today's fighting.

BRITISH BEGIN DRIVE.

That the British have begun a drive on their front to distract the Germans pounding away at Verdun is indicated in the British official communication issued today.

The war office reports that the British have recaptured the 800 yards of trenches in the bluff of the Ypres-Comines canal which were lost to the Germans on Feb. 14 and that they also took a small salient in the original German lines.

FRENCH WAR REPORT.

The French official statement covering the day's operations on the entire western front in which French soldiers had a part follows:

In Belgium, destructive fires have been directed by our artillery against the German organizations to the east of Steenstraete.

Between the Somme and the Oise, a German work was destroyed by our batteries in the region of Beuvraignes.

In Champagne, a German aeroplane, shelled by our batteries in the vicinity of Suippes, fell in flames within the enemy lines.

In the Argonne we executed concentrated fires to the north of Harazee and on the Cheppy wood.

In the region to the north of Verdun

LATEST NEWS OF THE WAR

LONDON, March 3, 5:02 a. m.—A dispatch from Lausanne to the Central News says that the German, Gen. von Lanckenesee, has died from wounds received while fighting before Verdun.

LONDON, March 2.—Reports from Rotterdam are to the effect that the tremendous artillery fire on the Yser front and in the neighborhood of Ypres is becoming more intense. The guns have roared almost without ceasing for seventy-two hours. Reports from the Belgian-Dutch front say that the German trenches are getting a fearful hammering.

COPENHAGEN, via London, March 3, 6:01 a. m.—King Christian of Denmark has invited the prime ministers and the ministers of foreign affairs of Norway and Sweden to visit Copenhagen on March 9, in order to discuss with Danish Premier Zahle questions which the war has shown to be of common interest to the three countries.

LONDON, March 3, 3:19 a. m.—The Daily Express says today that the government has definitely decided to recommend a moratorium for contractual obligations, such as rents and insurance, for all men serving in the army or navy.

PARIS, March 2.—Col. Feyler, the Swiss military critic, says:

"If the attack is not resumed promptly before Verdun or elsewhere the recent operations, though constituting a partial tactical success, must be considered a lost battle for the Germans—a mere repetition of the second battle of Ypres."

MRS. EATON'S HOME ROBBED WHILE SHE SEES LAWYER.

Jewelry Stolen from Apartment of Woman Who Says She Was Obliged to Split Her Salary.

Several heirlooms and pieces of jewelry valuable as keepsakes were taken by burglars who broke into the apartment of Mrs. Page Walter Eaton, 5203 Harper avenue, while she was at the office of her attorney yesterday.

When Mrs. Eaton returned home at 6 o'clock last night she found the front door had been "jimmied" and jewelry valued at $300 had been taken. The rooms in the apartment had been ransacked.

Among the jewelry taken were her mother's and grandmother's wedding rings and a pin which Philip Sampson, son of Mrs. Eaton, had worn in the European war while a member of the Royal Montreal rifles. She reported the burglary to the Hyde Park police.

FIRE SCARES 200 DANCERS.

Starts Mysteriously on Floor Over Their Heads in North Side Hall.

Several hundred dancers were frightened about 2 o'clock this morning when smoke penetrated the North Side Turner hall building, 828 North Clark street. The dance hall is on the second floor and the fire started mysteriously in a bookcase on the fourth floor.

The Teutonic Sons of America were giving the entertainment. About 200 persons were in the hall when the danger was discovered.

The blaze was extinguished by a policeman before the arrival of firemen.

$25,000 GEMS STOLEN IN SHOP AT BLACKSTONE

"De Luxe" Thief "Lifts" Tray Before Dreicer Manager's Eyes.

WALKS COOLLY OUT.

A slender young man of impeccable address entered the lobby of the Blackstone hotel at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon and sauntered through the crowded corridors into the aristocratic little jewelry shop of Dreicer & Co.

After ten minutes of debate with Manager Edward L. Smith over the comparative merits of three trays of rings set with large diamonds, he strolled out, declaring himself dissatisfied.

When Manager Smith turned back to his counter he found that one of the trays, containing between $25,000 and $50,000 worth of diamonds, had gone with his customer.

"COOLEST" IN YEARS.

The robbery, according to Pinkerton detectives, who were promptly set on the thief's trail, was the "coolest" and boldest they have known in years.

So far as Manager Smith could tell, the man had no confederates. He conversed fluently and examined the various rings in leisurely fashion, the jeweler all the time within five feet of him.

When the visitor left the shop Smith accompanied him to the door and watched him as he went down the Michigan avenue corridor and mounted the stairs to the main lobby. Attaches of the hotel said afterward that he walked slowly through the lobby and went out by the Seventh street entrance.

HIDDEN IN GREATCOAT.

The man wore a loose, flowing overcoat, belted at the back. Somewhere in this he evidently had concealed the heavy, bulky tray.

"And the strangest thing about it," Manager Smith told the detectives, "was that when he came in I suspected him for some reason of being a thief. I watched him narrowly, or thought I did, all the time he was there. How he got away with it I simply cannot imagine."

Dreicer's, a tiny, exclusive establishment, deals in the most expensive diamonds sold in Chicago. It is a branch of a New York firm which has its principal shop in the Waldorf-Astoria hotel.

NO STREET ENTRANCE.

There is no street entrance to the single room it occupies. Immediately inside the Michigan avenue entrance of the Blackstone there is a doorway opening from the corridor. A second door, at the rear of the shop, also opens from the corridor.

The robber, whose clothes were extremely well tailored and described by the jeweler as having a "long, slender face," inquired for the manager when he arrived.

"May I see some diamond rings?" he asked. "Large stones, if you will be good enough."

Smith went to the vault and brought out three trays, each containing twelve rings. Altogether, he said, there were about $150,000 worth of the stones.

The customer examined each closely. Finally he walked to the door and then came back, as if irresolute.

"No," he said curtly, "they won't do."

This time he stepped briskly to the door.

HE'S "THIEF DE LUXE."

The detective bureau was told of the robbery and Smith was taken to the bureau of identification, where he picked out a photograph. It was that of one of a New York band of "thieves de luxe" who have been known to be in Chicago for several weeks. Forty Pinkerton men and a squad of detectives were sent to watch every outgoing train.

Dreicer's has been known as the best protected jewelry shop in Chicago. A private detective is continually on guard in the store and was on duty as usual when the robbery occurred. Because the manager's eyes seemed to have been on the robber during his entire visit the guard's suspicions were not aroused.

BOMB FAILS TO WRECK PLANT OF PROVIDENCE JOURNAL.

Placed in Office of Managing Editor, It Explodes, Causing Fire—Paper Exposed Plotters.

Providence, R. I., March 2.—[Special.]—An attempt was made early tonight to blow up the Providence Journal office. The bomb used either was not powerful enough or went wrong. No great damage was done and no one was hurt.

The fire was started in a file of newspapers in the office of the managing editor. In the next moment there came a sharp explosion which threw the files in every direction and filled the room with a dense and choking smoke.

"When the automatic sprinklers began to operate the water seemed to add to the intensity of the flames," a statement issued by the Journal said. "After investigation, the police department tonight arrived at the conclusion that the fire could not have been of accidental origin."

The Journal has been one of the most active papers in the country in exposing what it alleges to have been German propaganda in the United States.

DIET DISCUSSES LAND EXPANSION

Colonization of Russian Provinces Openly Advocated—Poles Ask Assurances.

BERLIN, March 2, via London.—Some of the extremists among the annexationists appear to have passed beyond the demand that the empire's borders "be made safe from military and political standpoints" when peace is reached. Herr Furmann, National Liberal, speaking in the Prussian diet today in support of the German's domestic colonization measure, said:

"By bringing in the governments of Courland, Kovno, and Suwalki, the price of the land would increase to $600,000,000, and we have no occasion to let this fall into the laps of the inhabitants there as a gift.

"We need, along with the assuring of Germany's political might and with the strengthening of our western industry, new and extended lands for colonization in the east, which we must acquire for necessary extensions of our agricultural foundations."

Fought by Polish Delegates.

Polish delegates opposed the proposed colonization measure, unless it was amended to provide that no colonist receiving state aid should be discriminated against because of religion, descent, language, or political activity.

The Poles referred to the fact that Field Marshal von Hindenburg and the governor of Warsaw have prohibited real estate transfers in Poland, which has caused dissatisfaction in the district involved, as the Poles understand that the prohibition will be continued until after peace is restored and fear that the resulting increase in values will be solely to the benefit of the Germans.

Would Regard Polish Rights.

The delegates of the Centrist party supported the Poles. Minister of Agriculture Baron von Schorlemer, however, said the demands of the Poles could not be granted. The minister referred to the past assurances of the Prussian government that the colonization laws would be executed with the fullest regard to the rights of the Poles. The Poles must realize, however, he said, that German claims must be protected against any arrangement for colonization from the Polish side.

SECRET OF FAMOUS MINCE PIES OUT AND ALL'S WOE.

Viands in Evanston Cafeteria the Delight of Epicures Until—but See What Was in Them.

Those genial mince pies at the Evanston cafeteria would warm the cockles of your heart. And those plum puddings!

The best people in Evanston patronized the cafeteria. Clubwomen, doctors, lawyers, professors, and members of the W. C. T. U. And the fame of the mince pies spread. It got so men with a chunk ready to pitch home would mutter a punctilious, "Well, here's regards." And the women. How they "my deared" one another over the pie and pudding.

Several W. C. T. U. women who patronized the cafe asked the proprietor, W. L. Cocroft, for the recipe. He was half way through its recital before they whisked themselves out. Soon Mr. Cocroft received an intimation from the W. C. T. U. that spirituous juices in the pies and puddings would, might—it was so delicately, regretfully hinted—make it impossible for the women to delight further in his hospitality.

And the soul of mince pies is fled. Doctors and professors and lawyers grieve, for they know it will come no more. The mince pies are just mince pies, whited sepulchers, lacking entirely in spirit.

POLL SHOWS PRESIDENT VICTOR ON SEA WARNING

Wilson Will Be Vindicated Partially in His U-Boat Demands.

HOUSE STILL HOSTILE.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

Washington, D. C., March 2.—[Special.]—After an outburst of heated oratory in the senate, in which the president was represented as driving the country into war with Germany, Mr. Wilson rallied his forces tonight in support of a plan to furnish him with a partial vindication of his policy in the submarine controversy.

Senator Stone, chairman of the committee on foreign relations, announced that when the senate meets at 11 o'clock tomorrow he will offer a motion to table Senator Gore's resolution warning Americans to shun armed merchant ships.

NO SUBSTITUTE RESOLUTION.

Senator Stone, who differs with the president on the armed ship question and favors the issuance of a warning to Americans, said that he would not attempt to carry out his previously conceived idea of presenting a substitute resolution embodying a compromise between the president and his opponents in congress.

After a canvass of the senate the administration leaders asserted that the Gore resolution would be tabled by a large majority. They said they found only twenty-two senators favoring the Gore resolution and who would vote against the tabling of the measure.

PARTIAL O. K. FOR WILSON.

Although the president demanded a showdown on the merits of the warning resolution, his lieutenants in the senate were afraid to risk the test on account of the strong sentiment favoring the proposition to which Mr. Wilson was opposed.

By tabling the resolution the senate will avoid passing on the merits of the question and leave it where it can be taken up later. Inasmuch as a motion to table is not debatable, discussion of the warning proposal will be prevented.

The sidetracking of the Gore resolution in this manner is the closest approach to an indorsement of the president's policy the administration leaders deemed it safe to attempt to achieve.

BERLIN HEARS OF FRICTION.

While the senate debated there came news to the state department from Berlin which convinced officials that the dissension in congress was being used deliberately to weaken the president's hand in Germany.

Confidential advices state that reports circulated in the German capital as having come from Washington declared that congress stood five to one against the president.

Bearing on the sea controversy, Secretary Lansing indicated late today that the United States cannot accept the German contention that a submarine, because of its fragile structure, is entitled to any greater degree of immunity from attack than any other class of warship. He indicated that the position of the United States with relation to defensive armament of merchantmen was that any merchant ship carrying cargo and noncombatants was presumed to be armed defensively until it acted offensively.

The United States, it is understood, will expect charges that British ships have used defensive armament offensively to be authenticated.

HOUSE STILL HOSTILE.

The attitude of the house is still hostile to the president's demand for the defeat of the pending resolutions of warning.

Minority Leader Mann, who was summoned to the White House this afternoon, informed the president that an overwhelming majority of the Republicans will vote to warn Americans off armed ships if the question goes to the floor of the house.

The Democrats are still badly split, although the cabinet has been lobbying strenuously to bring the insurgents into line with the president's views.

GORE LAUNCHES ATTACK.

The most sensational incident of the debate in the senate this afternoon was Senator Gore's reference to the report that President Wilson intends to sever diplomatic relations with Germany if the sinking of an armed merchantman costs the lives of Americans and that he believes the entry of the United States into the European conflict would be a "service to civilization."

Senator Gore, author of the chief resolution warning Americans to keep off armed ships, said that when the matter should come before the senate for disposition he would demand that the senate declare whether the sinking of an armed merchantman would be deemed a sufficient cause of war.

FEARED WAR FOR U. S.

"I introduced this resolution because I was apprehensive that we were speeding headlong on war," he said. "Perhaps I ought to go further and say what I have hitherto avoided saying—that my action was based on a report which seemed to come from the highest and most responsible authority that certain senators and certain members of the house, in a conference with the president received from him the information, if not the declaration, that if Germany insisted upon its position the United States would insist on its position and that it would result probably in a breach of diplomatic relations and that a breach of diplomatic relations would probably be followed by state of war, and that a state of war might not be of itself and of necessity an evil to this republic but that the United States, by entering upon war now, might

WILSON DENIES GORE STORY THAT HE WANTS WAR

Washington, D. C., March 2.—[Special.]—Secretary Tumulty issued the following statement tonight regarding the Gore charges that the president had said a war might not necessarily be an evil to the United States:

"When the attention of the White House was called to certain statements in Senator Gore's speech this afternoon the president authorized an unqualified denial of any utterance to which any such meaning could be attached."

GORE-STONE COLLOQUY.

The colloquy in the senate between Senators Gore and Stone, bearing on the charge against President Wilson, follows:

SENATOR GORE—Certain senators and certain members of the house received from the president the information, if not the declaration, that if Germany insisted on its position the United States would insist upon its position, that it probably would result in a break of diplomatic relations and a state of war, and that a state of war might not be of itself and of necessity an evil to this republic, but that the United States by entering upon war now might be able to bring it to a conclusion by midsummer, and thus render a great service to civilization.

SENATOR STONE—In all fairness to the president and to the facts in the case, so far as they are within my knowledge, the president never stated to me or in my hearing that he believed in any way or entertained the thought that war between the United States and the central powers would be desirable or would result in good to the United States.

SENATOR GORE—I am convinced that the president suggested to the senator that the United States might bring the war to a close by the middle of the summer.

SENATOR STONE—The president made no such statement as quoted by the senator. Whatever the president said to me is something I do not care to repeat; what he says to me is sacred. I have not repeated conversations with the president.

SENATE FACES TEST ON "SEA WARNING" BY VOTE ON GORE PLAN be able to bring it to a conclusion by midsummer and thus render a great service to civilization.

"I cannot say what the truth may be. I tell the tale as it was told to me. This came to my ears in such a way, with such a concurrence of testimony, with such internal and external marks of truth, that I feared it might be the truth, and, if such a thing be even conceivable, I did not feel that discharging my duty as a senator I could withhold whatever feeble service I might render to avert the catastrophe of war.

"I think the senator from Massachusetts and the senator from Mississippi are right in saying that the president has a right to know whether congress will back him in the opinion, if he has such an opinion, that the sinking of an armed belligerent ship will be a sufficient cause for war, and I think, too, Mr. President, that members of the senate and that members of the other house have a right to know whether the opinions and sentiments imputed to the president were as given in their interview with him.

Puts Question to Stone.

"If the senator from Missouri [Mr. Stone] will deny that suggestions of that sort in substance were made, his denial would be conclusive with me.

"If the senator from Indiana [Mr. Kern] will say to the senate upon his responsibility as a senator that the president did not indicate that war might not be ungrateful, and that this republic could render a great service to civilization, his denial will be binding upon me.

"I say in all fairness to the president, and to the facts of the case, so far as they are within my knowledge, that the president never stated to me, or in my hearing, that he believed in any way or in any way entertained the thought that war between the United States and the central powers would be desirable, or would result in good to the United States," responded Senator Stone.

Convinced of Story's Truth.

"I say that I heard in such a way, analyzing the evidence, that I was convinced that it mu[illegible] founded upon fact, that the preside[illegible] suggested to the senator that the United States might bring the war to a close by the middle of the summer," Senator Gore persisted. "Am I right in that, may I ask the senator from Missouri?"

"The president of the United States made no such statement to me as quoted by the senator from Oklahoma," Senator Stone replied. "Whatever the president said to me is something that I do not care to repeat. When I go to the White House to hold a conversation with the president, if I go anywhere to hold a conversation with a senator or any other official, what he says to me is sacred. I have not repeated conversations I have had with the president. I have stated impressions that the conversations I had with him made upon my mind, and I stated them in substance in a letter I wrote to the president which was given to the public, but I have not repeated the conversations themselves."

Lineup in the Senate.

In the senate debate Senators Stone and Gore, Democrats, and Clapp and Norris, Republicans, opposed the president's contention that the United States should enforce the right of Americans to safe passage on armed merchantmen. Senators Williams, Democrat, and Lodge, Republican, upheld the views of the president.

Senator Clapp called attention to the fact that, although the president asserts that a warning to Americans to shun armed ships would be a surrender of a sacred right, he issued an order to the state department in 1914 to refuse passports to Americans desiring to visit the warring countries for pleasure. The senator could not understand why the president should be intent upon keeping Americans out of harm in the belligerent countries and equally insistent that they be allowed to risk their lives on armed ships.

Mann's Views Already Aired.

Although he declined to discuss his conference with President Wilson, Minority Leader Mann had made his views on the present situation known to a number of Republicans before he went to the White House, and they insist that he did not hesitate to tell Mr. Wilson just what he thought of it.

Last week, when the Democrats in the house went on a rampage over the warning resolution, Mr. Mann advised the Republicans to remain quiet. He said that congress should not go on record so as to interfere with the president's handling of the situation unless congress felt that Mr. Wilson was dragging the country into a war against its wish. In that event Mr. Mann favored taking action to express the will of the people.

House Favors Warning.

Mr. Mann expressed great astonishment when he heard of the president's letter to Acting Chairman Pou of the rules committee. That letter completely reversed the situation in his estimation and made it necessary for congress to do one of two things—either refuse to act on the resolution or pass a resolution expressing the views of the people.

One prominent member of the house asked Mr. Mann what he thought those views were.

"They are overwhelmingly in favor of warning Americans off the boats, and Americans should be warned off the boats," is the reply he made.

Must Keep U. S. from War.

Insofar as the threat of war is concerned Mr. Mann expressed himself emphatically. He said that the essential thing now is to keep the country from going to war upon any unimportant issue, not involving national honor.

With respect to Mr. Wilson's conduct of the foreign relations Mr. Mann declined to comment. He said, however, that if congress felt the country was being dragged into war it should act, even to the extent of humiliating Mr. Wilson before the world, to prevent the war, unless the country as a whole wanted it.

Until the president precipitated the issue by demanding specific action by congress, Mr. Mann was of the opinion that the house would make no effort to interfere with his handling of the situation and by its acquiescence convince the world that it still had confidence in the president.

Listen to Flood Story.

The house foreign affairs committee which met this afternoon spent most of its time listening to Chairman Flood relating his impression of the now famous White House meeting of a week ago Monday night. Mr. Flood told the committee he did not believe the president wanted to precipitate the country into war. He said, however, that eventualities were discussed in academic way at the conference.

After listening to Mr. Flood the committee considered three concrete propositions. The first was to lay the McLemore and similar resolutions on the table in committee; the second was to report the McLemore resolution to the house without recommendation, and the third was to report a compromise resolution expressing the view of the house that the president should be unhindered in his handling of the controversy with Germany.

The committee finally adjourned without action to meet at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow. By that time it is expected the senate will have disposed of the Gore resolution.

TEXT OF GORE RESOLUTION; MAY BE TABLED IN THE SENATE TODAY

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 2.—[Special.]—The text of the Gore resolution, which will be brought up in the senate tomorrow, follows:

Whereas—A number of leading powers of the world are now engaged in a war of unexampled proportions; and

Whereas—The United States is happily at peace with all of the belligerent nations; and

Whereas—It is equally the desire and the interest of the American people to remain at peace with all nations; and

Whereas—The president has recently afforded fresh and signal proofs of the superiority of diplomacy to butchery as a method of settling international disputes; and

Whereas—The right of American citizens to travel on unarmed belligerent vessels has recently received renewed guarantees of respect and inviolability; and

Whereas—The right of American citizens to travel on armed belligerent vessels rather than upon unarmed vessels is essential neither to their life, liberty, nor safety, nor to the independence, dignity, or security of the United States; and

Whereas—Congress alone has been vested with the power to declare war, which involves the obligations to prevent war by all proper means consistent with the honor and vital interest of the nation; therefore, be it

Resolved—By the senate (the house of representatives concurring), that it is the sense of the congress, vested as it is with the sole power to declare war, that all persons owing allegiance to the United States should in behalf of their own safety and the vital interest of the United States forbear to exercise the right to travel as passengers upon any vessel of any belligerent power, whether such vessel is armed for offensive or defensive purposes; and it is the further sense of the congress that no passport should be issued or renewed by the secretary of state, or by any one acting under him, to be used by any person owing allegiance to the United States for purpose of travel upon any armed vessel of a belligerent power.

SPEECH BY SENATOR STONE.

Senator Stone, chairman of the committee on foreign relations, brought the matter up in the senate.

"A sharp issue has been joined between Germany and Great Britain as to the status of armed merchant vessels," he said. "Germany contends that armed belligerent vessels are in all essential respects the equivalent of auxiliary or converted cruisers and that they should be treated as war vessels.

"That government has announced its policy to be that after the first day of the present month armed enemy vessels of all kinds will be regarded as warships and be subject to the rules of maritime warfare applicable to such ships.

"On the other hand, Great Britain contends that it has a right under international law to arm merchant ships for defensive purposes and that merchant vessels so armed are entitled to the same immunities in every respect appertaining to unarmed merchantmen, and this without regard to the kind of passenger aboard or the nature of the cargoes carried.

"Great Britain has announced this to be its policy. That is the issue between the two governments on that question.

Position of America.

"Now, where and how does the government of the United States come into this controversy? I answer in this way: That if both Germany and Great Britain shall persist in the course they have respectively announced, neither yielding to the other, nor yet yielding to the importunities of any neutral government, including our own, and if Germany should attack without warning an armed merchantman of its enemy and some American citizen or citizens should be injured, the question would present itself as to what our attitude and course should be in the circumstance.

"If no American should be aboard a ship so attacked and therefore if none suffered, we should have no cause to break into and take up a cudgel in that quarrel, unless, indeed, we should proceed upon some altruistic theory of an obligation to humanity in general.

Attitude of President.

"As I understand it, the president's attitude is this: That he has concluded to support the contention that belligerent merchant ships have a right under international law to bear arms for defensive purposes.

"What he may regard as a defensive armament I do not know, in fact, I doubt that any man would venture authoritatively to define that kind of armament.

"Furthermore, if a German war vessel should, without warning, fire upon and sink an armed merchantman of the enemy, he would hold the attack to be a lawless act, and if American citizens should suffer therefrom he would hold the German government to the strictest account.

"If, notwithstanding, the German government should persist in its policy he would sever diplomatic relations and submit the matter to congress, which under the constitution is the war making power.

Stone Outlines His Position.

"Distressing as it is to me to be obliged to disagree with the president, as well as with many of my colleagues, my opinions have been matured after great deliberation and my sense of duty is imperative.

"I can not but believe that a belligerent merchant ship, heavily armed—no matter whether it be called defensive or offensive armament—engaged in transporting contraband war material to the army or navy of its sovereign, is in all essential respects the equivalent of a duly commissioned war vessel. To say the least, I think there can be no manner of doubt, and may well be considered as debatable.

"The president is firmly opposed to the idea embodied in the Gore resolution. He is not only opposed to congress passing a law relating to this subject, but he is opposed to any form of official warning to American citizens to keep off so-called armed merchantmen.

"If I could have my way—which I know I can not—I would take some definite step—a step as far as the constitution would permit—to save this country from becoming embroiled in this European war through the recklessness of foolhardy men.

"The president has written Representative Pou and he has stated to me and to others that the pendency of these resolutions in congress has been and still is a source of embarrassment to him in conducting diplomatic negotiations with the belligerent powers involved respecting the subject. I am sure that is so, and it is regrettable.

"As you well know, senators, I have diligently sought to prevent the introduction of any resolutions on this subject and to allay any agitation with regard to it; but the efforts I made, with others, in this behalf, have been only partially successful.

"Now we are informed by the president that he is solicitous that these resolutions should be disposed of in both houses, and that the attitude of congress should be more clearly defined. I am in full sympathy with him as to that, and I will coöperate to bring that matter to a head.

Wants to Aid Harmony.

"The difficulty is in arranging a plan that would be effective and of value. I am more than willing to contribute anything within my power in arranging a plan of action with the sincere purpose of bringing the executive and legislative departments in accord.

"It may be, and I profoundly hope it is so, that the president having behind him the support of congress may even yet be able to bring Great Britain and Germany to some agreement with this government which would relieve the present acute situation.

"I am now puzzling my brain to frame a resolution as a supplement for all other pending resolutions on the subject, and as soon as I get it into the best form of which I am capable I desire to discuss the resolution with the senators on both sides, with the chairman of the house committee on foreign affairs and also, if need be, with others.

Asks Unity in Congress.

"I desire to bring the congress with practical unanimity to the support of the president in the conduct of the diplomatic questions involved. Of course time is now the essence of things and prompt action is desirable. My suggestion is this:

"That the senate shall strive with the utmost diligence to dispose of the unfinished business today; but whether it succeeds in disposing of that business or not I shall, at the close of today's business, ask the senate to adjourn until some early hour tomorrow morning at which time the Gore resolution shall be laid before the senate.

"Mr. President, although it is my earnest desire to coöperate with senators who coincide with the president's attitude concerning this whole subject, yet because of the fact I am not in accord with the president on the main issues it would be entirely agreeable to me if any of the senators indicated should take another course if they so desire. If the senate agrees to the suggestion I have made I will proceed in my effort to discover a plan to which we may all agree; but if another course should be taken I can only abide the result."

REPLY OF SENATOR LODGE.

The senate was in a solemn mood when Senator Stone concluded and Senator Lodge of Massachusetts, Republican, supporter of the president on the question of armed ships, arose to reply.

"I am certain that we all appreciate the gravity of the situation to which the senator from Missouri has called the attention of the senate," began Mr. Lodge. "I agree entirely with him, Mr. President, that this is not a party question. I agree also with him that our first duty under existing conditions is to dispose of the precise question that has been raised by the resolution to which he has referred. I think it is more important than any unfinished business.

"I shall not enter into the discussion of the question of armed merchantmen; I discussed that at some length a short time ago, and I am entirely clear in my own mind as to the law and usages of nations in regard to armed merchantmen, and that they cannot be taken out of the class of a peaceful trader except by demonstration that they are commissioned vessels and that they carry an armament greater than that described at least in the circular of the secretary of state at the opening of the war, or that they are used for offensive purposes.

Cites Rights of Neutrals.

"If I understand the position of the president as stated by the senator from Missouri on the question of armed merchantmen and the rights of neutrals to travel and to ship their goods on merchantmen armed within the limitations generally imposed, I am in full accord with that position.

"I think that neutrals have a right, established for centuries, to ship their goods and take passage on belligerent merchantmen whether armed or unarmed, if armed within the limitations I have described.

The precise question as I understand presented by the president and also by the senator from Missouri is whether congress favors passing a resolution warning American citizens to desist from from the exercise of an undoubted right.

"I do not believe that any resolution can be drawn that will evade or get rid of the issue which has been raised. No matter how it has been raised, it has been raised on the precise point embodied in the Gore resolution in the senate and in similar resolutions in the house, and if the president wishes a vote on that precise resolution and on the precise point raised by the resolutions I think he ought to have that vote from congress.

"His position, as I understand it, is that he is interfered with and hampered and crippled in his negotiations with foreign powers by the supposed attitude of congress on this precise question and which is used against him in the negotiations which he is carrying on by the power with which he is negotiating.

"I think under these circumstances he has the right to know—the question having been raised—what the attitude of congress is on that question of warning American citizens from the exercise of what have hitherto always been considered undoubted neutral rights.

"I do not think that it can be disposed of in any general terms, by any votes of general confidence, or any general resolutions stating the limitations between the executive power in diplomatic negotiations and the legislative power. I think we must meet the question as it is presented.

Cites Mexican Policy.

"The last administration warned citizens of the United States to leave Mexico. It was a matter of deep regret to many of that administration's supporters that it was a subject of criticism by this administration's upholders.

"That warning has been renewed as to citizens in Mexico, but the criticism of the present administration for the failure to protect American lives in Mexico despite the warning given by the administration has not ceased.

"I have joined in that criticism myself and it would be utterly impossible for me to criticize this administration for failure to protect American lives in Mexico despite the warning that has been given and then myself turn round and publish to the world that an American who exercised an equal right, to which he is equally entitled, on a belligerent merchantman should not have the protection of his country."

Urges Vote in Congress.

Mr. Lodge said that the president, hampered by the attitude of congress in his negotiations, has a right to ask for a vote "on the precise proposition which is before congress and know whether he can go on with his negotiations with the congress behind him, or whether the congress takes the view of the belligerent power with which he is at this moment negotiating."

Then he concluded:

"I sincerely hope that the senate will not delay in taking a vote on the precise and specific question of whether we ought to warn our citizens from exercising a right that has not been questioned in law or usages of nations for centuries past."

REAL CRISIS—WILLIAMS.

Senator Williams of Mississippi, a stanch Democratic defender of the president's foreign policy, who next gained the floor, referred to the existing situation as a parting of the ways, when each man must stand as best he may for that which he thinks to be true and right and just and brave and patriotic.

"That time has come for you and me," he said, "concerning the proposition which now faces us, and which has not faced us because of any action of the president of the United States, but which he has been compelled to confront by constant nagging, constant quizzing, and constant expression of opinion in favor of the negotiators of a foreign power as against our own. The time has come when for me, at any rate, the question states itself in this way: Shall I exclaim 'America first,' or shall I sing 'Deutschland Uber Alles.'

No Question for Politics.

"For the politics in this question, Mr. President, I have the highest contempt. The man who is a representative at the other wing of this capitol, or who is a senator here, and who is looking behind him somewhere at some racial vote of some sort, is not only not a patriotic American but he is a poor judge of human nature, and he is even a poorer politician.

"The moment that any political element or any factional element, or any other element participating in government in the United States as voters or officials shall plant themselves upon an idea of pleasing a particular racial element in the United States, that moment they make foolish politicians of themselves, if nothing else.

"Because that moment they consolidate every other element of diverse and different racial derivation in the United States against them and against what they are seeking to do, and they consolidate against themselves that element of American citizenship whose derivation is so ancient that it hardly knows what it was—just simply Americans, without frills, and without embroideries, and without hyphens or anything else.

"And, as little as you think of it, they have a right to live here, and they have a right to be heard as well as other people; and you consolidate them against you, too.

Cites Most Contemptible Thing.

"To be an Angiomaniac is so contemptible that it is beyond expression. There is one thing only that is more contemptible, and that is to be an Anglophobe. To be a Teutomaniac is contemptible, but there is something more contemptible than that, and that is to be a Teutophobe. And so I might go through with it all.

"The initiative with regard to foreign relations lies with the executive. Congress ought not to attempt to assume the initiative; but from various quarters the assumption and the attempt have been made, and day after day, through one innuendo or another, through one resolution or another, the chief magistrate of the United States has been prodded and nagged and dared to surrender the initiative which the constitution places with him, and to let congress take the initiative with regard to our foreign relations.

Wilson Patience Gone.

"Well, some of you have nagged, and you have dared until the patience of a very patient man has been exhausted; and now he says: 'Very well. You have furnished comfort to the foreign negotiators. You have made them think that the American people were disunited, and they were not behind their government. You have given them a contempt of their government as the other negotiator. You have weakened my hands, you have partially paralyzed me, and now I want a showdown, and I believe that with the American people it will be a showup when I am through with it.

"'If the patriotism of congress is behind me, let us find it out. If it is not, let us find it out again. If I am to be hamstrung and hampered, just go further and kill me as a negotiator and abandon it. If I am not the executive of the United States government and have not vested in me by the constitution the initiative, I can bring nothing to an ultimate conclusion without you, then say so and let me and let the people know that I am helpless.

"'You already have done as much harm, almost as you can by passing your resolutions. The only light I see is to table them. You have dared. I have submitted. I have looked as if I were afraid. I have plead with you please not to go on. In spite of it all you keep it up. There must be an end of it one way or the other.'

"Bring Issue to Head."

"Therefore, without evasion and without indirection, so far as I am concerned as a senator of the United States, I say bring the matter to an issue.

"Bring on your Gore resolution and bring on your other resolutions and let a motion be made to table them, and see whether or not senators are going to assume the responsibility before the American people of standing against the president upon a proposition where he stands with a principle of international law 500 years old.

"The proposition that merchant ships defensively armed are still to be considered as merchant ships because they are not armed for offense and because they are not commissioned as armed vessels, is a principle recognized even during war between states, recognized by the federal government, recognized by the confederacy; and that was an internecine struggle where the ordinary laws were not always recognized.

Germany Would Be Supreme.

"The principle is as old as modern civilization, and what Germany wants us to do is to change the international law pendente dello; or, rather, what it wants to do is to change it itself and it is trying to make us particeps criminis in it."

Mr. Williams said that when a neutral purposely changes the heretofore recognized relations of nations under international law during a war, when the change must necessarily accrue to the benefit of one of the belligerents and to the damage of the other, that neutral nation has committed an unneutral act.

"Talk about war," he continued. "The only danger of war today, the only cloud upon the horizon has come from the fact that the president and the executive were not let alone to carry out negotiations, but that some of you must, forsooth, create the impression that the American people and the representatives of the American people were not behind the American government. It is to your action and your action alone, in my opinion, that is due the last position taken by Germany."

GORE DEFENSE OF BILL.

Senator Gore prefaced his defense of his resolution of warning by stating that the attitude of a senator touching the resolution does not reflect his sympathy as between the European belligerents and that any American citizen who places the interest of Germany above that of America is a traitor to his country.

"I think there are some traitors of that type in the United States," he exclaimed. "Any American citizen who places the interest of the allies above the interest of America is a traitor to the United States. Traitors of this type are not unknown in the United States. These two types of traitors are equally offensive, they are equally disloyal, they are equally reprehensible.

"I do not doubt that the American owners of ships flying the flags of the allies would like to see the United States police their vessels across the high seas and protect them against assault from any belligerent power. I have little doubt that the purchasers and the owners of the $500,000,000 worth of bonds recently issued by the allies would rejoice to see the United States underwrite their investment, guarantee the sovereignty and the ultimate success of their debtors.

"I have no more sympathy with them than I have with the hyphenated American who in the interests of Germany is disloyal to his native or adopted land if he be a native of America, rather than a naturalized citizen.

Honor Should Not Be Made Toy.

"Whenever the honor, whenever the vital interests of this republic are involved, whenever the essential rights of an American citizen have been invaded or violated, every American sword will leap from its scabbard. That sacred sentiment should not be trifled with. It should not be made a toy and a plaything in the hands of any madcap American citizen who may be disposed to venture his life upon the armed ship of a belligerent power.

"I rather agree with the senator from Massachusetts and the senator from Mississippi that in accordance with immemorial international law neutral citizens have a right to travel on armed belligerent ships. I do not draw into question the technical right, but I do assert it is a right which is a survival of piracy and ought to be withdrawn with the age that gave it birth.

"The right once existed under international war, if I may say, to murder the prisoners of war. It was a right universally exercised, but the enlightened conscience of advancing civilization abrogated the brutal custom.

"It was once a legal constitutional right in America to own human beings as slaves, and the defenders of the system relied upon their sacred right under the constitution and laws of the republic.

"But civilization consists in the withdrawal of individual rights when they become incompatible with the paramount interests of organized society.

"I think it true, perhaps, that any one of the 100,000,000 American citizens has a right to travel on an armed merchant ship. He has a right to run the risk of losing his own life and engulfing this republic in a sea of carnage and of blood.

"I think any wayfarer, madcap American citizen may boast that as an inalienable, or rather, I should say, as a sacred right vouchsafed to him by international law. Of course I believe that the 100,000,000 American citizens have a right to be protected against his recklessness, that they have a right to be protected against the danger, against the possibility of any man of the 100,000,000 citizens having the right and the power to turn this republic into the existing carnival of carnage.

"Of course the right of 100,000,000 to be protected against becoming involved in this butchery is not to be weighed in the balance with the sacred and inherited right to imperil his own life, the life of a million of his fellow citizens, and billions of their treasure.

Should Curb Americans.

"I do not weigh money in the balance with sacred and essential rights. My only contention is that pending this struggle the right should be withdrawn, this sacred right in the paramount interest of organized society, in the paramount interest of this American republic; we ought to say, as the senator from Mississippi would probably say to his son or his daughter, 'Don't you go on an armed ship.'

"I doubt if the senator from Massachusetts would consent that a child of his loins should embark upon the armed vessel of a belligerent power.

"Mr. President, with me it is a fixed conviction that American citizens ought not to travel on these vessels and that they should be warned not to exercise the right.

"Let me put a case. Suppose that 1,000 American citizens embark upon one of these armed vessels. It is sunk to the bottom of the sea by a German submarine. An investigation shows that it was armed for offensive purposes. Germany had a right to sink the ship and to sacrifice a thousand American souls.

"What consolation to the dead or their families would it be that by chance they had embarked upon a vessel armed for offensive purposes? Would it not be infinitely better for them, would it not be infinitely better for their surviving families, to have been warned not to take the chance?"

CLAPP QUERIES GORE.

"The impression prevails quite certainly in some quarters that this resolution is an attempt to withdraw the right of an American citizen to go on an armed ship," interposed Senator Clapp. "I do not understand that the resolution is an attempt by law to withdraw that right."

"Not at all," replied Senator Gore.

"But the expression of congress is that it is the sense of congress that it is better not to exercise technical or abstract right?" inquired Senator Clapp.

"That is the point," asserted Mr. Gore; "that is the express terms of the resolution."

"The resolution of the senator from Oklahoma withdraws no right," said Senator Lodge. "It only says to Americans if they exercise the right we will withdraw the protection."

"That is the point," asserted Mr. Gore.

Would Avoid Wilson Veto.

Senator Gore said in response to a question by Senator Norris that he had embodied the proposed warning in a concurrent resolution, which does not require the signature of the president, mainly to avoid a veto by Mr. Wilson.

"But the passage of such a measure through the senate and the house would at least have as much effect in the way of warning as a concurrent resolution that does not go to the president at all," Mr. Norris observed.

"If we take any action at all, it would be the part of wisdom to take or attempt to take at least the action that would be effective, that would make illegal the traveling on such ships from American ports that were thus armed."

BORAH ENTERS ARGUMENT.

Senator Borah here joined in the debate as follows:

"Suppose we should pass the resolution of the senator from Oklahoma just as it is drawn and suppose that the other branch of congress should also express its views in that respect, and that as time proceeded some submarine should have destroyed 100 lives: would the senator from Oklahoma or those who take that view be willing to forego the right of the American government to demand reparation for the loss of those people?

"My own judgment is that the adoption of this resolution by the congress would serve to warn American citizens not to embark on these armed vessels," Mr. Gore replied.

"The senator expresses it as the sense of congress that passports should not be issued to American citizens designed to be used on armed belligerent ships. I feel confident since the issuance of passports is discretionary with the secretary of state that he would observe such an injunction on the part of congress. I think, therefore, it would be entirely effective to accomplish the results which I have in my mind and I shall on the proper occasion make further answer to the suggestion of the senator touching a declaration of war."

Argue Passport Question.

"I would suggest," interposed Senator Clapp, "the difficulty of finding a difference in spirit as to the withholding of a passport under the senator's resolution and the letter of the department of state of Oct. 4, 1915, in which it is stated: 'The department does not deem it appropriate or reasonable to issue passports to persons who contemplate visiting belligerent countries merely for pleasure, recreation, touring or sightseeing.'

"If the right to go upon an armed vessel is a right, as it is, and no resolution here must contemplate the abridgment of that right, it is also the right of an American to go into a belligerent country if he desires. I should like to have some one point out the spirit and principle of the difference between the two suggestions."

Unable to Divine Difference.

"There is absolutely no distinction as far as I am able to discriminate between the two," Mr. Gore replied. "The order of the state department that it will not issue passports to persons contemplating pleasure trips to belligerent countries is no more a sacrifice of a sacred, fundamental, inalienable, and immemorial right of the American citizen than a simple warning that in the interests of public peace he should not exercise the right to travel on a belligerent ship.

"In principle and in purpose the two are identical. How they could be discriminated senators may answer the point. I am unable to divine."

"Is there any more reason for characterizing the senator's resolution as siding with one side or the other in the European war in warning citizens to keep off of armed vessels than there is in the attitude of the department of state in saying that it will withhold passports from those seeking to visit belligerent countries for pleasure, recreation, touring, or sightseeing?" Senator Clapp pursued.

"If there be such a distinction it is past the power of analysis to detect it," replied Senator Gore.

"I have no doubt the senior senator from Mississippi with his incomparable power of analysis and the senator from Massachusetts with equal power will be able to find a substantial reason why passports should not be issued to American citizens to travel in belligerent countries where they could do so without peril to themselves or to their country and yet find an issue surrounding national honor to withhold passports from reckless adventurers who might involve our nation in war.

"I yield to the senator from Pennsylvania."

OLIVER INTERJECTS VOICE.

"There is this marked difference between the two cases," said Senator Oliver. "The department of state acted within its right and within its duty as imposed by the constitution. This is a proposed act or resolution of the congress of the United States going out of its purview and giving directions to the administrative department as to what it shall do in the exercise of its duty."

"If the secretary of state has been invested with the discretion to deny a sacred and fundamental right to an American citizen, he has been given an authority that he never ought to be premitted to exercise," retorted Senator Gore.

"In the second place, if it is any usurpation on the part of congress, the war making power of this republic, out of its solicitude for peace and for an honorable peace, to seek to avoid war, then this resolution is subject to the senator's criticism."

Question by Gallinger.

"Does the senator from Oklahoma find any reason why the state department can suspend this sacred, time honored, principle of international law any more than congress can express an opinion that our citizens ought to be warned against going on these belligerent vessels?" inquired Senator Gallinger. "Where does the secretary of state find authority to suspend international law?"

"And what is his motive?" responded Senator Gore. "I cannot answer the senator's question. My recollection is that the president signed the order of Jan. 12, 1915, to which the senator from Minnesota (Mr. Clapp) has referred.

"As I recall in our note to Germany concerning the Lusitania our protest was founded upon the fact that it was an unarmed merchant ship. I have conceded to the senator from Massachusetts (Mr. Lodge) the proposition that possibly an American citizen is exercising a legitimate right or rather an international right, notwithstanding the fact that the secretary of state in his note to the powers on Jan. 18 closed with this significant language: 'My government is impressed with the reasonableness of the argument that armed merchant ships are auxiliary cruisers and is seriously considering issuing its instructions to its officers to treat them in that fashion.'

"The secretary of state admits that this sacred and immemorial right is a doubtful right. Sweden warned its nationals not to embark upon these belligerent armed ships without any compromise being made and with the possibility of continued independence."

Blind Senator, Wilson's Critic.

SENATOR THOMAS P. GORE

PRESS OF LONDON LAUDS PRESIDENT.

LONDON, March 2.—"Plucky" and "courageous" were terms used by the London press today in describing President Wilson's move to force a count of noses in congress on the question of upholding his position with regard to Germany.

"The stand taken by the president is straightforward and courageous," said the Westminster Gazette.

"President Wilson is assured of the sympathies of the allies," said the Globe, one of the president's most severe critics.

"The president's stand is plucky," said the Pall Mall Gazette, which expressed the hope that President Wilson will not compromise with his opponents in congress on the basis of a limitation of armament. Such a compromise would cause ill-feeling here, the Gazette added, and would be only a measure of expediency, inasmuch as Americans would continue patronizing English armed ships, if they chose.

The Daily News said that President Wilson has given America the opportunity to choose between honor and dishonor.

EDITOR MUELLER, CHICAGO, ASSURES THE PRESIDENT.

Tells Wilson He's Confident Majority of German-Americans Are Loyal to United States.

Washington, D. C., March 2.—Paul F. Mueller of Chicago, president of the newly formed National Association of German Publishers and editor of the Chicago Abendpost, told President Wilson today he believed the great majority of German-Americans were loyal to the United States. He was accompanied by State Senator Keller of Illinois.

Mr. Mueller said he did not call upon the president as the representative of the publishers' association, which, he said, was commercial in character and had nothing to do with politics.

The President told Mr. Mueller he felt confident German-Americans in common with other Americans of foreign birth were loyal to the country of their adoption.

ARMED BRITISH MERCHANTMEN NOT TO ATTACK

But Approach of Any Submarine Is Grounds for Defensive Fire, Admiralty Holds.

LONDON, March 2.—The British admiralty tonight officially made public the admiralty's orders to armed merchantmen, given Oct. 20, 1915. The orders say that the armament of such vessels must be used solely for resisting an attack by an armed vessel and for no other purpose. As British submarines and aircraft are ordered not to approach merchantmen, the orders say, the approach to a British merchantman of a submarine is to be regarded as done with a hostile intention. The official statement reads:

"In view of the recent issue by the German government of a memorandum on the treatment of armed merchant ships, the admiralty has decided to make public the instructions actually governing the actions of British merchant vessels armed for self-defense.

HOLD RIGHT ADMITTED.

"Instructions, dated 20th of October, 1915, re the status of armed merchant ships:

"1. The right of the crew of a merchant vessel to forcibly resist visit and search and fight in self-defense is well recognized in international law, and expressly admitted by the German prize regulation in an addendum issued June, 1914, at a time when it was known that numerous merchant vessels were being armed for self-defense.

"2. Armament is supplied solely for the purpose of resisting attack by an armed enemy vessel and must not be used for any other purpose whatsoever.

"3. An armed merchant vessel, therefore must not in any circumstances interfere with or obstruct the free passage of other merchant vessels or fishing craft, whether these are friendly, neutral, or hostile.

"4. The status of a British armed merchant vessel cannot be changed upon the high seas.

SELF-DEFENSE RULES.

"Rules to be observed in the exercise of the right of self-defense:

"1. The master or officer in command is responsible for opening and ceasing fire.

"2. Participation in armed resistance must be confined to persons acting under the orders of the master or the officer in command.

"3. Before opening fire the British colors must be hoisted.

"4. Fire must not be opened or continued from a vessel which has stopped, hauled down its flag, or otherwise indicated its intention to surrender.

"5. The expression 'armament' includes not only cannon but also rifles and machine guns in cases where these have been supplied.

"6. The ammunition used in rifles and machine guns must conform to article 23, Hague convention IV., 1907—that is, bullets must be cased in nickel or other hard substances and must not be split or cut in such a way as to cause them to expand or set up on striking a man. The use of explosive bullets is forbidden.

AVOID ACTION, OBJECT.

"Circumstances under which armament should be employed:

"1. The armament is supplied for the purpose of defense only. The object of the master should be to avoid action whenever possible.

"2. Experience has shown that hostile submarines and aircraft have frequently attacked merchant vessels without warning. It is important, therefore, that craft of this description should not be allowed to approach to short range at which a torpedo or bomb launched without notice would almost certainly be effective. British and allied submarines and aircraft have orders not to approach merchant vessels. Consequently, it may be presumed that any submarine or aircraft which deliberately approaches or pursues a merchant vessel does so with hostile intention. In such cases, fire may be opened in self-defense in order to prevent the hostile craft from closing to a range at which resistance to a sudden attack with bomb or torpedo would be impossible.

"3. An armed merchant vessel proceeding to render assistance to the crew of a vessel in distress must not seek action with any hostile craft, though if it itself is attacked while doing so, fire may be opened in self-defense.

FORBIDDEN TO DISGUISE.

"4. It should be remembered that the flag is no guide to nationality. German submarines and armed merchant vessels have frequently employed the British, allied, or neutral colors to approach undetected. Though, however, the use of disguise and false colors to escape capture is a legitimate ruse de guerre, its adoption by defensively armed merchant ships may easily lead to misconception. Such vessels, therefore, are forbidden to adopt any form of disguise which might cause them to be mistaken for neutral ships.

"Admiralty comment: 'These instructions, which are those at present in force, are the latest issue. Successive issues have been made; not by reason of a change in policy—the policy throughout has remained unaltered—but by improvement in wording and greater clearness of expression to emphasise the purely defensive character of the armament of merchant vessels.

"'It is because of the distorted interpretation given these instructions as a whole and the very forced character of the interpretation given by the German government to portions which they quote from an earlier issue of the instructions that the admiralty felt it desirable, with a view to allaying neutral anxiety, to publish these in extenso.'"

Italy to Stand Pat.

ROME, March 1, via Paris, March 1 [Delayed].—The Italian ambassador at Washington, Count Macchi, has been instructed to notify the American government that nothwithstanding the German and Austrian decrees regarding the sinking of armed merchantmen, Italian merchantmen will continue to carry armament.

The ambassador also has been instructed to say that Italian merchantmen will use their artillery only for defensive purposes.

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad, March 2.—Nothing is known here concerning the reported capture of the German raider Moewe.

DEATH TAKES QUEEN MOTHER OF ROUMANIA

Former Consort Dies in Bucharest—Gained Fame Under Pen Name of "Carmen Sylva."

LONDON, March 2.—A Bucharest dispatch received by Reuter's Telegram company by way of Amsterdam says that the Queen Mother Elizabeth of Roumania (Carmen Sylva) died this morning.

CAREER OF CARMEN SYLVA.

The pen name "Carmen Sylva," by which the Queen Mother Elizabeth of Roumania was most widely known, was chosen by her in expression of her love for song and the woods. She was one of the most charming figures to gain fame as a poetess.

In her own words, she was born "far from a throne," for although she was a princess of Wied, one of the many tiny principalities with which Germany abounded, her youth was that of an ordinary robust country girl.

She was born Dec. 29, 1843, and in her childhood she showed predilection for the poetical fancies that had such an influence on her later life.

Romance Makes Her Queen.

Among her friends about her home on the Rhine, "the little, wild rosebud of Wied" had evinced an almost savage dislike to matrimony and had often exclaimed: "I do not want to marry unless I can be queen of Roumania." The principality of Roumania had at that time last been founded.

There is a remarkable romance attached, to the fact that some years later her suitor became Prince Charles of Hohenzollern, who was refused on the same fanciful pretext that the princess would not marry unless she could be the queen of Roumania. In 1868, Prince Charles was chosen ruler of Roumania and in the autumn of the next year he returned to Wied to remind the Princess Elizabeth of her desire to rule over that kingdom.

Beloved by Roumanians.

Married, and settled in the palace at Bucharest, the princess threw herself with great ardor into the life of the country. She learned to read and write Roumanian, made herself acquainted with the needs and requirements of the land, and became so beloved that the people called her "the little mother." Out of her own private purse she founded schools, hospitals, and art galleries, and devoted practically her whole life to philanthropy.

Her husband, King Charles I. of Roumania, died in October, 1914, at 75 years of age. Since then the queen mother herself had been in ill health, suffering particularly from cataract in both eyes.

Ship Ultimatum to Lisbon Cannot Be Confirmed Officially However—Situation Is Critical.

LONDON, March 2.—A number of dispatches from Lisbon and Amsterdam today reiterate the report that Germany has addressed an ultimatum to Portugal on account of the seizure of German merchantmen. The report, however, lacks official confirmation.

An Amsterdam dispatch gives a report from the German frontier that Germany will declare war on Portugal unless it receives satisfaction. It is said Portuguese citizens in Germany have been warned by their consuls that the situation may become critical.

According to Lisbon dispatches, there is much discussion among ministers and party leaders regarding the course of the government. It is said the German minister is on the point of departure. There are rumors of the formation of a national government in event of a rupture.

DERBY BEWAILS PLAN'S FAILURE

Blames Easy Exemptions Given Single Men For Slack Recruiting.

URGES STRICTER LINES.

BULLETIN.

LONDON, March 3, 3:04 a. m.—A proclamation will be issued Sunday calling upon April 7 married men between 19 and 27 years of age.

LONDON, March 2.—Keen disappointment as to the results of recruiting under the voluntary scheme proposed by him was expressed in the house of lords today by the Earl of Derby, former chief of the recruiting service.

The earl laid the chief blame for the failure to achieve the full results at which he had aimed to the easy exemptions of single men, belonging especially to the starred trades—men required for work on necessities required by the government—and agriculturists. He made an emphatic plea to the government to prevent bachelors of military age from evading military service by transferring themselves to specialized occupations, and declared that a strong effort was necessary to obtain a requisite number of fighting men, without whom the empire might fall.

Farmers Seek Exemptions.

Agriculturists, the Earl of Derby said, were the principal class to avail themselves of exemption, under the plea that they were indispensable for the production of foodstuffs, and that such exemptions should be watched.

The Earl of Selborne argued that there were single men engaged in agriculture who could not be spared, owing to the vital necessity for adequate food supplies being produced in this country.

Baron Harris, who himself has large farm interests, contended in a directly opposite sense, saying that not one single man was necessary on any farm.

140,000 Married Attest.

No figures on the result of the recruiting campaign were given, but it was said 140,000 married men had attested under the Earl of Derby's scheme since the beginning of the year. The government promises to revise the list of reserved trades with a view to releasing more men for the army.

ARMY OF 700,000 FINAL PROVISION IN HOUSE BILL

Peace Strength of Regulars to Be 170,000—Balance Volunteers and Guardsmen.

Washington, D. C., March 2.—Final agreement was reached by the house military committee late today on its bill for the increase of the army, and it will be reported unanimously to the house early next week.

In round figures the measure would authorize the formation of an army composed of regulars, national guardsmen, and federal volunteers, with a total peace strength of approximately 700,000 men. It provides for a maximum strength of 170,000 fighting troops for the regular army, for a minimum of 425,000 for the national guard within five years, and for organization of federal volunteers through an extension of a summer training camp idea. It is estimated that 100,000 men can be enrolled in the latter.

Plan to Mobilize Industries.

The bill retains provision for organization of industrial and technical reserves behind the fighting lines, and authorizes the creation of a board of officers to control an industrial mobilization in time of war or imminence of war.

The committee decided not to provide specifically for the construction of a plant to manufacture nitric acid from the air. A general provision authorizing the government to construct a plant for this purpose, with water, steam, or other power, was inserted in the measure, however, and the details will be worked out later in an appropriation measure.

Admiral Fletcher Praises Navy.

An encouraging report on the condition and efficiency of the nation's sea forces was given the house naval committee today by Admiral Fletcher, commander in chief of the Atlantic fleet. In individual fighting efficiency, Admiral Fletcher declared, the dreadnaughts of the United States led the world, while in the skill of its officers and men the navy had no reason to fear comparison.

URGES WAR UPON SOCIAL DISEASE

British Commission, After Long Study, Asks for Many Reforms.

ASKS FREE TREATMENT

LONDON, March 2.—The final report of Baron Sydenham's Royal Commission on Social Diseases, which has been conducting an investigation for about two years, was issued today. The report says that serious conditions have been revealed and expresses the belief that action by the government is the only solution of the great national problem.

Drastic Recommendations Made.

The commission makes a number of drastic recommendations, among which are the following:

Existence of a disease of this nature should incapacitate the person concerned for marriage.

Communications of physicians to parents on this subject should be privileged.

Moral conduct should be taught in connection with all branches of education.

Instruction should be given in regard to social diseases in evening schools and in workshops.

Free modern treatment should be provided in hospitals.

All army and navy recruits should be warned of these diseases and the warnings should be repeated every year or so.

Cites Effect of War.

The report dwells particularly upon the effect of the war on the problem. It says that while there is no reason to suppose the percentage of infection in the army and navy is greater than in normal times, all experience shows that after the war an excessive incidence of disease is certain to occur even in districts previously free from it.

CARRANZA'S CHIEF ENEMY ALONG BORDER EXECUTED.

Gen. Argumedo Killed After Court Martial—Zapatistas Split Up, Is Report.

El Paso, Tex., March 2.—Gen. Benjamin Argumedo, leader of the opposition to the de facto government in Durango and the La Cuna districts, was executed after court martial at Durango City yesterday at noon, according to a dispatch received today from Gen. Murguya, military commander of Durango state, by the Mexican consulate here.

Along the border Argumedo was credited with being supreme commander of factions opposing the de facto government.

The consulate also received an official dispatch from Mexico City stating that Zapata forces, defeated at Umelas, Puebla, are dividing into small groups. Gen. Arnuldo Gonzales, it was stated, has been named governor of Durango state.

"It is ridiculed on all sides that Felix Diaz is in Oaxaca," the dispatch added.

TELLS WHY ALLIES WERE UNABLE TO STOP GERMANS

Expert Says Lack of Trained Men Prevented Check of Various Campaigns.

All questions having to do with military or naval affairs will be answered in this column or, space lacking, by mail, provided a stamped envelope is sent.

BY CAPT. HENRY J. REILLY.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

W. H. D. writes: "Will you tell me briefly the military reason why the allies did not make an effort to stop the invasion of Serbia at the Danube?"

REPLY.

Primarily for the same reason that they did not take the offensive in France the spring of 1915. The same reason why they let the summer and fall go by without seriously attacking the Germans in the west, though the Russians were being beaten in the east and badly needed help. The same reason that they did not put enough men on the Gallipoli peninsula to beat the Turks. The same reason that the British have failed in Mesopotamia—lack of trained soldiers.

Millions of untrained civilians without all the equipment which goes to make up the material side of an army are of no value when it comes to stopping a highly trained, well led, and well equipped one. The only way to stop such an army is to have another one equally as large or larger.

While the central empires have smaller populations to draw upon than have the allies, they almost invariably succeed in bringing to the point they wish to attack not only more troops than their opponent but frequently much better trained ones.

We brought thousands of American citizens to stop the advance of a much smaller force of better trained when our capital was burned in the war of 1812. They not only did not stop the British regulars but hardly can be said to even seriously to have opposed them.

J. B. W. writes: "Have become much interested in artillery as the result of the present war. Is there any course that I could take which would ultimately fit me to be a volunteer officer of artillery in case of war."

REPLY.

Yes. Batteries D and E, First Illinois field artillery, have a course of instruction by which those members of the batteries who wish to learn progressively the duties of privates, noncommissioned officers, and officers of field artillery. They hope in time to turn out a number of men who can pass the federal examination for a volunteer commission in the field artillery.

D battery drills every Monday night and E battery every Tuesday night in the Coliseum of the stock yards. Some time next summer thy will go to Sparta, Wis., for target practice with regular battery.

G. H. writes: "During the Spanish war a friend of mine went to see a young man, a member of the militia in camp near Nashville. He found him in the hospital, sick with typhoid fever, his eyes and mouth covered with flies and he calling for water. This was in the morning. My friend asked an attendant sitting in another room reading a magazine where he could get some water, and was told that the water did not get around until afternoon. Another patient there said, 'That is right. We never get any water until afternoon.' Would this occur in the regular army?"

REPLY.

Such an incident as this could not occur in any well trained force. Such incidents are bound to occur where preparation for war is left to the last moment, and therefore frequently in the hands of the ignorant, careless, and vicious. In the regular army the person responsible for such conditions would be promptly tried by court martial and punished as a consequence.

C. E. M. writes: "Will you please inform me about getting into the aviation corps? There is a recruiting office at Cedar Rapids. Could I enlist there?"

REPLY.

To get in the aviation corps it is necessary to enlist in the signal corps of the army. Write to the recruiting officer at Cedar Rapids for full particulars with respect to the examination necessary and rates of pay.

and in the Woevre, the activity of the enemy artillery, which had abated somewhat during the preceding days, was considerably increased in the course of the day along the entire front, and principally on Le Mort Homme, the Cote du Poivre, and in the region of Douaumont.

At the last named point the bombardment was followed by several attacks of infantry of extreme violence. This series of attacks was repulsed by our troops, whose fire decimated the enemy ranks.

Our batteries replied energetically everywhere to the bombardment and shelled the enemy's roads of communication.

FIGHTING NEAR ST. MIHIEL.

To the northeast of St. Mihiel our long range guns bombarded the railway station at Vigneulles. According to our observers, two fires were started, several trains were hit, and a locomotive was blown up.

In upper Alsace there has been great activity on the part of both artilleries in the region of Seppois.

BRITISH WAR REPORT.

The British official statement issued tonight on the fighting in the western zone says:

We recaptured the trenches at the Bluff of the Ypres-Comines canal which were lost Feb. 14 and also captured a small salient in the original German lines.

A counter attack launched by the enemy some hours later was repulsed. German mine galleries in the captured trenches were destroyed. We have taken 180 prisoners, including four officers.

There has been much artillery activity on both sides today from Vierstraat to Boesinghe.

German War Report.

The German official statement, covering western front operations, received by wireless follows:

The situation is unchanged. In the Yser district the enemy's artillery was very active.

On the eastern bank of the Meuse the French once more sacrificed troops in useless counter attacks against the fortress of Douamont.

SAY "INTERESTS" FIGHT BRANDEIS

Witnesses Laud Work of Nominee for U. S. Supreme Bench.

Washington, D. C., March 2.—Louis D. Brandeis was described today by witnesses in his behalf in the senate investigation of his fitness to be a Supreme court justice as a public spirited man of high character who had incurred the enmity of powerful financial interests by advocating movements to which those interests were opposed.

Three of those who appeared for Mr. Brandeis testified that he had been assailed only by men whose interests he had attacked. Others, without referring to Mr. Brandeis' opponents, said his reputation was high both as to ability and character. Francis Peabody of Milton, Mass., last of the character witnesses for those opposing confirmation of the nomination, said Mr. Brandeis' reputation was that he was not trustworthy and sailed under false colors.

Plea by Harvard Students.

Senator Walsh of the subcommittee conducting the hearing has received a petition signed by more than 1,000 Harvard students protesting against the action of President Lowell of Harvard in opposing Mr. Brandeis and urging favorable consideration of his nomination.

"Mr. Brandeis got in wrong with the financial interests first because of his fight against the gas companies," Joseph Walker, former speaker of the Massachusetts assembly, told the committee. "Then he fought the New Haven, then the insurance companies by advocating savings banks insurance for workmen. Enmity was engendered against him also by his advocacy before the Supreme court of the Oregon law regulating hours of work for women and his membership in the Public Franchise league of Boston."

"Assailed by State Street."

Similar testimony was given by Asa P. French, former United States attorney at Boston, and Melvin O. Adams, a Boston lawyer. Mr. French said he never had heard Mr. Brandeis assailed by any one whose opinions or interests he had not attacked. Mr. Adams testified that a group of men in high standing, "who are near the network of State street, which is our financial street," thought Mr. Brandeis was not altogether straightforward.

COURIER WHO SAW VERDUN ATTACKS ESTIMATES LOSS

Says 800,000 Germans Were Under Fire of French and 200,000 of Them Fell.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

PARIS, March 2.—Marcel Combe, a motorcyclist attached to the general staff, who lies wounded in a hospital here, has given the first comprehensive estimate of the German forces engaged in the Meuse heights fighting and their losses.

Combe, by reason of his duties, traveled constantly from one end of the front to another, and thus was an eyewitness to all the important phases of the battle. Moreover, the figures he quotes are for the most part those collected by the French staff officers. Combe's statement follows:

"The Germans' original attack was conducted along a front of roughly thirty-five kilometers and was carried out by units not of seven but of nine army corps. There were fully 300,000 men engaged on their side on the first three days, beginning Monday, Feb. 21, and of that number one-half was killed or disabled owing to their system of massed formation.

Kaiser's Loss 200,000.

"One hundred and fifty thousand men were immediately added to the original number and the advance continued as before, except that there were fewer attacks en masse. We estimate its average losses on the succeeding seven days at 5,000 killed and wounded a day, which makes, roughly, 40,000. Thus the kaiser sacrificed at a conservative estimate 200,000 men in his failure to capture Verdun.

"One might imagine that these figures were exaggerated, but when one remembers that the Germans lost fully 140,000 men merely in defending their position at Champagne, the total does not seem so amazing.

"So far as our losses are concerned, I can only say that they are not above one to four compared with the enemy's. It is easy to demonstrate the reason for this. Compared with the Germans' massed onslaught, our counter attacks have been few and always delivered at the moment best suited to our purposes. Why, they made seventeen bayonet charges against Douaumont alone in trying to break the French circle around the fort to free the Brandenburgers imprisoned there.

800,000 Germans Under Fire.

"Our general staff estimates that from Feb. 21 to today there have been 800,000 Germans under our fire on the heights of the Meuse and in the Woevre.

"In the last few days Cote du Poivre has been made untenable by our batteries on both banks of the Meuse and also because of the endless waves of German bodies which form a line of ramparts there which it would be practically impossible to scale under fire.

"The principal havoc wrought by German cannon is in the citadel of Verdun. They began concentrating the fire of their siege guns on the houses of the town Saturday night, Feb. 19, and in twenty-four hours 80,000 shells fell upon the city itself. The residential quarter practically was wiped out, but few lives were lost, owing to the precautionary arrangements made by the orderliness of the evacuation by the civilian population which began the next day.

Wind Unfavorable for Gas.

"On that day, Sunday, the enemy made an attempt to launch asphyxiating gas at one point north of Verdun, but the direction of the wind was against him, and as far as I am aware no further experiments of this kind were attempted.

"When the massed attacks began it was, as usual, our seventy-fives which did the greatest damage. The German columns collapsed under our barrier fire like a house of cards. In the first charge against Champneuville I witnessed from the artillery observatory the effect of our storm of steel upon these interlocked battalions.

"The panic in their ranks is indescribable. More than once through glasses I saw the officers emptying their revolvers at their own men."

BERLIN HIDING REAL CAMPAIGN?

Two Day Lull in Verdun Battle May Be Due to Bringing Up Guns.

FRENCH FIGHT HARD.

BY KARL H. VON WIEGAND.

[Copyright: 1916: By Press Publishing Company (New York World).]

BERLIN, March 1, via Rotterdam, March 2.—Something like a veil hangs over the operations on the western front today. There is uncertainty as yet whether the crown prince's attack on Verdun is the real objective or whether the main German blow will fall elsewhere. The official communique has no mention of Verdun today. The battle is continuing but with markedly less intensity.

There is something like a pause in the crown prince's operations north and east of the powerful fortress, which is not unnatural when the nature of the ground and the obstacles to be overcome are considered. The Germans are regaining their breath for a new onslaught.

Bring Up Giant Guns.

From persons in direct touch with the front I understand the Germans have slackened the impetus of their assaults only to give time to move up the heavy artillery, which since the fall of Douaumont makes new positions necessary to bombard with better effect the next forts, fortified points, and armored battery positions comprising the northeast corner of the Verdun defenses.

The movement and placing in position of the tremendously heavy guns is a big task and requires time, because of the broken, hilly ground and the necessity of keeping the positions concealed from the French, who have the accurate range of almost every yard of territory.

None of the neutral correspondents have yet been permitted to go to the front, but from what I learn it would appear that the situation is quite up to the expectation of the general staff and the operations are progressing steadily.

Call French Demoralized.

The garrison of Fort Douaumont, consisting of a thousand men, it is said, were so demoralized by the terrific bombardment and hail of projectiles that they did not even attempt to use their machine guns when the Germans finally stormed.

All accounts still agree that on the first day the German artillery, with an eight hour bombardment, so demolished and made untenable the strong French positions of the wood of Haumont that they were taken by the infantry with almost no losses.

The French fought with tenacity and bravery, but they were helpless in the face of the awful artillery fire raining on them, obliterating the trenches, destroying the barbed wire entanglements, and resulting in the taking of the ten kilometer line from the Meuse at Consenvoye to Azannes.

Some idea of the nature of the German artillery barrier fire concentrating back of the French may be gained from the fact it was so fierce they could not retreat, this resulting in the taking of over 10,000 prisoners.

One Regiment Storms Fort.

On Friday, the armored turrets and underground cement casements being partly demolished and the guns silenced, the Germans advanced through the woods of Le Fosse from Ornes and through the wood of Caures from west of Bezenvaux and stormed Fort Douaumont in the afternoon with one regiment.

The French, all reports agree, are fighting superbly, but there have been stories of signs of demoralization by the inferno created by the crown prince's massed artillery.

The cost of advertising should be figured by the hour—for it works every hour.

Is ten dollars an hour a high price to pay for increasing the hourly sales of your salesman; for putting a spark of enthusiasm into a hundred thousand retail salesmen for one hour; for stirring desire in millions of consumers for an hour?

And it is because this influence continues hour after hour without break that good advertising accomplishes results almost illogical in their immensity.

Pillsbury's Health Bran

A Laxative

Bran is not a drug nor a medicine. Bran is not a cathartic. Bran is nature's own laxative. It prevents the food from massing and allows the digestive juices to get at it and perform their work. It stimulates the flow of intestinal fluids, gives bulk to the waste matter and produces gentle, regular, thorough elimination. Your physician will confirm all these claims.

Pillsbury's Health Bran is more efficient than any other as a laxative because of its exceptionally large sterilized flakes.

A Food

The sterilizing process to which Pillsbury's Health Bran is subjected gives to the large, clean wheat jackets a flavor that smacks of the meaty kernel of the walnut, and is truly delicious.

It imparts this flavor to bread, muffins, cup cakes, etc., in a way that "gets to" the folks around your table and makes them ask for more.

As if this were not enough, this appetizing food is also a wonderful laxative, gentle but sure in its action.

KRAMER BARES LIFE OF CRIME IN BANDIT TRIAL

Accused Bank Robber Takes Stand in Attempt to Show Police Frameup.

"Big Polly" Kramer, boasted pal of "Gyp the Blood" and himself an admitted product of the crime warrens of New York's seething east side, took the witness stand yesterday in his own defense and began a story of the underworld by which he hopes to convince a jury that the Washington Park National bank was robbed at the direction of Chicago police officials.

At the adjournment of court Kramer had sketched his early life in New York, his first arrest as a pickpocket, his imprisonment in reform schools and jails, and his coming to Chicago for the avowed purpose of entering the saloon business and "living straight." Today he is expected to produce the first evidence in support of the defense theory of a frameup, as outlined to the jury by Attorney Alexander Heyman, representing the witness and his three co-defendants, "Little Polly" Kramer, "Pinkie" Fein, and Alex Brody.

Mrs. Mack Called to Stand.

The introduction of evidence for the defense was accompanied by an incident unforeseen by both sides. It developed through the keen eyes of Rose Kramer, wife of "Big Polly," who discovered the wife of Eddie Mack, the informer and star witness for the state, seated in the courtroom. Attorney Heyman immediately summoned Mrs. Mack to the stand as a witness for the defense. She testified that her real name is Jerge, which is also her husband's real name.

"On the morning of Jan. 27," said Attorney Heyman, "when your husband left your home on Fifty-fifth street, did he tell you he was going out to rob a bank?"

"No, sir. I was sick and in bed. I thought he was going to court."

"Did the police search the house on the day of the robbery?"

"Yes, sir. They came in and went through everything from the sun parlor to the kitchen, and some of them took the book with the telephone numbers."

"Wasn't it some policemen who told you to telephone to Mrs. Friedman's flat?"

"No, sir."

"Do you know Police Lieut. Tom Sheehan?"

"I have met him since at the Briggs house, where I am staying. I don't know who is paying my expenses I am not."

Cantwell's Stenographer Testifies.

First Assistant State's Attorney Frank Johnston refused to cross examine, and declared the belief that Mrs. Mack's testimony had only strengthened the state's case. Miss Elsie Sjogren, stenographer in the office of Robert Cantwell, former attorney for Eddie Mack, gave testimony calculated to break Mack's sworn statement about pushing the clock back ten minutes in Cantwell's office on the morning of the robbery.

"I was telephoning," said Miss Sjogren, "when I saw Eddie Mack come into the office. I told him to hurry over to court, where Mr. Cantwell was waiting for him. I was looking straight at him all the time he was in the office, and he could not have touched the clock without me seeing him."

State Fails to Shake Story.

On cross examination the state failed to shake her story. The testimony will be used by the defense to prove that Eddie Mack's confession was false, particularly as to the way in which he reached his attorney's office. Mack in his confession said that he took the elevated at Fifty-eighth street and Calumet avenue and came downtown after the robbery with the other four robbers. This would have made five in the party.

Thomas Lally, news dealer at the Fifty-eighth street station, testified for the defense that only four men were in the party that entered the station at 9 o'clock on the day of the robbery.

Tells of Warning by Mrs. Mack.

Mrs. Josephine Friedman of 2404 West Congress street testified to receiving the midnight telephone call from Mrs. Mack warning Fein and Brody to flee from their rooms in her flat. She told of the arrival of the police shortly afterward, the search of the flat, and the arrest of herself and her husband.

On cross examination Mrs. Friedman admitted that she had lied to the police about the receipt of the warning telephone message from Mrs. Mack.

"Lieut. Sheehan told me that Mack had confessed the bank robbery and implicated me," said Julius Friedman, the woman's husband. "I told him that I knew nothing about the robbery. Then he hit me a smash in the jaw and cut my lip and knocked me off the chair I was sitting on."

At the time of adjournment Attorney Heyman had brought out no testimony concerning the robbery. Alfred Lingle, a reporter for THE TRIBUNE, testified that he and two other men from THE TRIBUNE had been in the vicinity of the Friedman flat at 4 o'clock in the morning of the capture and had been held up by detectives, who wanted to know what they were doing there.

The defense sought to prove by this testimony that the police had been watching the flat at 406 South Western avenue all night instead of having made a sudden swoop down upon it early in the morning, which resulted in the capture of three of the defendants and the recovery of half of the stolen $15,000.

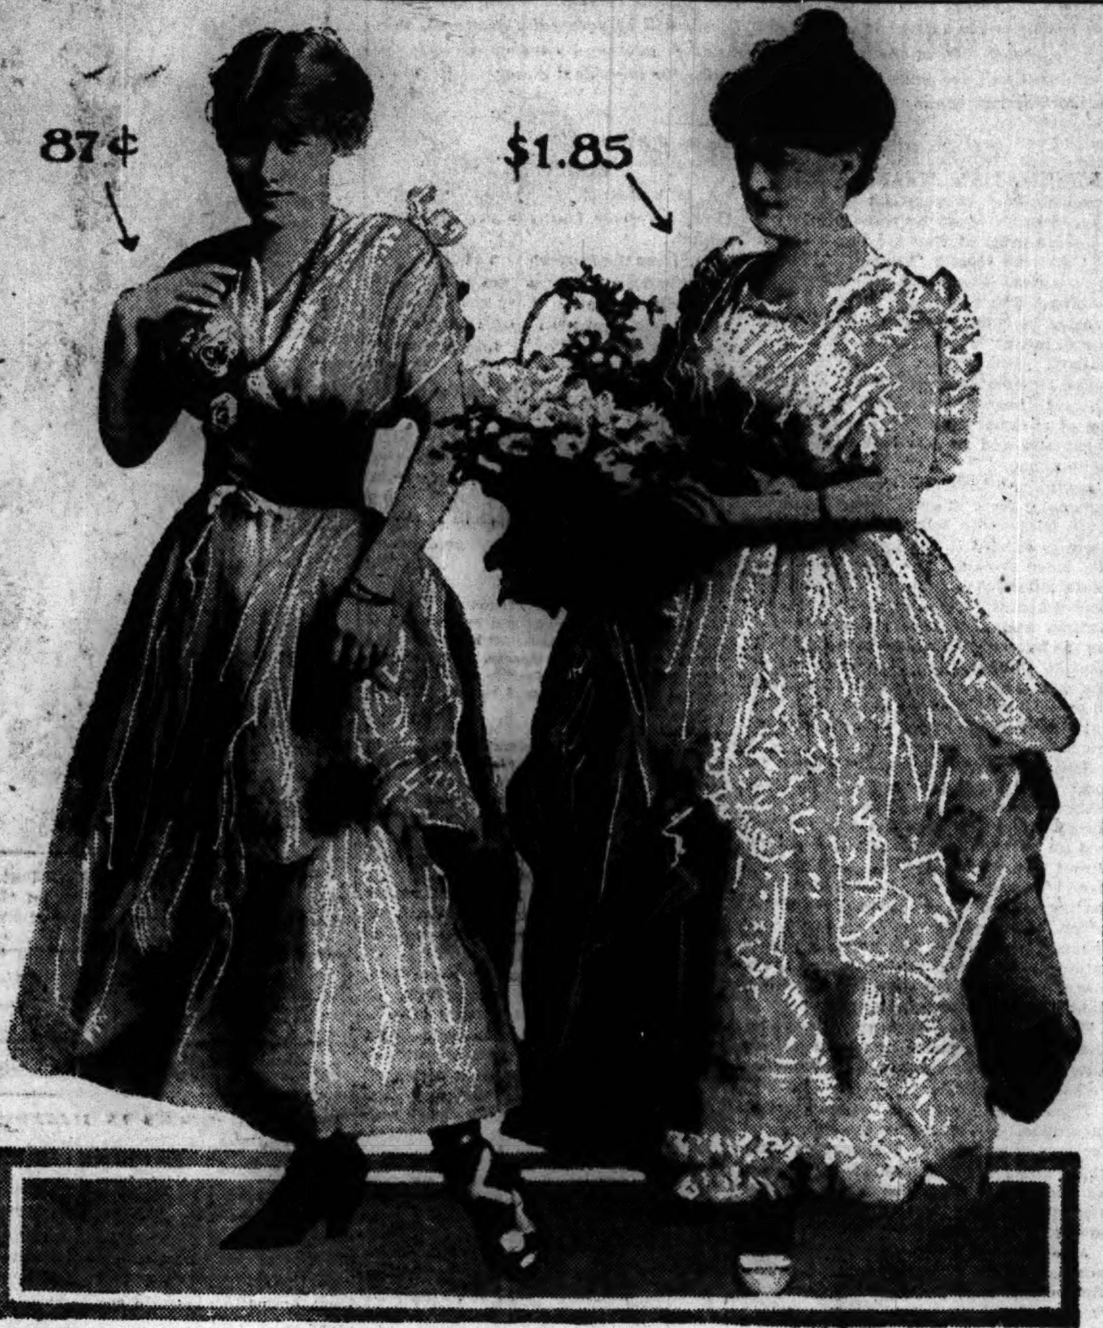
ECONOMY

Here Are Two Examples of What Can Be Done in the Way of Making the Dressmaker's Bill Less of a Nightmare.



If after looking over the dressmaker's bill you would like to know how with a little practical experience it could have been done for 87 cents, take a trip next Tuesday or Wednesday evening to the Lane Technical High school and view the exhibits of the evening classes. The dressmaking and millinery pupils will act as living models and wear the gowns, suits, or hats which they have made at a cost of from 25 cents for a spring bonnet to $65 for a tailored, fur trimmed suit. One hat was made of wire and lace taken from a baby carriage at a cost of 25 cents.

A tarleton evening gown was made at a cost of 87 cents, and another three tone tarleton, hand stenciled in gold, cost but $1.85. The cost of material used by the 1,050 students in the dressmaking departments totaled $9,000, while the minimum market value is placed at $15,000 for the completed garments.

There also will be exhibits in printing, carpentry, cabinet making, pattern making, forge, foundry, and machine shop work, drawing, penmanship, show card writing, poster drawing, and electrical experiments.

PUGH APPOINTED CHIEF OF CIVILIAN POLICE FORCE.

Mayor Says Chief's Personal Staff Is "to Instill the Idea of Citizen Co-operation with Police."

Chicago has a new civilian police executive. He is Commodore James A. Pugh. Chief of Police Healey named Pugh head of the chief's "personal staff" of 500 at its first quarterly banquet in the Hotel La Salle last night.

"These stars are not given," said Mayor Thompson, "to prevent the annoyance of being arrested if you drive too fast. They are given to instill the idea of citizen coöperation with the police force."

The mayor announced a proposal to give diamond stars each year to the captain, lieutenant, sergeant, and patrolman who make the best records in the department. He asked that a fund be started for the families of policemen who are killed while on duty. Chief Healey has been instructed to eliminate politics from the force, he said. There was 18 per cent less crime this February than last, he added.

MURDERED BY POISON PEN? OR DID SHE KILL HERSELF?

At Any Rate Anonymous Letters Caused Death of Spooner, Wis., Man's Bride.

Ashland, Wis., March 2.—[Special.]—The coroner calls it simply suicide.

But if there be, as has been argued, such a thing as mental murder, then surely it requires only a step farther in such a process of classification to brand as a "poison pen murder" the death here today of Mrs. Del O'Neill, wife of a Spooner railroad man.

She was a bride of only six weeks. Almost the day she returned from the honeymoon trip to St. Paul her husband received the first of a series of letters saying that his wife had been seen with another man under questionable conditions.

O'Neill finally demanded that his wife explain.

She declared it was a discarded suitor trying to wreck her happiness in revenge, but when the letters still came her husband finally declared he would not live with her.

MORALS COURT SYSTEM WRONG, JUDGE ASSERTS

Fisher Assails Methods Taken with Girls and Urges a Commission.

Our whole system of dealing with these girls is wrong.

The very instrument that we use to help them acts to drive them permanently into a life of vice.

In the Morals court we have merely worked up a lucrative business for the professional bondsman.

The foregoing is, in a nutshell, what Judge Harry M. Fisher of the Boys' court thinks of the much discussed tribunal down the corridor in the city hall.

In an uncompromising statement issued yesterday Judge Fisher declared the Morals court a failure and pointed to conditions revealed by THE TRIBUNE in a recent series of articles as proof that some other system of dealing with girl delinquents must be devised.

Suggests a Commission.

As a remedy he suggested a commission of three women to hear complaints and adjust as many cases as possible without court hearings.

"I see no reason," he said, "why the same process of notifying offenders to appear instead of arresting them should not work out there as well as it does in the Boys' court.

"As I understand it, the efforts of the Morals court are not so much to collect fines as to drive offenders off the streets and out of business. But from the little I know of the court the professional bondsman is the only beneficiary.

Court Ordeal Life Brand.

"The first or occasional offender is the one we are interested in. How can such a girl return to her home and live down the record of having been arrested and brought into the Morals court? How can she ever forget the ordeal she is compelled to go through when at a public hearing she is made to rehearse her indiscretion?

"That very act operates to destroy whatever modesty or shame she might still possess.

"If anything is to be done for the girl at all, her case must not be heard in public. My idea is that there ought to be a commission of three persons, women preferably, one of whom might be a physician. One might be selected by the city prosecutor, one by the state's attorney, and one by the judge of the Morals court.

"Such a commission should hear the complaint and, if the facts in the case justify it, permit the woman to go after giving her good advice and such help as the nature of the case would require without actually filing a complaint of record."

THREE INDICTED AS JURY "FIXERS" IN FRAUD TRIAL.

Federal Body Returns Bills Against A. C. Frost, Former Mayor of Blue Island, and a Lawyer.

Federal indictments were returned against Albert C. Frost, Oliver W. Bourke, and Bert D. Wing yesterday charging them with offering and accepting bribes and conspiracy to do so in the case in which Frost was acquitted three years ago on charges of conspiring to defraud the government of Alaskan coal lands worth $10,000,000.

Frost is president of the A. C. Frost company, with offices in the Corn Exchange National Bank building, and is accused of offering the bribe. O. W. Bourke, former mayor of Blue Island, was one of the jurors who found Frost not guilty, and he is charged with accepting the bribe. Bert D. Wing is accused of being a party to the conspiracy, in that the transaction took place in his law office.

The first count against Frost charges that he offered a bribe of $10,000 to Bourke if the latter would vote "not guilty." The second charges that he promised to pay $15,000 if the latter would influence the jury to return a verdict of not guilty. Three counts against Bourke charge that he agreed to accept the $10,000, that he agreed to accept $100,000 which he thought would be paid him, and that he agreed to influence his fellow jurors.

The indictment alleges that Archibald T. Fitzgerald, who is under arrest, has made a confession implicating the others and saying he was their "go-between."

"Have a Grape?"

A familiar box of candies brings thoughts of "Home, Sweet Home."

—"and, Sis, keep your eyes open for a box coming from the Martha Washington Candies Shop. I 'phoned them this morning and they are mailing it today direct to the college. This will come in handy in your midnight lunches."

Ever write a letter like this? Great sport. The poor girl can't get really good candy up there and she has to depend on the home-folks to keep her supplied with "Our Country! In her intercourse with foreign nations may she always be in the right; but our country, right or wrong."

—Stephen Decatur.

FOR AN AMERICAN POLICY.

Within a week, a few days, forty-eight hours, or over night President Wilson's policy with regard to submarines may be, perforce and without a chance of escape, the policy of every citizen in the United States.

We approach a point beyond which there can be nothing but action. It will have to be united action. The nation cannot in part accept and in part reject any policy which by event or by the determination of the government becomes the policy of the nation.

Just now the submarine policy is that of the president. It has almost but not wholly been made the nation's policy. It may be made wholly so any day, either by the act of a German submarine or by the act of the United States government.

For the present, however, it is subject to modification. There still remains an opportunity for public opinion clearly expressed to change it.

The agency for the expression of public opinion is congress. We believe the national interests demand that congress refuse to allow Mr. Wilson to commit the country as he wishes to do. If he does commit the nation his policy becomes ours. That distinction must be made and emphasized. If he commits the nation we haul down our opinions and must stand by his. But there is yet time for protest.

Congress can check this dangerous procedure. Unchecked it may not lead to war, but it contains the dangerous possibility of war. It is a possibility that cannot be ignored. We must look at the most serious possible outcome. We are not justified in taking chances. What is the worst thing that is within rational consideration? That is the question.

There is only one thing that can justify President Wilson's policy. It must be stated frankly if it is to be a justification. That is the belief, the assumption, or the fact that Germany's success and Great Britain's defeat will imperil the United States.

If that be so or if there be good reason to think that it would be so the nation is justified in aiding Great Britain and injuring Germany. It would be more courageous and more honorable to do so as an ally of Great Britain, but it is permissible to do it in the form of benevolent neutrality.

We can do as Portugal does and as Greece has been forced virtually to do. This nation does not class itself with Portugal and Greece. It is stronger and is not imposed upon by circumstance.

A good many Americans may think that the president is insisting upon a matter of national right, supported by international law, and that the national honor is involved. The president tells them this. It is not so. It can be regarded so only by an unusual and inexcusable insistence upon words.

The trouble is that the submarine is damned in American opinion. It is an illegal craft, a pirate, commanded by murderers. It is to be destroyed. It is not to be permitted to operate.

The truth is that if we were in war it would be still more desirable for us than it is for Germany to permit to submarines wide latitude of operation. We have a smaller navy. We have almost no merchant marine. We have an enormous coast line. Germany has a powerful navy. Germany has a wonderful merchant marine. Germany has a small coast line, and that coast line is impregnable. The largest navy in the world cannot reach it.

If our smaller navy were to be forced into a protected harbor by greater power or were destroyed our great coast line could be protected, so far as it might be protected, only by the submarine. This boat can be built quickly, transported easily, and assembled, and it could do the only effective work we could hope to do against a greater naval power.

We should want to attack the merchant shipping of the enemy. We have no merchant shipping to defend. We should need to cut the enemy line of overwater communication by which supplies were being forwarded to any base established on our shores.

This is absolutely certain as a human prospect can be: If President Wilson's policy become the nation's policy now it will be revoked by national need in the very first emergency which brings it home to us. We shall no more abide by it in danger than we should surrender at the first touch of danger.

It cannot apply to this nation and it will not be permitted to apply. If the situation ever touches us we shall not permit a peaceable ship to carry guns and sink our submarines while our boats are endeavoring to destroy an enemy's commerce and yet give strict consideration to every dictate of humanity.

If a peaceable ship intends to remain peaceable it does not need guns. If it has guns the submarine takes a chance every time it arises to command surrender. It can be wholly certain of its safety only if it sink the ship without giving it warning.

But sinking without warning is unnecessary if peaceable ships will go unarmed. Shall we now direct our policy to such consequence that some day an American commander of a submarine seeing a peaceable ship carrying supplies to an enemy established in a base somewhere on the American continent had either to expose his boat and his mission to possible ruin or permit the ship to go on undisturbed or to sink it without warning?

We do not believe that a policy so inimical to the present security of the United States and so embarrassing to its future ever was insisted upon before by an American administration.

It is true that the president has committed himself to a procedure which will help Great Britain more than anything else that could be done short of becoming her ally. It has as its possible consequences the chance that it will end in our fighting by her side and the chance that it will protect her shipping.

Germany's only chance of success may lie in destroying British shipping. If she cannot do that she may not be able to break out of her encircled position or to wear out any one of her strong enemies. If we, by insisting upon words that are as inimical to us as they are to Germany, stand between Germany and the British shipping we are Britain's ally in deed.

It may be it is the president's plan that we shall be. He may believe that a victorious Germany would threaten our national security. We are far from convinced that it would not. But let's have an understanding of what we are doing.

If we must help Great Britain to defeat Germany congress ought to proceed with knowledge of that fact. At least congress ought to know the seriousness of what we are doing. If we are not helping Great Britain, but are merely inviting difficulty, possibly war, with Germany to insist upon the letter of international law, modifications of which already have been accepted by the American government, congress ought to intervene.

This nation does not want war to protect the guns which a peaceable ship of another nationality insists upon carrying.

EVENTUALLY, WHY NOT NOW?

The dispute between the railroad managers and the railroad employés will be settled at some time by arbitration or negotiation. The only question is whether the men will strike before arbitration or not strike at all. Neither side has expressed itself definitely one way or the other; they are jockeying for position.

No comment is necessary on the effects of a general strike of railroad employés. They are obvious to any one. But because it is the public which will be stepped on, if the dispute cannot be settled peacefully, the public should make every effort to force arbitration.

The association of commerce has begun a campaign among business men to force arbitration before a strike comes. All the weight of public opinion should be behind the association. Only one benefit could possibly come from a strike. It would be the awakening of the public to the necessity of a national railroad policy. But the price would be excessive.

We repeat that the railroads and the men will come to terms eventually. The public can save itself enormous trouble by forcing a settlement now.

ANOTHER MEXICAN RISING?

The report that Felix Diaz is planning a revolt or party movement against Carranza is plausible. Although the Cientificos have been pretty thoroughly broken, they still represent conservative propertied and social interests in Mexico, which must be expected to play a part in Mexican affairs. Whatever we may think of the part played by their leaders in the past, it is incontestable that these leaders were among the ablest and strongest of the Mexican politicians and their influence is certain to increase as conditions of disorder persist and the need for peace becomes more urgent. They will profit by the weakness of liberalism.

That weakness does not seem to diminish. Carranza has got as far as Queretaro in his cautious advance on the capital, but his strength, as available evidence indicates, is not increasing, and some observers assert that it is decreasing. Villa is still in the field. American citizens, although Washington has been telling us that quiet is pretty well restored, are assassinated from time to time. Mines and ranches remain closed or in a few instances are operated at great peril. Zapata is still an unknown quantity, and THE TRIBUNE is reliably informed that Obregon, Carranza's main military support and probably the ablest commander developed by the war, has fallen out with the first chief and is under constant surveillance if not formal arrest.

The situation is not such as to encourage the hope that a solution of Mexican confusion is being worked out, and a rising in the south under Felix Diaz will add another serious complication.

Meanwhile our concern must steadily increase. The rights and interests of alien nationals in Mexico confided to us are going to be more vigorously asserted as soon as the war is over, or even before. Certain it is that when the war ceases a readjustment of international interests will take place and the Mexican situation will be one of the subjects of nonsentimental treatment. Neither Mr. Wilson's passion for "the 85 per cent of the Mexicans who have never had a look in on government" nor his complaisance in the mistreatment of his own and their nationals will be shared by European governments. If Mexico is still in a state of flux at that time we shall be required to act or let the powers act.

It is THE TRIBUNE's confident belief that Mexico will not be able to set its own house in order and that peace and progress will not come save at our hands. If we must intervene, now is the time.

Editorial of the Day.

A NEW ENGLAND FAVORITE SON.

[From the Indianapolis Star.]

Gov. McCall is admitted, even by his opponents, to be a man of high personal character and to possess a degree of political independence. Also it is conceded that he follows sincere convictions in whatever course he may pursue. But his record in congress shows that he did certain things that are far from supporting the claim of his fitness for the presidency at this time. For example, he voted against the fortification of the Panama canal. He unvaryingly opposed the creation of a strong and efficient navy, always voting for a smaller rather than a larger number of new battleships.

These two proceedings should in themselves make him ineligible for the presidency and the more so as he is supposed to have been sincere in his opposition to proper protection of the canal and other possessions. What could be expected of such a man in this critical time when preparedness is demanded by all citizens who desire to preserve and insure national peace and honor? Even if he should face about, as Mr. Wilson has done, and advocate preparedness, his record would still be against him, since he is in a measure responsible for our unpreparedness.

But Gov. McCall, as representative, did other things not in harmony with progress and enlightened opinion. He opposed pure food and drug legislation; he voted against meat inspection bills; he was a persistent supporter of the Cannon régime and the Cannon rules in the house; he opposed the admission of Arizona and New Mexico to statehood; he voted against a constitutional amendment for the direct election of United States senators; he opposed by the negative process of failing to vote all measures to limit the use of the writ of injunction in labor disputes; he was one of the small minority opposed to the service pension bill in 1912. Altogether, it looks as if Gov. McCall belongs to the list of reactionaries who never can command the full Republican vote or the votes of Progressives.

(Charles Whibley, "Letters of an Englishman.")

AND every year these messengers of woe become more numerous. How, indeed, shall you escape their ministrations? They buttonhole you in the street; they bombard you with tracts; they discomfort you with disguised comedies. Rather than not do you good they would break your head and fling your bones into the river. They do not tell us whence they derive their authority thus to perplex and annoy us; yet they demand that we shall prefer their dusty debates to the gaieties of all the ages, that we shall discard the delicate pictures of manners given us by the masters, for their sad glimpses into the obvious. And the world, meanwhile, is wiser than these professors of the newest comedy, who would scarcely be heard of if they did not beat the drums at the doors of their booths.

That, we have been told, is the essence of the "message." The drum must be beaten. Only those who have no message know the fastidium of silence. Here, again, we are confronted by a mystery. Why, we ask with eagerness, is the drum a necessary part of "doing good"? The day of the stealthy benefit, it seems, is over, and not only must your right hand know what your left hand is doing but all the hands in the town, right and left, must know also.

AMONG prominent Americans who do not know "the fastidium of silence" we might mention—But we should require an entire column, at least, for a really representative list.

RHEUMATISM MEANINGLESS.

THE term rheumatism is likely to pass into disuse, we are told by Dr. Brackett of Harvard in booklet 31 of the Health Education league series. The world of itself means nothing. The people use the term very loosely. It is impossible to tell just what a man means when he says he has rheumatism. And, finally, the cause of so-called rheumatism has been discovered. The time has almost come to quit speaking of rheumatism or of pains as being rheumatic and to call each case by its right name.

Acute inflammatory rheumatism or rheumatic fever is an infection of one or more joints with some bacterium. The germ is carried to the infected joint by the blood stream. The germ causes an acute inflammation of the joint and the tissues near it. It also brings about fever, aching, and acid, highly colored urine. As the bacteria are carried to the infected joint by the blood, they can be carried in the same way from the joint first involved to other joints or to the heart. It is this variety of rheumatism which causes so much heart disease.

How do bacteria get into the blood? In most cases from the tonsils. Our forefathers knew about rheumatic sore throat. They also knew that scarlet fever and all other diseases which caused sore throat were also liable to cause rheumatism. They knew that getting feet wet, getting chilled, all of these occurrences which caused sore throat, also caused rheumatism. While they toted Irish potatoes and buckeyes in their pockets as a means of protection they also wore red flannel underwear and galoshes.

Perhaps second in importance in causing rheumatism are those infections of the nose and air passages which we lump together and call colds.

Third in importance come gonococcal infections. Some say that gonococcal infections come second. The germ causing this variety of rheumatism is some form of coccus—a streptococcus in some instances, a pneumococcus in some, and a gonococcus in others.

A better name for this disease would be acute arthritis, meaning acute inflammation of the joint. That name means something. If the bacterium responsible for the infection in a given case is known the name of the germ could be added—as acute streptococcic arthritis.

The important angle to this change is that it promises to get us somewhere in prevention. Instead of carrying an Irish potato the man who is subject to such attacks can have his tonsils cleaned, massaged, and kept in order or removed, or the cause of his infection, whatever it may be, cleaned up, whereupon he will no longer be subject to "rheumatism." He can eat what he pleases, or at least he can eat red meat in proper quantity.

PLEURISY.

A. M. writes: "Will you kindly answer these questions through your valuable column:

"1. Does the examination of one's sputum decide whether or not said person has consumption?

"2. Is there any danger of a person who had fluid pleurisy going into consumption?

"3. Will an examination of the water taken out of the back be of any account?

"4. Is it natural, after having fluid pleurisy, to feel pains now and then and to become tired and short of breath from the least exertion?

"Any information on pleurisy you have time and space to give will be greatly appreciated."

REPLY.

1. If tubercle bacilli are found you have tuberculosis. Of that you can be certain. If they are not found you cannot be certain that you are free from the disease. For instance, consumption following pleurisy might be present for some time before bacilli could be found in the sputum.

2, 3. Yes.

4. Yes. The kind of pleurisy you have in mind is tubercular in sixty cases out of every hundred. You should regard yourself as having consumption, and regulate your life accordingly. If you do this from the beginning you will recover in all probability.

BEST ANTISEPTIC.

J. B. writes: "As a constant reader of your valuable column I herewith request you to inform me of the uses of and advantages, or disadvantages, of using corrosive sublimate, as a germ destroyer for external emergency, as wounds, cuts, or the like, and what is considered of alcohol for the same usage, for a germ destroyer. I am an automobile machinist and often meet with accident while handling dirty and rusty iron and wish to have something at hand for such emergencies."

REPLY.

Corrosive sublimate is a powerful disinfectant, but it is not used for the purpose indicated. The best antiseptic for your purpose is tincture of iodine.

SHOULD SEE PHYSICIAN.

J. S. N. writes: "Will you kindly advise in the 'How to Keep Well' column the cause of stoppage of circulation and soreness in joints of the fingers? I have been so troubled in three fingers of one hand the last few weeks. I am 66 years old."

REPLY.

I do not know what you mean by stoppage of circulation. I judge the soreness in the joints of your fingers is due to rheumatoid arthritis. You should see your physician. He may find your teeth and gums need attention, or the seat of your trouble may be in your bowels, or your gall bladder. Your physician will make a thorough search for the origin of your trouble.

LA MARQUISE DE FONTENOY.

[Copyright: 1916: By the Brentwood Company.]

ALTHOUGH Charles Kemeys Tynte of Halswell Park, Bridgewater, a territorial magnate of both Somersetshire and Wales, has only just been summoned to the house of lords as Lord Wharton, yet he takes precedence, as such over all the peers of the rank of baron who have been created since the two closing years of the reign of Henry VIII.—that is to say, of at least four-fifths of the barons.

This is due to the fact that his barony of Wharton is not a new honor, but one which, dating from 1545, has been dormant for about two centuries, when it fell into abeyance on the death of the last Duke of Wharton of Hell Fire club memory and one of the most infamous men of his day.

If it remained dormant for so long it was because a doubt existed as to whether it was heritable in the female line. This was determined in the affirmative sense by the committee of privileges of the house of lords in November last, when a decision was rendered to the effect that the co-heirs consisted of Charles Kemeys Tynte, the Earl of Ancaster, the Marquis of Lincolnshire, the Marquis of Cholmondeley, Lord Lamington, and George Lockhart Rives, the latter a graduate of the University of Cambridge but an American citizen, chairman of the board of trustees of Columbia university, former corporation counsel of New York, and at one time assistant under secretary of state at Washington.

The committee having made its report to the crown, it was free to the king to select any one of the co-heirs, irrespective of their seniority, to take up the dormant barony, and he has made use of his prerogative in the matter to select Charles Kemeys Tynte, and to issue a royal summons to him to take his seat in the house of lords as eighth Baron Wharton.

Probably the king, in making the award to him, was prompted by the fact that Kemeys Tynte bore the whole of the heavy cost of the proceedings before the committee of privileges of the house of lords last year, amounting to considerably over $100,000, and assuredly he was also influenced by the fact that the new Lord Wharton is a son-in-law of the late Gen. Sir Arthur Ellis, who had been attached to the household of King Edward from the very early years of the latter's marriage, and whom King George therefore had known intimately from his own infancy.

Arthur Ellis was one of the most familiar figures at court, and was known to numerous Americans not only because he always accompanied King Edward on his trips abroad but also because he was for many years controller of the lord chamberlain's department, and thus had to pass upon all the presentations, both at the levees at St. James' palace and at the courts and drawing rooms at Buckingham palace.

The new Lady Wharton was on the point of becoming a peeress a little over twenty years ago, for she was engaged to be married to the present Marquis of Queensberry's eldest brother, a very brilliant young man, principal private secretary to Lord Rosebery when premier, and who had been raised to the peerage as Lord Drumlanrig during his father's lifetime. He was instantly killed through the accidental discharge of his gun while out shooting alone within a few days only of the date appointed for the wedding. A sister of Lady Wharton is the wife of the British ambassador at Madrid, Sir Arthur Hardinge.

The barony of Wharton was created in 1545 in favor of one Thomas Wharton, who distinguished himself by his activity as a warden of the marches, and was raised to the peerage by Henry VIII., as Baron Wharton, in recognition of the manner in which he repelled a force of Scottish invaders three times the size of that which he commanded. The family had already then been flourishing for several hundred years. The fourth Lord Wharton, known as the "Good Lord Wharton," sided with Oliver Cromwell and the commonwealth against Charles I., commanding a regiment of Roundhead cavalry at the battle of Edgehill.

His grandson, Thomas Lord Wharton, whom Dean Swift described as "a universal villain," and who figures extensively in the pages of Macaulay, was raised to the rank first of earl and then of Marquis of Wharton for the rôle he played in overthrowing James II. and in bringing William III. over from Holland to share the throne of Great Britain and Ireland with his Stuart wife, Queen Mary II.

The marquis had an only son, Philip, who, after being created Duke of Northumberland by the old pretender and afterward Duke of Wharton by George I., achieved fame as the most eloquent of parliamentary orators, and infamy by his wickedness and his defiance of every law of God and man. Although twice married, the first time at the age of 14 to the daughter of a Maj. Gen. Holmes, and on the second occasion at Madrid to the daughter of the Irish-Spanish Col. O'Byrne, who represented in Spain the great family in Leinster known as the O'Byrnes, he left no issue by either union, and therefore on his death his dukedom, his marquisate, and his earldom became extinct, while his barony fell into abeyance.

Cardinal Manning's grand-nephew, young Lieut. Alastair Miller of the Irish guards, who has been distinguishing himself in the present war as an officer of the Royal flying corps, has just been married in London to Flora, daughter of William Peterson of Cherkley court, Leatherhead, in Surrey. He is next heir to his father's baronetcy and estates, and his mother was a Miss Manning, a daughter of the cardinal's brother.

His father is Sir William Miller of Glenlee, in Kirkcudbrightshire, and while his family is very much older the baronetcy dates from the eighteenth century, when it was conferred by George III. upon Thomas Miller in recognition of his many years' service as lord of the Court of Session at Edinburgh. As such he bore the title of Lord Glenlee, and although the latter was not hereditary, yet it was also enjoyed by his eldest son, the second baronet, when years afterward he in his turn became lord president of the Court of Session in Scotland.

Sir William has had much to suffer from fire, for when he was a youngster his country seat, Barskimming, in Ayrshire, was destroyed, while at a still later date his youngest brother, as an infant, was burned to death through the cradle catching fire.

Subsequent to the destruction of Barskimming by fire, with an uninsured loss of near $1,000,000, another country seat owned by Sir William was burned down, and the third visitation of the kind was when some fourteen years ago Englemere lodge, a place which Sir William had purchased at Ascot, near Windsor, fell a prey to the flames, the losses at that time including a wonderfully valuable picture of Mary Queen of Scots by Zuchero, two Titians, and a famous water color by Turner.

On that occasion his son Alastair, the one whose marriage has just taken place in London, narrowly escaped with his life. Since then Sir William has had no country place and makes his home in London.

SHOOTING DUCKS IN ILLINOIS.

Chicago, Feb. 28.—[To the Friend of the People.]—Kindly inform me whether the federal authorities have given notice that there is to be no prosecution of duck hunters in Illinois this spring. I am in receipt of information from a party in southern Illinois that such is the case, and desire to ascertain the facts in the matter.
E. C. W.

This department was very much surprised at the report that appeared in the papers stating that the federal authorities had decided not to enforce the migratory bird law, conflicting as it does with the Illinois game laws, and that hunters could shoot water fowl this spring the same as prior to the adoption of the federal statutes.

If I remember rightly, I think one clipping that came to this office stated that information had gone out from Springfield. I wish to state that this department has never received any notice from the federal authorities at Washington to this effect and the report is absolutely without foundation. The information that has gone out from this department in response to inquiries with reference to spring shooting in every instance has set forth clearly the department's position in this matter.

The state game laws as amended by the last general assembly provide for an open season on water fowl from Feb. 15 to March 31, and the state issues a license permitting the holder thereof to shoot water fowl in the spring as provided for by the state laws, and this department will not prosecute the holder of said license for shooting water fowl in the spring so long as the holder of said license conforms with the provisions of the state law.

The question of the constitutionality of the federal regulations is yet to be determined by the Supreme court, and what action the federal authorities may take this department does not know, but it is reasonable to presume that inasmuch as the Supreme court has not rendered an opinion that the federal authorities will vigorously prosecute until such a time as the court has rendered an opinion upon the constitutionality of the federal act.

ASSESSMENT FOR PAVING LAFAYETTE AVENUE.

Chicago, Feb. 28.—[To the Friend of the People.]—Lafayette avenue was paved last fall and I would like to know when the first payment is due and what would the street cost each property owner.
WM. CURTIN,

The assessment for paving Lafayette avenue between Fifty-fifth and Fifty-ninth streets was certified for collection Jan. 21, 1916, under warrant No. 48067. Bills can be obtained from the city collector by mailing to him the legal description of property assessed.

LOCATION NOT DETERMINED.

Chicago, Feb. 27.—[To the Friend of the People.]—Can you tell me where the post-office station C is to be located in the future, as I notice a sign "To Rent" on the building now occupied by them?
M. E. DILLON.

The future location of station C of this office has not been finally determined.
D. A. CAMPBELL, Postmaster of Chicago.

RIGHT TO PERSONAL PROPERTY.

Chicago, Feb. 27.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—[1] Has a wife any right to claim her clothing that she had and that she received while married upon deserting her husband? Under what conditions can she claim them? [2] Has she any right to come back after three days and break down the door to get into the house? [3] Can she claim alimony under these conditions?
R. A. H.

[1] The wife has the right to her own personal belongings and clothing, as they are her separate property.

[2] She has not the right to break the door down to get them.

[3] Whether or not the wife is entitled to alimony depends entirely upon the cause of her leaving, and, regardless of the cause of her leaving, she is entitled to temporary alimony during the pendency of the divorce proceedings. If a divorce be granted her, she may be given permanent alimony; if the husband is given the decree, then she cannot have permanent alimony.
TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

THE SITUATION IN POLAND.

Chicago, March 1.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—In Mr. James O'Donnell Bennett's correspondence of Feb. 29 there are some statements which should not be passed without explanation, lest they do harm. The very heading at the top of the column, "Hunger Stories in West Russia Called Untrue," is much too positive to be absolutely correct.

In his correspondence Mr. Bennett states that he has traveled 400 miles over what he calls West Russia and the conquered territory of Poland and has not seen one man, woman, or child who looked hungry, and even that the dogs and horses looked well fed.

Now, one must bear in mind that the territory of which Mr. Bennett speaks is but a small part of the lands of old Poland and that it was overrun by the armies but once, and even at that time the Russians were retreating too fast to have much opportunity to burn and destroy. Besides, even if we grant that there is no actual starvation in that small section of Polish territory, it is because the food that was left is being distributed to but a small fraction of the former population of the territory.

One must not forget that it is just from this and surrounding and contiguous border territories of Poland that Russia drove away an enormous number of population, men, women and children, variously estimated up to 6,000,000 souls. Be it as it may, the Russian minister of communication publicly admitted in the duma that there were over 150,000 freight cars in use transporting this multitude of poor people snatched away from their homes and lands.

We may mention, by the way, that as these men, women, and children were being transported in unheated freight cars in the middle of northeastern Russian winter, where the mean temperature of this month is about 10 degrees below zero, one-half, at least, of this multitude have been frozen to death, starved or were killed by diseases. And when they finally reached the places where they were allowed to rest, the conditions in which they found themselves were so appalling that there are authenticated instances (not a few) where girls of 10 years of age were found practicing prostitution to keep themselves from starvation.

Some of the statements of Mr. Bennett are frankly humorous. I presume that a great deal must be ascribed to inaccuracies arising from faulty transmission under the present war conditions. For example, Mr. Bennett claims to have found "a large number of the population speaking German, Yiddish, and French with equal fluency." I presume he meant that he has run across a few Jewish hotel porters who made German and French sound so much like Yiddish that it was difficult for Mr. Bennett not to accuse them of equal fluency in either.

To sum up, the correspondence of Mr. Bennett refers to but a small section of the eastern borderland of Poland, where, indeed, starvation may be barely avoided. But in Poland proper, the territory inhabited by about 18,000,000 people normally, the situation is appalling. There the invading and defending armies in turn have overrun the country three, four, and even five times in places. There famine and pestilence are stalking through the country deprived of practically all human habitation.

In Poland, we are credibly informed, there are no more children below 8 years of age; they died from hunger and disease. There the people are wandering homeless and roofless, hiding themselves in the woods, bushes, in the ditches and shell craters, without practically any clothes to protect themselves from the rigor of northern winter.

We should not be misled by even unintentional misstatements of Mr. Bennett. There may be some small districts around Poland where want may be comparatively less, but, taken as a whole, Poland's suffering is appalling and the need of relief great. The relief must be given quickly and generously without a quibble or delay.
DR. K. A. ZURAWSKI,
Vice President Polish National Defense Committee, 32 North State street.

NONCOMBATANTS AND RESISTANCE.

Fort Madison, Ia., Feb. 29.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—I never before saw an editorial in a great newspaper which contained so much sophistry in so short a space as that entitled "Submarine War: Latest Phase." Since when has THE TRIBUNE become a convert to the German theory or war, which is that Germany has a right to make war on noncombatants, but noncombatants have no right under any circumstances to resist when attacked? This is the theory on which Germany has acted both on sea and land ever since the war began, and it is a theory in which the common sense and love of justice of the American people will never acquiesce.

And yet THE TRIBUNE advocates changing the old and time honored law of the sea in the midst of this world war to enable the Germans to make use of submarines as commerce destroyers (a use for which they are totally unfit) without any risk to themselves.

In other wars commerce destroyers had to take risks. If a small and unfit ship was used for that purpose it risked being sunk whenever it encountered an armed merchantman. But never before has any nation asserted that noncombatants had no right to resist when attacked, and if our department of state takes that view in the present controversy over armed merchant ships the decision will certainly return to plague them if this country ever becomes involved in war.

HARLAN ASSAILS "BIG BILL" IN HIS SPEECH FOR T. R.

Arrest of Band Stirs Roosevelt Man's Ire as He Begins Campaign.

John Maynard Harlan's German band was arrested yesterday. This was the sensational feature of the opening of Mr. Harlan's pro-Roosevelt campaign in Illinois. The band was parading the loop and had been around the city hall two or three times when Chief Healey became annoyed. This at about 11:30 o'clock, thirty minutes before the Harlan meeting was to open at the Garrick theater.

"Whose band is that? Has it got a permit?" growled the chief.

The information at the chief's office is that the records were searched and no permit had been granted to any band.

"Go get 'em," commanded Chief Healey.

Policeman Gets 'Em.

Policeman John Lyndal of Central detail "got 'em" five minutes later at Clark street and Jackson boulevard and ordered the driver of the bandwagon to proceed to the Central detail station. Meantime the Harlan "safety first" banners had been whipped from the bandwagon. The band was in soak until after noon, when it was permitted to depart while a permit was being secured at the city hall by Mr. Harlan's law partner.

The bandsmen hiked for the Garrick theater. "Play like h—l," Mr. Harlan says he ordered the bandmaster, and the band did.

At this point Mr. Harlan's speech began. The entire lower floor of the theater was filled. Mr. Harlan was in a white heat passion and smashed away at the city hall, Mayor Thompson, and local conditions generally, before getting into his discussion of Col. Roosevelt as an available presidential candidate.

"His Honor Big Bill" Rapped.

"Our city administration here, that has found it rather difficult to arrest criminals, to ferret out crime or to prevent crime, is very diligent in heading off any effort to make known the fact that a meeting was to be held for the purpose of advancing the people's interest by nominating Theodore Roosevelt for president of the United States," said Mr. Harlan. "I have been speaking in this town for the last twenty years.

"Never in all that time has it been known that a band has been stopped for lack of a formal permit. The band was out this morning to give notice of this meeting. Emblazoned upon the banner across that wagon was 'Roosevelt and Safety.' God knows we have had no safety under Big Bill's administration.

"It is a pusillanimous act, a weak act—the act of a poltroon and the act of a very short sighted poltroon at that. He is the man that wishes to be chairman or wishes to be a member of the national committee representing the great Republican party in the state of Illinois.

Change of Heart on T. R.

"Four years ago I opposed making Theodore Roosevelt president again. But there has been a tremendous change since then.

"Neutral right has been flouted by belligerent might throughout the world. American citizenship has fallen to a heavy discount everywhere. This nation is now in real peril—a peril all the greater because many do not realize that it exists.

"The paramount, all absorbing issue in the next presidential contest must be preparedness for national defense—preparedness not only against aggression from without, but against disloyalty and against overconfidence within. Theodore Roosevelt can unite and solidify every class of our citizenship."

"Our need is instant. It is upon us like an armed man. We msut make ready. The agent is at hand—Theodore Roosevelt. Wake up. Put on your strength. Put Roosevelt back into the White House. Clean your government. Make it dynamic. It is flabby. Energize it. It dreams too much. It acts not. We want action. With Roosevelt is action, wisdom, and strength."

An authority on the number of twins to the population is wanted by the Rev. Bert E. Smith, pastor of the Diversey Boulevard Methodist Episcopal church, Diversey boulevard and Seminary avenue.

Next Sunday evening is to be "Twins' night" at his church. The pastor is out this week gathering up twins. He has two pair, who are to take part in the program at the church, and he has others on his calling list, but he wants more.

Every pair of twins in Chicago is invited to seats on the platform at the service, and they will be introduced to the audience, if they are willing, but if not they will be allowed to sit there and just smile.

The Misses Lorene and Irene Peshak are twins who will play the violin and sing, and the Misses Fern and Floy Keeler will do some whistling, as an omen of the near advent of spring.

MAYOR TO URGE 'GET TOGETHER' PLAN IN COUNCIL

Message Appealing for Union on Big Projects to Go to Aldermen.

Mayor Thompson proposes to undertake to establish city hall harmony through a message that he will submit to the city council next Monday.

In its chief essential, according to the story that came from Mayor Thompson yesterday, the message will be a suggestion that the aldermen "sit in" with the mayor in the preparation of a constructive program as a sort of legislative budget for the coming year.

"There is no reason for believing that a frank and fair discussion of actual conditions will not lead to a forgetting of recent factional differences and a get-together policy that the city is wearying in anticipating," said the mayor. "As far as I am concerned, I am for harmony all over the place. The message that I expect to submit Monday will present my reasons for this suggestion."

Another peace indication came through a cordial exchange of good wishes between Aaron J. Jones, late Thompson candidate for alderman in the Sixth ward, and his victorious opponent, Ald. Willis O. Nance.

HE ATE METAL IN RED HOT.

Charging that he was poisoned by "red hots," Isadore Soffer, a salesman, sued David Berg & Co., packers, for $5,000 in the Circuit court yesterday afternoon. Soffer says he purchased two links of the sausage, "commonly known as red hots," from H. Mirawitz, owner of a delicatessen store, on Dec. 17. One of the links, he says, contained two pieces of metal, each about one-half an inch long and one-sixteenth of an inch in width. He says he has paid $500 to physicians and has been unable to work because of his illness.

TWILIGHT SLEEP MAKES NEW OBSTETRIC RECORDS.

Used for First Time in Cæsarian Operation and Infant Cries After Birth Without Stimulus.

Medical history—at least two new phases of it—was made here yesterday. The occasion was the entrance of Baby Bronfeld into the world at the Mary Thompson hospital.

With a group of women physicians at her bedside, Mrs. Minnie Bronfeld of 1121 Marshfield avenue dropped off into a peaceful twilight sleep. Six hours later, when she awoke, she remembered nothing of the Cæsarian operation she had undergone.

"This is the first Cæsarian baby known to be born crying," said Dr. Bertha Van Hoosen. "Such infants usually must be slapped and assisted to breathe. But this child cried spontaneously and was active as could be, which proves that twilight sleep doesn't make blue babies, but prevents blue babies.

"And this is the first Cæsarian operation so far as I know which was ever performed without the assistance of chloroform, ether, or gas. She had only four small doses of scopolanine with a tiny dose of morphine in the six hours."

GAS KILLS TWO LABORERS IN CANAL STREET HOTEL.

Deaths Thought Accidental Because Transom Was Left Open and Cock Was Only Partly Turned.

Two men, apparently laborers, were found asphyxiated yesterday in the Depot hotel at 122 South Canal street. It is believed one of them accidentally turned on a gas jet again after extinguishing the light Wednesday night. Their names, as near as the police were able to make out the signatures on the register, were C. Sparsbomas and H. Harioll. They gave no address.

Mrs. Emma Fellows, who conducts the hotel, said the two, each carrying a suitcase, registered between 6 and 7 Wednesday evening. They left their baggage in the room and returned at about 10:30.

"Many foreigners come here who are not used to gas and so I always offer them a candle," said Mrs. Fellows. "I asked the younger man if they knew how to light and turn off the gas, but he laughingly shoved me aside and closed the door."

Return Suicide Verdict.

A coroner's jury returned a verdict of suicide while despondent at the inquest yesterday into the death of P. A. Kilner of Clarendon Hills.

MAYOR PUTS ON PEDDLERS' LID

Patronage Ruse Seen in Order Stopping Free Permits to Hucksters.

One of the chief perquisites of aldermen of congested wards is obtaining free peddlers' permits for constituents. Just before the primaries an unusually large number of these permits was issued by the mayor's office.

Mayor Thompson yesterday shut off the issuance of the permits entirely. Administration aldermen as well as "antis" were turned away. Among those who vainly sought the free licenses during the day were Ald. McNichols, Healy, Murray, Norris, Miller, Pettkoske, and W. F. Gailing, administration candidate for alderman in the Fourteenth ward.

Fitzmorris Gets Order.

They were all shown a letter addressed to Charles C. Fitzmorris, the mayor's secretary, stating no further permits were to be issued till "further instructions."

The letter also asked for a complete list of the permits issued in the last thirty days.

Mr. Fitzmorris explained the number had grown so large in recent months as to become an abuse of the privilege. Some aldermen, however, charged it was a new move on the part of the administration to distribute this kind of patronage solely to Thompson aldermen.

"At His Discretion."

Under the ordinance the mayor is empowered "at his discretion" to give out free permits for sixty days, provided the alderman and two voters make a written statement the applicant is too poor to pay the license fees—wagon peddler is $50 a year, basket peddler $10.

REBUFFS WOOER; AIDS HIS WIFE

Mrs. Marvin Testifies She Dodged M. J. McHale in Divorce Trial.

Visions of her name appearing unfavorably in divorce court records did not charm Mrs. Irene Marvin of 708 North Central Park avenue.

Diligently she dodged Martin J. McHale, she declares, so that, though her name now is in the court records, it appears as the name of a witness for the wife, Mrs. Kathryn J. McHale.

Thwarted by Mrs. Marvin's unresponsiveness, McHale turned to Mrs. Anna Baker, who wrote him a letter which turned up in Judge McDonald's court.

"Mr. McHale was not nice to his wife, but was very attentive to me," Mrs. Marvin testified. "He would call me up three times in one evening and endeavor to persuade me to go out with him.

"'My wife thinks I am a back number,' he would say, 'but if you will go out with me I will show you a good time.' I always turned him down."

"He was carefree himself, but of me he was very jealous," testified Mrs. McHale, in response to questioning by Attorney Elton C. Armitage. "One night my sister and I went out to a show, returning at 11 o'clock.

"He met me in the street, tore the sleeve of my coat, and said: 'I will kill you. Come upstairs.' Upstairs he took a butcher knife, and, prodding it near my ribs, he said: 'I will stab you if you don't write down that you were out with some other man.'

"I wrote it down, but it wasn't true. Later I found the confession and tore it up."

ROOSEVELT BARS NAME ON STATE PRIMARY BALLOT

Letter from Colonel's Secretary to Stevenson Disposes of the Question.

BY E. O. PHILLIPS.

Springfield, Ill., March 2.—[Special.]—Theodore Roosevelt's formal refusal to enter the Illinois primaries as the presidential candidate of any party was received today by Secretary of State Lewis G. Stevenson. It came in the form of a letter from John W. McGrath, Col. Roosevelt's secretary.

It is significant as indicative of the probable official policy to be adopted by Secretary Stevenson in ruling out the petitions of all Republican national delegate candidates who have filed as Roosevelt supporters in view of the McGrath letter and the Illinois presidential primary law.

The time limit for filing petitions for national delegates and alternates and for state committeemen expired at midnight. It is too late, therefore, for the dozen-odd "Roosevelt" Republicans to get in new petitions.

Harlan Checkmates Opponents.

John Maynard Harlan checkmated the colonel's friends, if the Roosevelt personal leaders in Illinois had expected to have Mr. Harlan disavowed specifically by the colonel before March 11, as is possible under the law, by filing his petition as a delegate at large without expressing a presidential preference.

The same course was adopted by John M. Glenn, candidate for district delegate in the Tenth congressional district. Mr. Glenn issued a formal statement saying that he is for Sherman, "but——," and then intimating he favors the nomination of Gen. Leonard Wood.

Senator Sherman, as the sole Republican, and President Wilson, as the only Democrat, comprise the full list of presidential candidates whose names will appear on the presidential preference ballot.

Peace in the Third District.

Republican differences in the Third congressional district were composed late yesterday and today petitions were filed for former Gov. Charles S. Deneen and William H. Weber of Blue Island as the district delegates, both pledged to Sherman.

The Harrison-Dunne slate for delegates at large was finished by the filing of a petition for Senator Stephen D. Canaday of Hillsboro, president pro tempore of the state senate. The alternates at large on the Harrison-Dunne list are James H. Wilson, Polo; Leonard R. Condon, Rockford; David J. Carroll, Oak Park, and George H. Moloney, Chicago.

One of the eleventh hour developments was the filing of a petition for national delegate in the Twentieth, or Jacksonville, district by State Treasurer Andrew Russel, who is also a candidate for governor. This probably means a hand-to-hand fight between Mr. Russel and Homer J. Tice and the Sherman managers in that district.

District Petition Filings.

The latest filings from the Chicago districts follow:

First district—Republican. Alternates: Lee H. Harlan, George W. Ellis, unpledged. Delegate, Augustus L. Williams, unpledged.

Second district—Republican. Alternate: George J. Levy, unpledged. State committeemen: Edward J. Zimmer, George L. Weed.

Third district—Republican. Delegates: Charles S. Deneen, Sherman; William H. Weber, Blue Island, Sherman; Wilson Brooks, unpledged. Alternates: William E. Holander, Sherman; George M. Tobey, Sherman.

Fifth district—Republican. State committeeman: Jacob Gartenstein. Delegate: Frank J. Bilek, unpledged.

Sixth district—Republican. Delegate: Meyer J. Stein, Oak Park, unpledged. Progressive. Delegate: John R. Swift, unpledged.

Seventh district—Republican. Delegate: Charles S. Stewart, Desplaines, unpledged.

Eighth district—Republican. Delegates: Edward I. Williams, Edward Benzo, Sherman. State committeeman: Fred B. Rosag. Democratic. State committeeman: Walter J. Orlikoski.

Tenth district—Republican. Delegate: John McGaw Glenn, Evanston, unpledged.

FACTIONS LINE UP

All Clans of Democrats and G. O. P. File Candidates for Committeemen in Contest for County Control.

The decks were cleared yesterday for another finish fight by the Republican and Democratic factions for control of the new county committees to be elected on April 11.

Sullivan and Harrison on the Democratic side and Deneen and Thompson on the Republican side submitted practically complete slates to County Clerk Sweitzer. It was the last day for filing petitions for committeemen. In addition to the regular slates a large number of independent candidates got into the field.

Mayor's Forces to Fight On.

The Thompson forces practically declared a continuance of the internecine warfare in the Seventh, Eighth, and Twenty-fifth wards by filing petitions for all three of the city hall candidates defeated in the aldermanic primary Tuesday—F. W. Krengelin the Seventh, N. A. Christianson in the Eighth, and Samuel M. Hamilton in the Twenty-fifth.

In deciding to put Hamilton in the race in the Twenty-fifth ward the mayor's forces agreed to withdraw the name of Dr. C. W. Leigh. Oscar Wolff's name also will be withdrawn in the Eighth ward and Morton MacCormac's name in the Seventh.

Fail to Get Together.

To meet the new move of the Thompson forces in the Twenty-fifth ward the Deneen and Brundage men, who are coöperating in all wards but the Twenty-fifth, tried to get together, but failed. As a result there will be a three cornered fight there. George K. Schmidt is the Brundage man and Isaac N. Bryan the Deneen man.

John F. O'Malley, on the Democratic side, seems to have slipped one over on the Harrisonites in the Twenty-first ward. He has ten men running against him, and has put a man in the race by the name of Richard Geiger, who appears two names above that of Ellis Geiger, the Harrison candidate.

All the Sullivan men got first place on the official ballot. The Deneen men got the lion's share of first places on the Republican ballot.

BOARD TO O. K. MAYOR'S PLEA

School Trustees Indicate They Will Bow to Big Bill's Patronage Request.

Morton MacCormac, dispenser of patronage for Mayor Thompson in the Seventh ward, is willing to take a $4,000 position at the board of education even if it means a sacrifice to him personally. Judging from the attitude of school trustees it will be necessary for him to make that sacrifice and accept the position of school board statistician.

While every word uttered by trustees yesterday did not indicate full approval of the mayor's choice for the successor to Parker Sercombe, no member of the board stated publicly that he would not vote as the mayor would like him to.

There will be a meeting of the audit committee this afternoon to take up the matter.

Gets Shamrocks from Ireland.

John Heelan, cook and janitor at the Hyde Park police station, received a box containing a cluster of shamrocks, fresh from the "ould sod" yesterday, and for a time was the center of attraction among Celtic guardians of the law. He distributed them freely among Irish policemen and had but little left last evening.

RHODES CAFE LICENSE BACK AFTER 3 DAYS

Cabaret Was Closed Along with Jordan's on Police Report—Healey Advises Renewal.

The license of the Rhodes café, 478 East Thirty-first street, which was revoked because Capt. W. P. O'Brien declared the management catered to the demi-monde and violated the Sunday closing law, yesterday was restored by Mayor Thompson. The Rhodes was closed a few days ago at the time the license of Jordan's, 3035 Cottage Grove avenue, was taken away. Capt. O'Brien said in effect at the time he would not be surprised at anything that happened in the Rhodes.

The restoration was made on recommendation of Chief of Police Healey, who said the proprietor promised to obey the law in the future.

Ettelson Defends Draft.

Corporation Counsel Ettelson defended the law department's draft of the proposed ordinance to close cabarets. He characterized the criticism of Hobart P. Young as "cheap professional jealousy." Critics of the ordinance say it won't hold because it doesn't define a cabaret. Mr. Ettelson's answer is that it is up to the council to do the defining.

Ald. Buck's statement that the corporation counsel recommended the pending ordinance closing wet restaurants at 1 o'clock came in for a slam at the hands of Mr. Ettelson.

"I did not advise any such legislation," he said. "I simply drafted the ordinance in response to a council order."

Licenses Revoked.

The licenses of August F. Krubaeck, 3501 North Robey street; Jacob Goldberg, 4157 North Central Park avenue, and James Morzynski were revoked by the mayor for selling drinks on Sunday. The saloons of Matt Evans, 711 South State street, and Gus Roehr, 2025 West Thirty-fifth street, were permitted to reopen. A man was robbed in Evans' place and Roehr violated the Sunday closing law, according to the police.

Cabarets Lead to Poison.

Viola Loper, 17 years old, had gone to a picture show and was on her way home with a girl friend, she said, when they met two young men in an automobile at Lincoln and Belmont avenues at 11:30 Wednesday night. The men suggested a whirl of the cabarets. Viola got home at 5 a. m. Her mother, Mrs. Rose Loper, a deaf mute, upbraided her just as she had on many previous mornings. The girl rushed into the bathroom and took a quantity of iodine.

Grand Jury Adjourns.

Revocation of the licenses of all vicious saloons, cabarets, poolrooms, and dance halls was recommended by the February grand jury in a report submitted yesterday when the jurors adjourned sine die. Public officials who have been active in the suppression were commended for their work.

LORIMER JURY BOX FILLED; TRIAL HALTS UNTIL MONDAY.

Talesman Who Can't Stand Tobacco Smoke Excused, but Place Is Soon Filled.

Once again a tentatively accepted jury was completed in Judge Dever's court yesterday for the trial of William Lorimer, charged with conspiracy and embezzlement in connection with the collapse of the La Salle Street Trust and Savings bank. Twelve men, one of whom had been selected during the morning, occupied the jury box when court adjourned until Monday. At that time, it is believed, Judge Dever, who is ill, will be able to preside, and the jury will be sworn.

The weak digestion of Frank W. Heinbuch, nonsmoker, was responsible for the disruption of the completed jury yesterday. Heinbuch, who had been passed upon favorably by both sides, complained that the incessant smoking of his fellow jurors was bothering his digestive apparatus. After some inquiry into the reasons for this disturbance, Albert Fink, counsel for Lorimer, and Assistant State's Attorneys Bell and Holly agreed to excuse Heinbuch. His place was taken by Herman Kalish of La Grange. Kalish is a wholesale meat merchant.

Interesting Booklet on Investments

THE desire of people to make the most out of their invested funds is universal. Many people, however, do not get the most out of their funds because of a lack of knowledge regarding safe investments. We are trying to meet this situation through a series of educational booklets on investment bonds.

Among our booklets we especially recommend for those who are not familiar with bonds one entitled "The Most Satisfactory Bonds." This booklet goes at length into the investigations we conduct into the bonds we sell before we put our own funds into them and gives in effect an inside view of the buying end of a large bond house.

In addition to this it gives numerous charts showing the growth of various companies and comparing the prices of different classes of bonds over a period of years. To any one who is interested in the safe investment of either large or small funds this booklet will be of interest.

You will incur no obligation by asking for this booklet. We shall be pleased to send it upon request with circular C-18 regardless of the size of your funds or your present intention to invest. Telephone Wabash 3980.

No other commodity has stood the test of centuries like Diamonds, which proves the intrinsic value must be there. We recommend purchasing the finer grades, as they are becoming very scarce and have doubled in value the last few years. "A Submarine Pirate"—A Moving Picture That Comes Back

Every now and then you see a picture that you want to see again—

A picture that makes you say "I wish George and Alice could see that."

But only every now and then.

"A Submarine Pirate" is a picture like that. (A good many Keystone Comedies are).

Maybe because a U. S. Submarine is an interesting sort of fish anyway—Maybe because Syd Chaplin is more than usually funny with his feet—

The most remarkable point about "A Submarine Pirate" is that we are advertising it two months after its first appearance.

Probably more than a quarter of a million people have paid money to see it—(and had more than their money's worth).

It's a fair guess that the man sitting next you as you read this,—or your wife there in the rocker—has seen "A Submarine Pirate." Ask him—or her—whether they would rather take a chance on a new one—or see "A Submarine Pirate" again! We'll stand on their reply!

"A Submarine Pirate" is worth taking quite some trouble to see.

It is a TRIANGLE KEYSTONE, produced under the supervision of Mack Sennett himself.

Other Triangle productions are supervised by Thomas H. Ince and D. W. Griffith.

Which—if you know moving pictures—is reason enough that TRIANGLE pictures are so uncommonly worth while,—always. Another reason is loveliness and charm of the actresses who appear in them. Make it a point to see "A Submarine Pirate" anyhow. Any moving picture theatre anywhere can get it; those that try hardest to please their patrons will—if you suggest it.

Good Stories—

Good stories to read out loud—strong tales of love and adventure.

Good stories—the chuckling kind—that tell of funny domestic situations—stories that bring a laugh to the group of women sewing or to the family around the library table.

Sweet stories to read alone in a quiet hour—the stories that bring soft tears to the eye.

And occasionally, stories about the children, as well as special stories for them.

believe in stories. One of the editors said the other day that at least five out of every six stories ought to be love stories. Do you think so?

Anyhow, the Companion is always full of charming stories of the highest literary value.

And fiction is but one side of the many-sided Companion. In its editorial scope the Companion includes every interest of the woman, in her home—or out of it.

RE-ORDERS

Every business man knows that the stability of his business is measured by re-orders.

If customers do not come back, something is wrong.

But if the most careful buyers in the field, having tried the goods, find them satisfactory and come back for more, the business is sound.

Advertising may be judged by the same sure test.

In 1915 The Saturday Evening Post carried the equivalent of 1682 full pages of advertising—1,143,502 lines.

Of this, 1429 pages, or 971,991 lines, came from firms which had also advertised in the Post the year before.

These figures mean that:

The Saturday Evening Post drew 85% of its volume in 1915 from the same customers that had bought its space in 1914.

That is, the re-orders of Post advertising amounted to 85%.

This evidence of the stability of modern advertising is not new. A year ago, similar figures showed that in 1914 the Post obtained 85.8% of its business from firms who had used its columns in 1913.

Of such a condition any business, whatever the product or sales method, might well be proud.

It expresses the consensus of experience of astute buyers, extending over a period of years.

It testifies to the establishment of advertising as an integral factor in economic development—as a profitable investment—not an expense, not a speculation.

It means that manufacturers may invest in advertising in full confidence of substantial return.

It reflects the stability, the soundness, the permanence, of advertising today.

BY J. G. DAVIS.

Morris Fink, the Philadelphia champion, threw another harpoon in the chances of Bennie Allen of Kansas City by defeating the champion, 100 to 77, in the final game of yesterday's play in the world's pocket billiard championship at the Inter Ocean building.

Emmett Blankenship of Detroit came back after his disastrous rout by John Layton and by a brilliant display defeated Frank Taberski of Schenectady. The Michigan player had a chance to pass his high run of 45, but stopped at 43.

George Clark Takes Lead.

George Clark of Brooklyn went into first place by trimming J. L. Chapman of Chicago, 100 to 48, in the opening game in the afternoon. Ralph Greenleaf downed the veteran, Jimmy Maturo, 100 to 73, the Italian showing the best form he yet has displayed.

Fink's victory over Allen came after a protracted battle, in which neither player sacrificed much through lack of care. Allen showed he is getting back into form, but made several misses that cost him points. He took one desperate chance in the twenty-eighth inning, when he banked back of the bunch on a combination in the right bottom pocket. He missed and Fink ran 12, bringing his total to 68, as against 73 for Allen.

Fink Comes from Behind.

This proved the turning point, as in the thirty-second inning, after Allen had played safe, Fink got a ball, and on his third shot split the balls and ran 13. Allen got his last chance in the thirty-fourth inning, when he opened with a two ball combination. He ran 5 and then missed a cut shot into the right top pocket, leaving the balls spread. This brought his total to 77, Fink having 81.

Fink, playing with studious care, gathered 17, and then lost his position and played safe. He left an open ball and Fink ran two and game.

Greenleaf Beats Maturo.

Young Ralph Greenleaf defeated James Maturo of Denver, 100 to 73. The Italian champion, after trailing most of the way, made a good rally and came within four points of the boy. Playing with a lot of nerve at this juncture, Greenleaf ran 13, and then, getting into the bunch, had to play safety. Maturo missed a long try for the eight ball in the right top corner and a favorable kiss left Greenleaf an open ball, from which he picked off the 10 he needed to win.

Maturo showed the best form he has displayed in the tournament, his high run of 28 in the twenty-first inning being a fine exposition of position play. Score:

Game to Blankenship.

Blankenship, who is the Willie Hoppe of the pocket billiard game, was given a good fight by Frank Taberski in the first half of the game. Runs of 11, 10, and 14 in the first inning put the Detroiter out in front, but the eastern player brought a round of applause by running 21 on his fifth essay and taking the lead, 39 to 35.

An attempt at safety by Taberski in the twelfth inning split the balls a little and Blankenship, going around the table like a master cueist, picked up 43 balls before having to play safe. With four safeties in between he had made 62 without a miss. This big run brought his total to 88 and he won easily. Score:

Plan $250,000 Ice Palace to Insure Steady Skating

BY JACK PROCTOR.

An ice palace, to be built at an estimated cost of $250,000, will provide enthusiasts of Chicago with skating facilities for months next winter, according to plans for a new winter stadium, which will be built under the oversight of the Western Skating association. The ice rink will be built at White City amusement park.

The ice rink will be 450x175 feet, and will have an ice surface of 240x110 feet, said to be the largest artificial ice field in America. The building will have clubrooms, checking rooms, a lunch counter, and other rooms for the convenience of skaters, according to plans already drawn. It will seat 3,500 spectators. The building will be of concrete and steel, with a brick and terra cotta front.

Would Stage Hockey Tilts.

Backers of the rink are planning to turn over their floor for intercity, interscholastic, and college hockey games several times a week. The success of a loosely organized league this year led to arrangements for the use of the grounds by teams.

The convenience of the new rink for league hockey games will be emphasized strongly. The local teams will be given a chance to hold their practice there, in preparation for what are expected to become exciting league tilts. The conveniences of the contemplated rink are expected to result in the formation of various circuits of local sevens.

Popular as Park Sport.

The men backing the rink figured that Chicago had only fifteen days of good skating weather during the closing winter, regarded as the most popular year for skating in Chicago. The huge popularity of the park lagoons, as soon as skating weather set in, led them to anticipate a steady patronage when skaters are assured of clean ice every day.

"Ice skating is the most exhilarating and the most healthful of all American sports," said Ernest L. Beifeld of White City. "It comes at a time when we most need outdoor exercise and most appreciate a break in our indoor existence. And ice hockey is the cream of the skating sport. The beauty of the long passes and the exciting chase down the rink after the put are not excelled by the climax of any other game, either for players or for the spectator. The new rink will prove an aid for popularizing the game."

Many Cities Boast Rinks.

Chicago is now the only important city in the country that does not have an ice skating rink. Montreal has seven large inside rinks, all crowded and prosperous. Other cities have from one to three. There are large and successful rinks in St. Paul, Minneapolis, Cleveland, Detroit, Pittsburgh, Syracuse, New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Duluth, Birmingham, and many other cities. Backers of the new venture felt that if these cities can support large artificial ice skating resorts, Chicago certainly can do so.

The names of the backers for the ice rink were not announced, but they were said to be local skating and hockey enthusiasts.

KIECKHEFER LANDS GAME IN THREE CUSHION LEAGUE.

August Kieckhefer, who has lost only one home game in the Interstate series this season, defeated Vernon Gasper of Indianapolis, 50 to 32, in their billiard match at Bensinger's last night.

Gasper, who is a newcomer in the league, is the Hoosier state champion. He never proved dangerous, although Kieckhefer was unusually slow at the start. He led, 9 to 7, at the twentieth inning. Neither player was able to do much and they were tied at 27 in the fiftieth inning. A brace of threes put the local player ahead, and in the sixty-sixth inning a run of seven left him only three to go. Score:

M'DERMOTT BREAKS WORLD TANK RECORD; M'GILLIVRAY VICTOR

BY KEENE GARDINER.

Mike McDermott, the I. A. C. crack, clipped a second off his own world's record in a 100 yard open breast stroke at the tricolor club last night. In the half mile Central A. A. U. championship, the feature event of the night, Perry McGillivray, I. A. C., beat out Clement Browne of the Hamilton club for first place. A dual prep meet, in addition to the big swimming events, was captured by Evanston academy over New Trier High school, 36 to 25.

McDermott's new mark for the breast swim was 1:10 4-5. A fast field furnished the incentive to record speed in this event.

Harry Hebner, I. A. C., won the 150 yard Central A. A. U. back stroke, and the tricolor relay team made it a slam for the evening in the major events by beating the Hamilton club and Chicago A. A. in the 400 yard team championship swim.

880 yards, Central A. A. U., championship—Won by McGillivray, I. A. C.; Brown, H. C., second; Simonson, N. W., third. Time, 11:25.

COLUMBIA STUDENT BEATS HEDDON IN CUE TOURNEY.

New York, March 2.—By a score of 400 to 372 Francis S. Appleby, a Columbia university student, defeated Charles Heddon of Dowagiac, Mich., in the afternoon game of the amateur billiard championship tournament here. Appleby at one time was more than 100 points ahead of his opponent. Heddon made a great rally near the end of the game, but was unable to overcome Appleby's lead.

Appleby, 400; average, 8 40-45; high runs, 35, 85, 33.

Heddon, 372; average, 8 12-45; high runs, 54, 41, 27.

CONCERNING WOODS AND WATERS.

WELL, here we are again with lots of plans to make Woods and Waters the meeting place of "brothers of the angle," whose password the world over is, "What luck?"

This department will be conducted along practically the same lines as last year, because we have reasons to believe that you liked it that way. That is, it will consist of a short article on some phase of practical angling, followed by answers to questions from those seeking information, and later on other features will be added. Among these will be the Anglers' Exchange. This feature was well liked last year and it will be enlarged and improved this season, providing we get the proper coöperation from our readers. Remember this is your column and, to put it poetically, "youse guys has gotta come across" with some "hellup."

As there is no closed season in Illinois and Indiana, fishing starts earlier here than elsewhere, and we want some "dope" on the lakes and streams of these states now; also on the trout streams of Michigan and Wisconsin. Trout fishermen (or all but one or two of them) were somewhat peeved last year because we neglected them, but this season they will have their innings—we started too late last year.

To be specific, the information we want is a few short sketches of lakes and streams. Below we give such a sketch of Lake Delavan, Wis., simply to show you what we want. In sending in this matter give name of the lake or stream; in case of a lake, dimensions in both directions, distance from Chicago, name of station, railroads that touch there, distance from station to fishing "grounds," and, if possible, auto route from Chicago, although we can furnish this if you can't.

Include a rough outline map showing depths, submerged weed beds, indicated by outline; "high grass," indicated by up and down lines; islands, points, reefs, bars, ledges, spring holes, etc. Also dams, rapids, reaches, pools, and the larger rocks, boulders, etc., on the stream. Also indicate what specie or species one is most likely to find in different parts of the stream or lake.

We now have this data on about forty different lakes and streams, but don't be afraid of duplicating. Some that we have are made up or pieced together from eight or ten contributions—that's what makes them so valuable. Those we have for distribution will be announced later.

Come on now, you fellows who have fished for bass or pickerel in Illinois or Indiana, or for trout in Michigan and Wisconsin, show your class. Give your brother anglers a hand.

ANGLERS' EXCHANGE.

Delavan Lake, Wis., is about 100 miles from Chicago on the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad. Fare, $1.70 each way. It is about five and a half miles long and a mile and a half wide. It is three miles from Delavan station. Bus fare, 50 cents. Most of the hotels are on the west shore. Some nice weed beds near this shore. One extends from Cedar Point to the outlet, with a few little breaks in between. Live minnows, pork strips, and wobblers are the baits for here. The outlet looks good, but few fish are caught there, so don't waste much time on it. The north shore is good clear up to the inlet—some good spots off the inlet. Spring holes are on the north shore, and wall eye pike are caught here. There are also some good spots on the east shore, near the yacht club. Pickerel and bass are caught in these weed beds, and pickerel and wall eye pike are often taken trolling with a Delavan spoon and large minnows. Plenty of good sized blue gills, rock bass, etc., especially on the east shore. Worms and small minnows or skip jacks are the baits for the smaller fishes.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Chicago.—[To the Editor.]—1. When does the fishing season start in Illinois? 2. What is the license fee for residents of the state? 3. Is the use of a light for fishing legal in Illinois? A. F. W.

Answers—1. There is no closed season in Illinois. 2. None. 3. For illuminating purposes only; must not be used to attract the fish.

Chicago.—[To the Editor.]—1. How can I learn to shoot a military rifle without joining the militia? 2. Has Chicago a rifle club for civilians? 3. If so, how can I join it and what are the costs? C. B.

Answers—1. Join a rifle club. 2. Yes. 3. Write the secretary of the Chicago Rifle club, A. R. Paton, 1629 North Shore avenue, Chicago. The dues, we believe, are $3 a year.

Chicago.—[To the Editor.]—1. Is it possible for one to learn bait casting in time for the fishing season by starting to practice now? 2. Is there any one in Chicago who will give lessons in casting? S. L. V.

Answers—1. In much less time than that for ordinary fishing purposes. 2. Yes. We have the name of an expert who will give lessons. Send self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Peoria.—[To the Editor.]—1. Will spring shooting be allowed in Illinois this year? 2. What is the trouble concerning the laws on spring shooting? L. A. T.

Answers—1 and 2. The federal migratory bird law prohibits spring shooting, but the Illinois law does not. We doubt if a state warden would arrest a hunter, but a federal officer would and we understand that there will be plenty of them on the job. Personally we are not going to take a chance on it. Spring shooting is a mistake anyway.

MEET TO FRAME PLANS FOR TURF REVIVAL HERE

BY HARVEY T. WOODRUFF.

Friends of horse racing, thoroughbred and harness, held an informal meeting at the Hotel Planters last night to discuss the best means to bring back the sport in Illinois and to keep this state abreast of New York, Kentucky, Louisiana, and Arkansas, where the formerly interdicted pastime again holds sway.

Representatives were present from harness horse bodies, State street merchants, Chicago hotelkeepers, motor speedway, and several turf publications. It was the consensus that a bill should be drawn for presentation at the next session of the legislature providing for the best features of racing and guarding against the evils which wiped out racing in this city ten years ago.

William E. Golden, who presented a bill in the house at the last session, read portions of another suggested bill. Numerous changes were advocated and plans made for another meeting of those interested when various committees will report. Bookmaking under the plans will be abolished, and wagering, if recognized, will be by pari-mutuel machines.

President D. F. Reid of the Speedway Park association expressed a willingness to install a mile track within the motor oval if a bill were passed.

EVER HAMMER SHADE VICTOR OVER WELLING

Beats His Chicago Rival in Ten Fast Rounds at Kenosha.

Kenosha, Wis., March 2.
The decision of "The Tribune's" fight representative is:
Ever Hammer beat Joe Welling (10).
Kid Dundee beat Dick Shubert (4); Bill Capet beat Joe Voreck (6); Bloom beat Fritz Rudy (8).
(Signed) RAY C. PEARSON.

BY RAY C. PEARSON.

Kenosha, Wis., March 2.—[Special.]—Ever Hammer, the bristling blonde tiger, sprung a surprise on the fight fans tonight when he scored a shade victory over Joe Welling in ten rounds of strenuous milling. Hammer's margin was not great by any means, but his aggressiveness and telling body punches earned it for him.

Welling did not put up the battle of which he is capable. He did very little leading, allowing his opponent to make the pace. His right cross—admittedly his best punch—seldom was brought into play except for body punching. He did use this blow in two rounds, the sixth and the seventh, and by crossing with it to the head he gained the advantage.

Ever Takes Four Rounds.

Hammer had a margin in the third, fifth, ninth, and tenth rounds, and four, the first, second, fourth and eighth, were too close to be determined other than even.

It was not the fight that the fans looked for. There was too much clinching and milling at close quarters, and Referee [illegible] was forced to do yeoman duty in prying the battlers apart.

The only real gore of the mill was spilled in the ninth round, when there was a collision of heads, Welling being cracked over the left eye. Joe shed a little gore from the nose in the early rounds, the result of a visitation by Hammer's left.

One of the biggest crowds that ever saw a boxing show in Kenosha packed the Rhode Opera house. There wasn't a vacant seat in the house and some of the fans couldn't get in. Chicago furnished a big part of the assemblage, 500 fans making the trip on the regular special train.

Mayor Schilley made the usual speech between bouts in which he asked the fans to "behave." That's what they did, and judging by tonight's show Kenosha is back on the fight map.

Fight Told in Rounds.

FIRST ROUND—Hammer started out to force the fighting, but Welling stalled him off with a left jab. Welling crossed with a right high on the head and then jabbed a left to the face. Hammer put a left to the body, then jabbed a left to the chin. They exchanged rights to the head just before the gong, and there wasn't enough damage done to give either the advantage.

SECOND ROUND—Hammer started out as if to settle the argument, but found Welling's left jab an obstacle. Joe jabbed when Ever came in. At close quarters each swung a right to the body. It was an even round, but if the hair line on the decision were given it belonged to Welling.

THIRD ROUND—The boys didn't waste any time in starting action. Hammer dug in close and at in-fighting they whaled away to their hearts' content, neither having the advantage. Welling stuck a good left jab to Hammer's face and got a right in the body in return. Hammer kept forcing the milling and planted two good lefts to the head, and when Welling went to his corner he was bleeding from the nose. The round was in Hammer's favor.

FOURTH ROUND—It was rip and tear at close quarters, and the referee was continually forced to separate the boys. When they started the round Welling hooked a left to the jaw, but got a right to the body in return. Most of the fighting in this session was at close quarters, both boys walloping to the body. It ended an even round.

FIFTH ROUND—Hammer shot a right to the body, and at close quarters they poked lefts to the jaw. Welling planted a right to the head as Hammer came in. Hammer kept up his bombardment at close quarters, and had his opponent showing evidence of weariness at the gong.

SIXTH ROUND—Hammer hooked a left to the jaw and got a right to the body in return. Welling began to use his right and landed it once on the nose and twice on the body in this session, and did so well that any margin there might have been belonged to him.

SEVENTH ROUND—Welling opened the session with a hard right to the body, which slowed up the blond. Then Joe planted a right to Ever's head. Another of Welling's rights found Hammer's chin, but Ever sent a stiff left to the jaw in return. Welling crossed with a right to the chin, and the punch hurt. Hammer shot a hard left to the body. It was Welling's round by a good margin.

EIGHTH ROUND—Hammer dashed into close quarters, planting a right to the body. An exchange of rights to the body was delivered. Welling again shot a hard right to the body, and the same fist followed to Hammer's jaw. Hammer jabbed a left to the face at the gong, making it an even round.

TENTH ROUND—Hammer went after his opponent as if he intended to finish the bout quickly. At close quarters Ever shot a hard right to the body, and the next moment their heads came together, a gash being cut over Welling's left eye. The blood flowed in a stream. Hammer kept up his furious attack and won the round off by himself.

Results of Preliminaries.

Morrie Bloom of Chicago gave Fritz Rudy of Kenosha a five pound advantage in weight, a bloody nose, and a nearly closed left eye—all of which means a beating—in the semi-windup. It was Bloom's fight all the way. They went eight rounds. Bloom scored two knockdowns, one in the sixth and the other in the seventh, but the gong proved helpful to the Kenosha scrapper.

The opening bout between Kid Dundee of Kenosha and Dick Shubert of Chicago, a pair of 105 pounders, resulted in a shade victory for Dundee. Neither boy displayed any science.

Bill Capek of Chicago found Joe Voreck of Kenosha a tough customer in the 128 pound attraction, but scored a shade win. They went six rounds and all of them belonged to Capek.

CHAMPION PERMITS DUNDEE TO SHARE RING FOR TRAINING

New York, March 2.—[Special.]—The railbirds who are curious enough to pay 25 cents a head to see Jess Willard training for his bout with Frank Moran for the next few days will get double action for their "two bit" pieces. Johnny Dundee is using the same ring daily, after the world's champion finishes, to prepare himself for next Wednesday night's tilt against Benny Leonard at Madison Square garden.

Dundee made his first appearance this afternoon and for a time it seemed as if it would be his last. The title holder was inclined at first to resent such intrusion, believing that Scotty Monteith was looking for advertising.

Jess Peeved at Intrusion.

Willard thought the Dundee stable was simply trying to "horn in" without an invitation. When he found that Jack Curley had given the lightweight permission to exercise this afternoon Willard quickly withdrew all objection.

Bob Williams, a new and husky sparring partner of Willard, made his debut this afternoon. Williams weighed about 220 pounds. Willard went two three minute rounds each with Williams, Jack Hemple, and Walter Monahan. Williams appeared between Willard's bouts with the two.

Some Spirited Training.

Willard took occasion to demonstrate his unusual strength at the expense of Williams. On one occasion he smothered Bob's arm, and, by gripping his rival near the elbows, lifted him bodily while he faced about in the opposite direction. Williams' lips were bleeding at the end.

The tilt between Willard and Monahan was even more spirited than usual, although there were no knockdowns. Monahan fought every minute and succeeded in landing a number of solid rights to Jess' jaw and face which the champion took with smiles.

Willard's indoor work today, besides his six rounds of boxing, included the pulleys and his customary abdominal exercise. He did not tackle the medicine ball.

Selling Extra Seats.

The state boxing commission announced it had granted permission to the promoters to provide an extra row of box seats in the arena. It was said that all box seats provided in the original plans have been sold and there is a demand for more.

The commission also announced that it had granted permission to Sam McVey, a Negro pugilist, to try to win $50 offered by Willard to any one who can floor him during a boxing session in his training for the championship bout. McVey said his reason for applying to the commission was that he did not wish to break any of its rules.

Moran Tackles Snowpile.

Saratoga, N. Y., March 2.—Frank Moran today went snow shoveling, adding another training stunt in preparation for his fight with Willard. A heavy snow fell during the night. Moran, Lewis, and the others in his company had to shovel themselves out of camp.

Moran will leave on Saturday for Dal Hawkins' gym at Westchester, where he will put in three weeks of boxing. He will have Bartley Madden, Bill McKennon, and Dan Daly for sparring partners. He plans now to do ten or twelve rounds of boxing daily until the fight.

HOMMEY DRAWS WITH MAYO.

Baltimore, Md., March 2.—[Special.]—Packey Hommey of New York and Johany Mayo, Philadelphia featherweight, fought one of the fastest ten round draws staged here for many moons, in the main attraction of the American A. A. tonight. For the full route the boys stood toe to toe and mauled each over the ring, and at the end neither had such an advantage that it would entitle him to the decision.

Ahearn Trains Jim Flynn.

New York, March 2.—Jim Flynn, who will meet Jack Dillon here on March 10, today began training with Young Ahearn as his sparring partner. Ahearn is credited with a victory over Dillon and knows the style of the Hoosier fighter.

Tanel Returns to Ring.

Eddie Tanel, a star lightweight of a few years ago, has decided to reënter the ring. He has been matched to meet Jimmy Giblin of Grand Rapids in a six round bout March 7. The contest will be held in private.

Overtime Game to Hyde Park; Victory Gives Marshall Lead

BY OTTO A. ENGEL.

ONE minute before the final shot which marked the completion of an extra five minute period, Center Williams of Hyde Park heavyweights tossed a basket and defeated Englewood, 11 to 9, in the most spectacular game staged in the semifinal round of the Chicago High School Basketball league. Had the home quintet shown a bit more accuracy in caging baskets Hyde Park would have suffered its first beating in the league combat.

Hyde Park shot to the front in the first half, which closed 8 to 5, four of the points coming from free throws. In the second period the Englewood defense stiffened and held the visitors scoreless, while a basket and a free throw by Bromsted, who incidentally scored all of the losers' points, tied the count at 8 all. In the overtime period Williams made his winning basket and Birkhoff a free throw. Bromsted made a point from foul for Englewood. Lineup:

Wendell Phillips kept pace with Hyde Park in the southern division by nosing out Bowen, 15 to 14, when Stewart shot a basket in the last minute of play. Apparently beaten at half time, when Bowen led, 10 to 2, the visiting five came strong in the final period and scored thirteen points, seven from free throws. The scrap became rough and Olin was forced to quit because of four fouls. Lineup:

MARSHALL showed championship form in its battle against Waller, winning, 19 to 10, in the home gymnasium before 800 students. As a result, Marshall took the lead with two triumphs. BOWLER GETS 226 AVERAGE

Forest Beye landed the high average on the local bowling circuit last night with a 226 2-3 series for the Bucketts in the Berger league. All three of his games were over the 200 line. His work enabled the Bucketts to win a straight series from the Bergers. Another good series was rolled in the North Chicago, where the Birk Bros. picked up 976 and won three games from the Becker Jewelers. Louis Huebner shot 220 flat. Stehl had 208 on the losers. Joe Steker's 276 game for the Seminoles in the Novotny league earned him a 218 average and gave the Seminoles three games from the Melichs. Faber's 219 1-3 in the Southwest, Johnson's 214, Purnell's 208 1-3, and Bender's 203 2-3 in the Vermont, and Hoffman's 213 in the Monroe were other features of the night.

GANNON TAKES TITLE BOUT AFTER 1:20:00 WRESTLING.

Hughie Gannon of Seward park won the postponed Amateur Athletic federation wrestling championship match from Al Forst of Pilsen Sokols after fifteen minutes of grappling at Hamlin park last night. Last Saturday night the 135 pounders tussled for 1:05:00, going to the mat five times, but Referee Malloy could see no difference in their work. Because of the lateness of the hour the contest was postponed to last night, but after fifteen minutes more the referee gave Gannon the decision. As a result Seward park placed second in the championship with eleven points. Gary Y. M. C. A. won the meet with eighteen points.

Woodstock, Ill., March 2.—[Special.]—Articles were signed today for a wrestling match between Johnnie Billiter of Toledo and Red O'Brien of this city for the lightweight championship of the world. It will be staged here on March 16.

Whiting (Ind.) Owls won their twenty-fourth consecutive victory by beating Elgin collegians at Elgin, Ill., 38 to 29. At half time the Owls were ahead, 19 to 14. Kinzel led the attack with seven baskets.

Despite the snow storm over 1,100 players appeared at Jackson park on Wednesday to register for lockers and yesterday there were 400. Locker checks this year are of brown paper composition and lighter than the old brass checks, but of doubtful use in rain.

HEINE THE GREAT AND FOUR MATES INVADE CHICAGO

Saler, Flack, Prendergast, and Wright Appear for Trip of the Cubs.

BY JAMES CRUSINBERRY.

Heine Zimmerman, star third baseman and slugger of the Cubs, as well as a prominent citizen of the Bronx in New York City, arrived in Chicago yesterday ready to accompany the Cubs on the training trip to Tampa, Fla., which starts Sunday. As is customary with ball players, Heine predicted that his team would win the pennant.

Besides the slugging German, there appeared on the scene yesterday, Vic Saier, de luxe first baseman; Max Flack, former Whale, but now a Cub outfielder; Mike Prendergast, also former Whale, but now a Cub hurler, and Bob Wright, a recruit pitcher.

For the first time since Heine broke into baseball he appeared for the spring trip dressed in a business suit. Previously Heine wore Broadway clothes, but he explained his case by stating that now he is a business man; in fact, he has been a business man ever since last fall, when he became interested in a billiard parlor in the Bronx.

Jewelry Missing Also.

Heine has discarded the horseshoe pin and the big diamond ring. He wears fancy neckties no more, nor does he wear or carry yellow gloves. There wasn't a sign of frivolity about his person.

"I've been a busy guy ever since last fall," said the great clouter. "No more of the frivolous stuff for me. I'm in business now and making money. I have a piece of a billiard hall in the Bronx, and in the fall we expect to put in bowling alleys. Why, I didn't get on Broadway half a dozen times all winter.

"Say, the fellows gave me a great sendoff down there the night before I left. You see, they framed on me, said there was a bowling match on, and that I was to be one of the players. I went along and they ushered me right into a banquet hall with a spread all prepared in my honor. I made a speech, too, but I can't remember now what I said."

Holds Confab with Boss.

Heine called at the Cub office and had a long talk with his new boss, Charles Weeghman, then he went out to dinner as the guest of Jim Vaughn and Jim's bride. The big southpaw pitcher has been in Chicago for several weeks, but kept away from the loop until yesterday, when he came down to take Heine out to dine. Vaughn looked to be no heavier than he was at the close of the season, and seems at least fifteen pounds lighter than he was a year ago this spring.

Saier arrived from Lansing in the afternoon, just in time to take in a matinee. He looked fit to open the season today. Max Flack didn't arrive until last night, and will call upon President Weeghman today to talk business. Flack is the only one of the regulars who hasn't signed his contract for next year, but indications are he and Weeghman will come to terms in short order.

Prendergast Is Confident.

Mike Prendergast arrived at noon, and expressed great confidence in his ability to fool the National league batters with his hook curve, just as he fooled the batters in the Federal league. Robert Wright reported to Weeghman and Tinker just so they would know who he is when he boards the train Sunday.

Clarence Rowland, manager of the White Sox, has signed a new pitcher in George Clark, a semi-pro star of Cincinnati. No one knows just how great is a semi-pro star of Cincinnati, but young Clark doesn't ask anybody to take anything for granted. He is 6 feet 2 inches high.

Stovall to Quit Game.

From the Cub headquarters yesterday it was reported that George Stovall had settled with the Federal league and would retire from baseball to live in California. Harry Sinclair, who took care of Stovall's contract along with many others, was in Chicago yesterday for a few hours and the settlement took place when he had a conference with Stovall. The amount received by the former Kansas City manager was not made public.

OLD DOC YAK GETS LICENSE NUMBER 348

OLD DOC YAK received his favorite automobile license yesterday from Springfield. It was 348. According to Secretary of State Louis G. Stevenson, who sent the tag to Sidney Smith, creator of Old Doc Yak, about 500 persons tried to get the "goat" of "The Sunday Tribune's" comic hero by applying for license No. 348, which Old Doc Yak has held and enjoyed for several years. Secretary Stevenson refused to be a party to any conspiracy against Sid Smith's popular hero.

JOE TINKER TO PROVIDE PEORIA WITH MATERIAL.

Peoria, Ill., March 2.—The Peoria Baseball Fans' association tonight closed a contract with Joe Tinker, manager of the Chicago Cubs, and he will back the Peoria Three Eyes league team this season. Tinker agrees to provide a club of high class material and the Fans' association in return will award Tinker one-half of the net profits at the end of the season. Over 3,000 persons attended the ball given by the Fans' association tonight.

JOE BENZ SENDS CALL FOR HELP TO SLAB ROOKIE

Wires Danforth to Join Him in Training Work at Camp of White Sox.

BY I. E. SANBORN.

Mineral Wells, Tex., March 2.—[Special.]—After his second day's workout Joe Benz felt sore, but nowhere nearly as sore as the local celebrities who started out to set the pace for him yesterday. Only two of the original six showed up this afternoon and one of those is a semi-professional who has done time in the Central Texas league. The other is the owner of a jitney bus of the vintage of 1906 who finds baseball practice soft compared to cranking said jit.

One of the absentees who was particularly full of pep yesterday is an aviator of considerable local renown who found himself unable to get out of the hay after pitching to Benz yesterday. This celebrity is reversing the usual process. Many pitchers have turned aviators in the final rounds of a close game, but few airmen have tried to become slabmen.

Sends Call for Danforth.

Benz had to spend most of his time chasing himself around the ball park and tonight he wired an S. O. S. call to Dave Danforth, whose home is in Palestine, a short distance from here. As Danforth is a left handed pitcher there is no motive in Benz's attempt to have him report early other than the desire for help in training. If Danforth were right handed Benz might be scheming to break an arm or a leg or two to handicap the recruit from Louisville.

Mineral Wells people have expended considerable money in providing new training grounds for the White Sox this year. The old ball park was more than a mile from the center of things and was too small and sandy for the best results in practice. The new inclosure is nearer the Sox hotel and in a different location. There is a top soil out of which an attempt has been made by a professional landscape manicurist to coax some grass.

Infield Needs Attention.

At present there are only a few more blades of grass in sight than can be found at the corner of Madison and Dearborn streets on any dark night, but it is wonderful what coaxing will do in a short while sometimes. The infield still needs a lot of constant application of rolling stock before it will be safe for players to face hot grounders, but there is time to remedy this before the arrival of the infielders if the applications are constant enough.

Local promoters deny any insinuation in their choice of location. The new Sox training grounds are directly opposite the Mineral Wells cemetery.

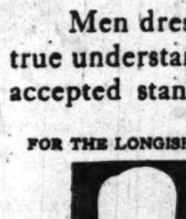
Personal Expression vs. Blind Acceptance

WHICH collar style best becomes you? That is your Style. And it must be comfortable, for the man ill at ease can never be considered smartly groomed.

Perhaps no collar house has ever equalled the manner in which E & W 2 for 25c Collars have successfully varied the acceptable styles. But while E & W Collars continuously undergo revision to meet the latest fashion trend, the E & W line has never included a single "freak" design—and never will.

Men dress more carefully than they used to. And wherever you find a true understanding of style, there also you will find these 2 for 25c Collars an accepted standard. Many haberdashers call them "Troy's Best Product."

FOR THE LONGISH FACE



GOOD
PORTWOOD
A very becoming style to the longish face.

GOOD
LOGWOOD
Another collar which well becomes the longish face.

NOT GOOD
Note how a high, close-front collar exaggerates the longish face.

THREE TYPES OF FACES.

We may divide faces into three types—the medium, the long and the round.

Lucky is the man with the medium face—for the vast majority of E & W 2 for 25c Collars will become him—are his styles.

To the man of longer face and neck we recommend the E & W Collars of greater height. A smart swing away of the front breaks up and thus minimizes the long appearance of a face. Bow ties or large-knotted cravats best become men of this type.

A moderately low collar with straight front best becomes the man with full face.

But whatever your type of face, never forget this: Your collars should be in line with the fashion trend. But newness alone does not make style.

The best Style is your Style.

Thus saying, he packed his grip—or, rather, his man packed his trunks—and with his mother, Mrs. Ava W. Farwell, whose maid also did some packing, went to Nassau, capital of one of the Bahama isles.

But Mrs. Loretta R. Farwell, his wife, says he left her without a penny. Now she could not even contract debts in his name. It was a sorry situation, daily growing sorrier.

A few days ago Mrs. Farwell the elder returned to Chicago alone. Yesterday her daughter-in-law sued her for $100,000, charging alienation of her husband's affections.

One hundred thousand dollars, she thought, would compensate her for her powerlessness to contract debts in her husband's name.

"Mamma wanted him," said her attorney, Ralph R. Bradley, briefly. "She has wanted him during all the years, about ten, I think, that he has been married. She held the purse strings, and so at last he was compelled to do her pleasure.

Calls Her Meddlesome.

"She is a meddlesome person, and at last she has accomplished her purpose.

"Farwell left his wife at their home 1625 Asbury avenue, last June. After that we were conducting negotiations for a settlement. He gladly would have got a divorce, but he had no legal grounds.

"Suddenly he ducked out of town, leaving his wife penniless. Well, we've got a good case against his mother and she'll pay."

Mrs. Ava Farwell resides at 2828 Sheridan road. She is the widow of John A. Farwell, a jeweler. Her father was Beverly Chambers, a wealthy jewel merchant. From him she inherited her money, which is said to amount to little short of a million.

COUNTY ROADS OF CONCRETE

Committee of Board Decides on Thoroughfare Construction for the Year.

The roads and bridges committee of the county board yesterday decided to pave state aid roads with concrete. The roads to be improved this year are Halsted street, Western avenue, Milwaukee avenue, and Twelfth street. Archer avenue will be paved with concrete purchased with funds realized from the sale of part of a $2,000,000 bond issue for the improvement of roads in Cook county. The county will have $218,000 to spend on state aid roads this year. Most of this will be spent on improvements for that part of the roads which are in villages. The $2,000,000 for the improvement of other roads will not be available until July 1.

ARMY OFFICER UPLIFTS BOYS BY MILITARY DRILL

MANY STATES WANT HIM.

BY HENRY M. HYDE.

Yesterday, two months after the letters of inquiry were sent out, three postal card replies came to THE TRIBUNE from parents of high school boys. All three were in favor of the establishment of the setting up exercises and simple military drill in the high schools of Chicago.

Hardly a day has passed since the first of the year that a number of replies have not come in. Altogether, the parents of more than 3,000 high school boys have replied, and the percentage in favor of the plan remains above 87.

On Monday next the subcommittee of the board of education which has been appointed to report on the plan will meet. It will be addressed by Lieut. Edgar Z. Steever of the Eleventh infantry, U. S. A., who is the father of the scheme of military training which has been adopted by every high school in the state of Wyoming.

Much in Demand.

Steever's plan has been so successful and has won such universal favor in Wyoming that adjacent cities in Nebraska and Montana are now asking that he be loaned to them by the war department. In fact, there has arisen such a great demand for his services that it was somewhat difficult to borrow him for a couple of days' stay in Chicago. Just now he has been called away from Wyoming, at least temporarily, and is busy on the big job of organizing the boys in the high schools of Washington, D. C.

The local subcommittee of the board of education, of which John W. Eckhart is chairman, has already prepared its report in favor of a modified plan of training in the Chicago high schools, and is expected to call it up for adoption on Monday.

In the high schools of Wyoming the Steever plan of military drill and training is long past the experimental stage. It was in 1911 that Lieut. Steever was assigned by the department as inspector-instructor of the militia of the state. He had some extra time on his hands, and he conceived the idea of organizing a cadet corps among the high school boys of Cheyenne. The proposal instantly aroused all the reasonable and unreasonable objections imaginable.

Opposed by Classes.

Labor unions opposed it on the ground that it would provide a training school for strike breaking militia. Some parents were afraid that it would instill bloodthirsty and martial ideas into the minds of their sons. Preachers and pacifists declared they saw a scheme to create a vast standing army. There was a tremendous row raised.

Steever answered them all. He said the proposed cadet corps should be made up only of volunteers and that it should have no connection in any way with the state militia. He told parents that they would make citizens out of their sons, not soldiers.

"Your boys," he said, "will be taught the advantages of a strong body and a clean mind, the value of self-control and of decent restraints, civic duties and responsibilities. Our goal will be the full development of the fraternal instinct—the community of interest spirit—so that every youngster will grow up in the understanding that no group, whether it be a cadet company, city, state, or nation, is stronger than its weakest member."

Trained for Civil Life.

He opposed the pacifists by pointing out that their purpose was to train the boys of the state so that they should be better fitted to devote their manhood to orderly civil pursuits; that the proposed plan would substitute for militarism something stronger and finer—patriotism.

Now, after five years of experience, 90 per cent of all the high school boys of the state are voluntarily and enthusiastically taking the course.

The first result has been a great improvement in the physical health and stamina of the high school boys of the state. Out of the boys in the senior classes, only five out of every twenty-five have chests that measure less than forty inches. In a good many instances boys who had some physical weakness were permanently cured by exercise and drill in the open air.

Each corps is divided into rival squads, which engage in regular competitions, not only in the military drill but—strange to say—in scholarship tests as well. They are marked on the performance of the whole squad—of all its members. As a result, they have learned the enormous value of team play, of mutual helpfulness and inspiration.

Truancy Wiped Out.

The high school principals of the state unite in saying that the installation of the system of military drill has made truancy almost unknown. It has also resulted in keeping almost all the boys in school until the end of the four year course.

Another result, which should be of peculiar interest to Chicago, is the fact that the drill and training have wiped out almost entirely, delinquency among the high school boys. Before the Steever system was adopted about eight out of every 100 high school boys used to get into the juvenile courts every year. Now the percentage is negligible.

Listen, last of all, to a statement made by the state superintendent of public instruction in Wyoming—and she a woman:

"May I take this opportunity to express my hearty indorsement of the cadet work which is being done in Wyoming? For some time I have been watching the influence which it has exerted upon the young men enrolled in the various corps, and I wish to say that I consider it most valuable training for our high school boys. I am glad to see the movement grow in popularity."

NEEDS A MOTHER

This Youngster Also Wants to Live on a Farm. Know of Anyone Who Can Care for Him?

Harry Martin

Do you know of any opportunity for a 14 year old boy to "live on a farm and have another mother?"

That's what Harry wants—so bad that he sometimes cries himself to sleep nights on his cot in the county hospital, where he is recovering from typhoid. Once Harry lived on a farm and had a mother. But Harry, because of unfortunate circumstances, was placed in a boy's home six years ago. He didn't know until two years after he had run away from the home that his mother was dead, the farm had been sold, and his stepfather had sent away his four brothers and sisters for adoption. After that, until he became ill with typhoid, Harry lived at the Juvenile Detention home.

SAVE THE BABIES

Mayor Appeals to Chicagoans to Help Make Baby Welfare Week a Success.

Mayor William Hale Thompson issued a proclamation yesterday announcing the week of March 4 to 11 inclusive as baby welfare week.

The proclamation in part follows:

"I appeal also to the many civic, religious, and philanthropic bodies in Chicago who gave such splendid co-operation last year to again rally to the babies' saving cause not only during the week named, but also the entire summer campaign. The department of health, aided by the Chicago Medical society and other organizations, will use all of the means at its command to make this laudable undertaking so successful that it will be a credit to the intelligence and the humanity of our citizenship."

AVERS PICTURE OF GOV. DUNNE COST HER JOB

Samonski Says Wife Lost Welfare Place Because of Picture in Home.

HE WORKED FOR MAYOR.

A picture of the governor of Illinois hanging on the wall of her home caused, it is alleged, the discharge of Mrs. Rose Samonski of 1229 West Seventy-third street from her position as investigator for the department of public welfare.

This charge was made yesterday by Mrs. Samonski's husband, George, in the absence of his wife, who, he said, was in Canada visiting a sick relative.

Mr. Samonski stated that after his wife had been in the department three months as stenographer and investigator she was dismissed one day without notice or explanation. He said she had been asked the day before to explain the presence of Gov. Dunne's picture on the parlor wall of her home.

Not the Mysterious Witness.

The intimation that his wife was the mysterious split pay employé referred to several times by Attorney Seymour Stedman, attorney for Mrs. Page Waller Eaton, was denied by Samonski.

It was reported yesterday that Attorney Stedman was going to introduce Mrs. Samonski as a witness to support Mrs. Eaton's charges that she was forced to split her salary with Mrs. Louise Osborne Rowe.

"I have been a Democrat all my life," said Mr. Samonski. "For various reasons I voted for Thompson for mayor. I worked for him during the campaign getting votes. I did this at the suggestion of a politician in my ward.

"After Thompson was elected this politician came to me and asked me what he could do in return for my good work. I told him I expected to get a good job paying at least $150 a week. He said he would see what he could do for me.

"It dragged along for months until I got disgusted on learning that a Negro had been given the job I expected. I went to this friend of mine and he said he would get my wife a job. He said there was an opening in the department of public welfare. It would pay $80 a month.

"About July 5 my wife took the job of stenographer in Mrs. Rowe's department. Three weeks later she had to give it up because a girl, who had the job before, came back from a vacation. At least that is the explanation she was given.

Made Her Investigator.

"Then they made her an investigator at the same salary. One day in October a woman in the office of the welfare bureau—I won't name her—asked my wife if she was for Frank O. Lowden. My wife asked her why she wanted to know. This woman replied that some one had seen a picture of Gov. Dunne in our home. My wife told her that the governor was a godfather of her son Edward.

"The next morning a woman phoned my wife at home and told her that her services were no longer required. That is all the explanation she got. She didn't make a fuss about it because she was too proud.

"It is absurd to say that she was a 'dummy' on the pay roll or that she 'split' her salary. I was a policeman and constable for more than twenty years in Chicago and I would not stand for that."

Mrs. Samonski is 53 years old, according to her husband, who is a well to do insurance agent.

Mayor's Foes on Stand Today.

Nine witnesses whose presence before the civil service commission was demanded by Attorney Stephen A. Malato, counsel for Mrs. Rowe, will appear before that body at 10 o'clock this morning. They are the ones charged by Mr. Malato with being behind the charges and with being members of a political conspiracy against Mayor Thompson.

Those for whom subpoenas were issued by Capt. Percy B. Coffin, president of the commission, are: Ald. John N. Kimball, Mrs. Kimball, Ald. Charles E. Merriam, Mrs. Merriam, Ald. John Kjellander, E. J. Brundage, Homer Galpin, Ald. Willis O. Nance, and Ferd Fisher, city editor of the Chicago Evening Post.

Declaring that he would "call Malato's bluff," Attorney Stedman appeared at the commission's rooms in the morning and obtained a number of subpoena blanks for those mentioned at the last hearing by Mr. Malato. Later Capt. Coffin issued the subpœnas for the commission."

LOST BOY CLEW RUN DOWN.

Postal Inspectors Arrest Alleged Author of Letter to Missing Lad's Father.

Charged with fraudulent use of the mails, Wilbur Robison, who sometimes signs the name Clyde Clayton, is held at Rock Island, Ill., because he wrote a letter asking $500 for the return of missing Cyril Matthews. The letter was received by Barnett Matthews, the boy's father, who turned it over to the postoffice inspectors.

Robison was arrested at Rock Island yesterday by Inspector J. B. Wieklinski, who went to the man's home in the guise of a messenger with a registered letter supposed to contain the $500. According to the federal authorities Robison at first denied any knowledge of the letter sent Mr. Matthews, but later, they say, he admitted he had written it.

Robison denied any knowledge of the boy's whereabouts.

Loyola Has Smallpox Scare.

One smallpox case and a lively smallpox scare set the Loyola University Medical college, 1360 Fulton street, palpitating yesterday. Joseph D. Verdin, a senior, was found to have been stricken. One hundred seniors were vaccinated yesterday by health department authorities. The rest of the school will be vaccinated today for precaution's sake.

Miss Marjorie Davis Exhibiting the Salt Method

UNMARRIED members of the Palette and Chisel club are quaking in their boots in anticipation of the club's leap year party scheduled for tomorrow night. The festivities, planned as a "lark," have taken on an aspect of grim determination. The leafy bowers and "cozy corners" arranged for travesty proposals are to be used in deadly earnest if feminine guests who have received invitations carry out their openly announced intentions.

Moreover, Willard Best, a real estate man who is an associate member, has offered an apartment and studio to the first artist who accepts a bona fide proposal, and Hans Ulrich, an active member, has promised to supply all the rings needed as a result of the evening's romances.

Miss Marjorie Davis, Miss Sylvia Colin, and Miss Helen Burroughs collared several victims in the clubrooms yesterday and insisted on an impromptu rehearsal of some "cave-woman methods of their own. Miss Davis favored putting salt on her quarry's coattails; the others maintained that one might as well use pistols and do the thing properly.

EDWARDS LOSES BATTLE TO AVOID MANN ACT TRIAL.

Gregory Reverses Decision Not to Press Ada Cox Charges Following Visit by Clyne.

After discussing the case with itself for several months, the federal government announced last week, through Attorney General Gregory, that the Mann act charges against William Rufus Edwards, because of his alleged relations with Ada Cox, would not be tried.

Then the government engaged in further self-discussion, and yesterday District Attorney Charles F. Clyne telegraphed from Washington that the case is to be pressed to trial next Tuesday.

Various reasons have been suggested for Mr. Clyne's trip to Washington, which followed immediately word from the capital that the attorney general did not care to prosecute the Cox charges because the commercial element was lacking. These rumored reasons have ranged from the affairs of Jean Crones, would-be poisoner to the Mann act case.

William S. Forrest will represent Edwards in the Mann act case.

Dick Townsend Now in Control of Great Northern—John C. Roth to Resign.

Final arrangements for the purchase of the Great Northern hotel were announced yesterday by Dick Townsend, one of the country's oldest hotel men, who has managed hostelries in Indianapolis, Paducah, Louisville, Peoria, and many other cities of the middle west. Mr. Townsend will manage the hotel in place of John C. Roth, whose resignation will take effect March 15. He will follow Mr. Roth's management policy for the time being without change.

THREATS TO CLEAN UP STREET BRINGS RESULTS.

City Officials Hear That Merchants Plan Sixty-third Street Renovation and Beat 'Em to It.

For years Sixty-third street between State and Wallace has been an eyesore from a standpoint of cleanliness. It is the boundary between the Thirty-first and Thirty-second wards, but the Thirty-first has charge of the cleaning of it. Appeals by the business men to the aldermen and other authorities have brought no results.

Finally 150 members of the Englewood Commercial association organized themselves into an emergency white wing squad and were to have started out this morning at 9 with broom and shovel. They notified the movie men, the newspaper photographers, and reporters. Everything was set for a grand cleanup. Then an afternoon paper "spilled the beans" by printing the story.

In half an hour's time the aldermen got busy. Then Ward Supt. Wiggins got busy. Then five teams and a whole battalion of sweepers got busy, and at quitting time last night a portion of Sixty-third street had been massaged until it looked like the main thoroughfare of Spotless Town. Then the city officials appealed to Charles F. Manahan, a jeweler at 361 West Sixty-third street, who was in charge of the emergency crew, to call off his amateur sweepers. He promised on condition that the street is properly swept in the future.

WOMAN'S TRUST TRAPS FARMERS

Three Bridgeport Men Reported Losers in Promotion Scheme.

Aaron B. Donaldson and O. C. Pixley, his co-promoter, now constitute the Woman's Trust company, the $1,500,000 stock selling proposition the real history of which was recently published by THE TRIBUNE. Donaldson holds the furniture, but is making vigorous attempts to dispose of it, and Pixley holds the charter and purposes to rehabilitate at some future time and try his luck in another city.

But neither can be accused of "holding the bag," as that distinction belongs to three farmers—Gray, Boyd, and Green—of Bridgeport, Ill., and their dreams of becoming city bankers have vanished.

Three Farmers "Stung."

The Bridgeport men are credited with having been "stung" to the extent of $14,000—$5,000 each for Gray and Boyd, and only $4,000 for Lewis because, as an interested attorney explained, "the thing began to crack before all of Lewis' money was up." They figured on something superior to "war brides" when the promoters offered them "four for one," or $20,000 worth of stock for $5,000.

They have retained ex-Judge Matteson of Bridgeport to see what can be done in the way of saving some of their money.

Some mystery was injected into the matter last night when Attorney Henry R. Baldwin, in admitting his resignation as general counsel of the corporation, said he never heard of the company having any funds in its treasury. The lawyer also admitted that Donaldson and Pixley might not have informed him of all the company's transactions.

Directors All Resign.

The entire board of directors—Mrs. James P. Brewster, Mrs. Franklin P. Simons, Mrs. Edward C. Tibbitts, and Sara M. Hopkins—resigned with Mr. Baldwin. The principal officers, Mrs. Martha E. Abt, president; Mrs. Mary E. Estes, secretary, and Miss Mary A. Carney, resigned a few days ago.

Eliminating the furniture of the company's suite of offices in the Hartford building, the principal asset is said to be a bundle of literature.

"RAILROADED TO ASYLUM," W. H. KETCHAM CHARGES.

Attorney and Uncle of Republican Candidate for Goveror Asks to Be Declared Sane.

Attorney William H. Ketcham, uncle of Frank L. Smith, candidate for the Republican nomination for governor, filed a habeas corpus petition in the Circuit court yesterday to have himself declared sane.

It is declared that Mr. Ketcham aroused opposition in Pontiac last September by one of his promotion schemes. Accordingly, the petition says, he was arrested and tried on an insanity petition while he was in jail, though the law requires a hearing in a courtroom. Mr. Ketcham declares he was railroaded to the asylum, where he spent more than two months, never needing treatment, he says, since nothing was the matter with him.

AIDS EASTMAN DIVORCE MOVE

Husband of Feminist Cables from Spain to Offer No Opposition.

Wallace Benedict is an architect and engineer of genius, but his principal contracts were castles in Spain, it is surmised, while waiting for his ship to come in. Now that a whole argosy is in port the man of many amours is most unchivalrously agreeable, it is said, to the divorce which his wife, "Miss" Crystal Eastman, the feminist, recently asked, naming "a woman unknown."

From the side supposedly of "the woman unknown" in Madrid, Spain, Benedict cabled his brother-in-law, Attorney Burr J. Scott of Milwaukee, to hasten the divorce, and put no obstacles in Miss Eastman's way. According to a story said to have been given out by Miss Eastman, her husband, after the misconduct in Chicago alleged in her bill, followed the mysterious woman, a rich New Yorker, to Spain. It is rumored he intends to marry her when the divorce is granted.

Once He Left Joliet.

Benedict's love affairs, always interesting, have trembled often on the lips of the press, without utterance. At the time he was superintendent of a steel plant at Joliet it was said he left between two days because a husband discovered a state of affairs. His romantic life then led him to Goldfield, where fortune put on her worst frown. Because he had a weakness for eating once or twice a week at least Mr. Benedict took up the laborious shovel of a mine stoker. Then he began to fight his way back from the human scrap pile.

In 1911 he married Miss Crystal Eastman, sister of Max Eastman, editor of The Masses. Miss Eastman was a Vassar A. B., a Columbia university M. A., and a New York university LL. B. She had ideas on marriage that would have given this country's grandmothers conniptions. Among them was the principle that a woman should not sink her individuality in her husband's name. She always preferred to be known as Miss Crystal Eastman.

Alimony a Disgrace.

Another of her marital notions would lose her the chorus girl vote. It was and is that alimony is a disgraceful institution. She asked for none in her suit for divorce.

Until recently Benedict was municipal manager of Greenwich village, in lower New York state. The village is run as a corporation by rich persons who have ideals in things social. Mr. Benedict was employed on a salary as a business manager for the township. It is said that he first met "the woman unknown" while working there.

HERE'S TO OLD FRED TOPPE.

Cheerfully Rises at Midnight to Admit He Eloped with Girl from Joliet.

Fred Toppe is the best natured man in Chicago.

He was called on the telephone at 12:30 this morning and asked if he had eloped.

"Yes," he said cheerfully. "She was Miss Georgiana French, the daughter of a Joliet newspaper man. I'm from Freeport. I'm a musician, and a good one. We were married in Joliet. No, the folks didn't know anything about it. We'll be in Chicago several days. Anything else you want to know? All right. Good night!"

The Toppes are at the Hotel Brevoort.

ANTI-CATHOLIC RALLY BARRED AS MOB PERILS

Police Prevent Lecture by Ex-Priest Who Says He Was Not Given Protection.

YOUNG WILL MAKE A PROTEST

What threatened to be another clash between members of the Guardians of Liberty, an anti-Catholic organization, and its religious opponents was averted last night when the police prevented a massmeeting scheduled to take place in the Oakland Music hall, 3977 Cottage Grove avenue. Joseph Slattery, an ex-priest, was to be the speaker, under the auspices of the Guardians of Liberty.

When a crowd arrived at Cottage Grove avenue and Fortieth street the way to the hall was found to be barred by ten detective sergeants and fifteen uniformed policemen under the command of Sergeant P. W. Maloney. Several policemen were stationed in the vestibule.

Crowd Forced Back.

"No meeting tonight," was the information given each arrival.

Several tried to force their way into the hall, but were driven back.

It was said the agents of the hall, fearing a repetition of the rioting of Wednesday night at Garfield boulevard and Halsted street, had asked for police protection. The detectives asserted, however, they were acting under orders from First Deputy Herman Schuettler in refusing members of the Guardians of Liberty admittance to the hall.

Earlier in the evening six men who were in the audience at Boulevard hall Wednesday night had appeared before Second Deputy M. L. C. Funkhouser and preferred verbal charges against four of the six policemen stationed in the hall, who, they said, made no effort to check the rioters. They were told to place their charges in writing. Charles B. Young, member of the board of education, who was slugged in the mêlée, visited the office of Chief Healey, but the chief was out.

Wait Vainly for Police.

Slattery and his wife, who are staying at the Hotel Sherman, asked for policemen to escort them to the Oakland hall meeting. They said that they waited until 8 o'clock for the guards which the police department promised to supply and then left the hotel without them.

"Before going to the hall I called the police department," said Mr. Slattery, "and told the man who answered that we were going to take our lives in our hands and go without the protection which they had promised and which failed to appear. We reached the hall in a closed car, but did not attempt to enter when we learned it had been closed.

"We intend to remain in Chicago and keep our lecture engagements in the interests of the constitutional rights of free speech. If we lose our lives our blood will be upon the heads of the police."

Bigelow Refused Admission.

William F. Bigelow, state guardian of the Guardians of Liberty, arrived at the time the meeting was scheduled to begin and was refused admittance with the rest. He attempted to rent the Drexel hall across the street. Permission to use this hall also was refused.

When he was convinced there would be no meeting, Bigelow informed the ticket holders their tickets would be honored at another massmeeting called for this evening in the Lincoln Turner hall, 1028 Diversey parkway.

"This evening one of my aids called up Archbishop Mundelein," said Bigelow. "He talked to the archbishop's secretary and inquired if any action would be taken against the priest who led the rioters last night. The secretary left the phone for a moment, ostensibly to confer with the archbishop, and returned with the simple reply, 'No.'"

One man in the crowd took exception to Bigelow's remark concerning the archbishop and pushed forward threateningly, but was stopped by the police, who advised Bigelow to board a car and escorted him to one. The police dispersed the crowds.

Will Visit Healey Again.

Trustee Young declared he would pay another visit to the chief before the wound inflicted over his eye with brass knuckles is healed.

"Two of the policemen attempted to stop the rioting," said Mr. Young. "The rest of them made no effort to stop it, and some of them assisted in it while making a pretense to bring order.

"Before the lecture opened 200 men came into the hall apparently for the express purpose of breaking up the meeting. Mr. Slattery spoke on 'Liberty.' He said nothing offensive about any one. Finally he read extracts of letters from Pope Leo XIII. regarding the liberty of the press and religious liberty, and the trouble started.

"A man garbed as a Roman Catholic priest walked up the aisle with a policeman. The policeman said he would have to arrest the lecturer for inciting a riot unless he stopped talking. The man representing a priest carried a large magazine gun, which was plainly visible to those near him."

Mrs. Slattery will speak this afternoon for women only at Thornton hall, Sixty-ninth street and Normal avenue. Attorney Bigelow will ask for police protection for both the afternoon and evening meetings.

BY KITTY KELLY.

HERE is Miss Marguerite Clark in more melodrama than she has been amongst for long. She is as witching a person as ever, though her tale calls upon her to do some things scarcely in keeping with her general niceness; not that it offends, but that it breaks the spirit of what is seemly for her.

She is a Swiss mountain maid, wrapped in queer bulky fur things part of the time, the rest in quaint peasant garb, and always she is a picture in herself.

But the exigencies of story oblige her to do some things too commonplace for her. For instance, she must needs pine away with love, a thing we're familiar with in fiction, but which needs not be introduced to the screen.

Her love is for a young rounder who has come alping for purposes of reform, and who immediately sets about besieging her heart, with the purpose of taking her away without benefit of the clergy. Her loyal mountain sweetheart, Rudolph, suspecting and objecting, furnishes the obstacle that supplies the source for the film prolongation, which comes to a happy ending, though I must say my sympathies lay pretty generally with Rudolph, who drew a blank in the general parcelment of happiness.

In atmospheric effort F. P. rather overstepped itself, for granulated sodium chloride, especially in contrast with snow proper, looks it. "Salt!" hissed a neighbor when the avalanche came avalanching in the window. And the players have a mighty indifference toward the manipulating of the snow with bare hands when they dig themselves both in and out. But there are some wonderful real snow scenes, which have wisely been made much of by the director. And there are some beautiful rugged wigwaggy dogs, who likewise have been made much of, and in whom we rejoice.

"Out of the Drifts" scores for picture effects rather than story. Marguerite Clark's ornamentation of it makes it seeable, along with the real snow and the great St. Bernards.

Our Newest Film Star—Indiana.

Indiana is to have a new and up to date history of itself made, which can mean nothing else but that it is "going into the movies" a la the Selig company via Gilson Willets as scenario supplier. The state historic commission has arranged for a seven reel production which may cost $100,000. Tentative plans are that James Whitcomb Riley will do subtitles in verse and that George Ade, Meredith Nicholson, Booth Tarkington, and other state sons of prominence will rally 'round the effort with valuable ideas. And then the picture is to be shown in every town and every school in all the state to make folks big and little realize what a great state they have.

Another playhouse has been added to the chain operated by Alfred Hamburger—a new one, seating 1,000, now being erected at the southeast corner of Grand and Oakwood boulevards. It probably will open on April 1. A tentative name of Oakgrand has been chosen.

MARION HARLAND'S HELPING-HAND by MARION HARLAND

Feeds Sugar to Ants.

"I WANT to tell a correspondent who is troubled with ants how I keep them out of my house. (Now you will laugh!) It is the only sure remedy that worked with me. We have a big maple tree at the corner of the house and it was full of them. Once a week I put a teaspoonful of granulated sugar about the roots and no ants entered the house after that. E. E. H."

Shipments to Canada.

"Mrs. A. asks for information regarding shipments of clothing, old magazines, and cloth remnants to Canada. The following may be of interest: The Canada customs tariff provides: 'Clothing and books, donations of, for charitable purposes, and photographs not exceeding three sent by friends and not for the purpose of sale, free.' Newspapers and quarterly, monthly and semi-monthly magazines, and weeklies, literary papers, [unbound], tailor's, milliners', and mantel makers', fashion plates when imported in single copies in sheet form with magazines or periodical trade journal, general tariff of 7½ per cent ad valorem. The original tariff provided for free entry, but on Feb. 1, 1915, the 7½ per cent duty was imposed. This, however, seems to apply to current issues and I should think that old magazines for charitable purposes would come into the same catagory as books for charitable purposes. Cloth remnants are not classified; the only analagous item being junk, old rags of cotton, jute, hemp and wool, paper and waste clippings, and waste of all kinds, 7½ per cent ad valorem. This duty was imposed on Feb. 11, 1915, the original tariff reading 'free.' O."

Watts' Painting, "Hope."

"'Hope,' the painting by Watts, has not been interpreted correctly in the Helping Hand Corner. The painting hangs in a gallery in London. The young woman posing is Ellen Terry, then the wife of Watts. Alone in the world and blind, she is listening to the sound of the lyre having only one string. This is the one ray of hope. In the great painting in London there is the faint ray of a 'star in the east.' It is considered the greatest interpretation of hope by artists. The drawing of the neck is criticized, but why, when Watts has given us such courage, such perseverance, and, above all, faith, for an example? Ellen Terry was youthful and supple and but 17 when she married Watts. ROSE M. I."

How to Prevent Flies.

"Will you kindly tell me if there is anything that can be used in the early spring to prevent the breeding of flies? We live over a store and find them a great nuisance. L. P."

First, last, and always, have strict cleanliness. Then put in window screens early in the summer to exclude the pioneers. Invest in sticky fly catchers before your neighbors think of it, and catch the aforesaid advance guard before they have time to deposit their eggs. Every fly slain in March represents a possible swarm of a thousand or thereabouts in July. If housewives would kill every early fly there would be an incredible dimunition in the number of summer visitors.

Another Copy of a Song.

"This is my first contribution to the Corner, but it will not be the last. I have some recipes which I will send if you care for them. I notice that P. V. L. asks for the second verse of the old Christmas song, 'Jolly Old St. Nicholas.' I am inclosing a copy as I sang it when a small child in school. J. G."

Another correspondent has sent in the whole song. Thank you just the same.

The Corner holds out the hand of fellowship to you again. The books will be gladly called for after readers know of your liberality, renewed often and cordially. We shall pass your address along right heartily.

Real Love Stories

He Came Back Strong.

I WAS sitting at my desk one afternoon several years ago looking over some merchandise that had just come in when my office door swung open and there stood Rob Marshall—handsome old Rob, but he wasn't as jaunty and well dressed as he used to be.

Poor old Rob—he was a promising chemist and would have been a wonder if fate had let him alone. But it didn't. Rob met a girl at a dance and from that time on he planned and worked for the "home." The time came when he proposed to her and she refused him. Needless to say, from that time on Rob was of no earthly use to any one.

His ardent ambition to become a great chemist was crushed and all he could think of was the "girl."

She was a sweet girl and Rob was terribly hurt. He left town to go to the Philippines and was gone for five years.

Now he was standing at my door, older, poorer and, as I soon learned, downhearted. He told me of his wanderings and his efforts to forget his grief, and wound up with a request for a job—any kind of a job. To tell the truth we didn't need any one, but I knew that if he ever got back to his chemistry again he might forget, so I put him in the dyeroom.

I didn't see him for a while, but one day he came in and told me he had found a new dye which proved to be wonderful. He was promoted and was the head chemist at $7,500 a year.

He was still restless and we went to dances, theaters and parties to keep him quiet and let him get used to the old life again. But fate again took a hand in the matter and he met the girl at a dance. He told her of his love and his waiting.

Well to make the story short Rob Marshall, wanderer, is now a member of the firm and happily married to the girl.

THE TRIBUNE COOK BOOK by JANE EDDINGTON

All recipes have been scientifically tested by Miss Eddington with current market materials and are indorsed by her.

For a sick headache, try potatoes with an onion sauce. The potatoes will relieve a too acid stomach and the disinfecting onion may counteract malfermentation, which makes acids. Either of these troubles may cause headache.

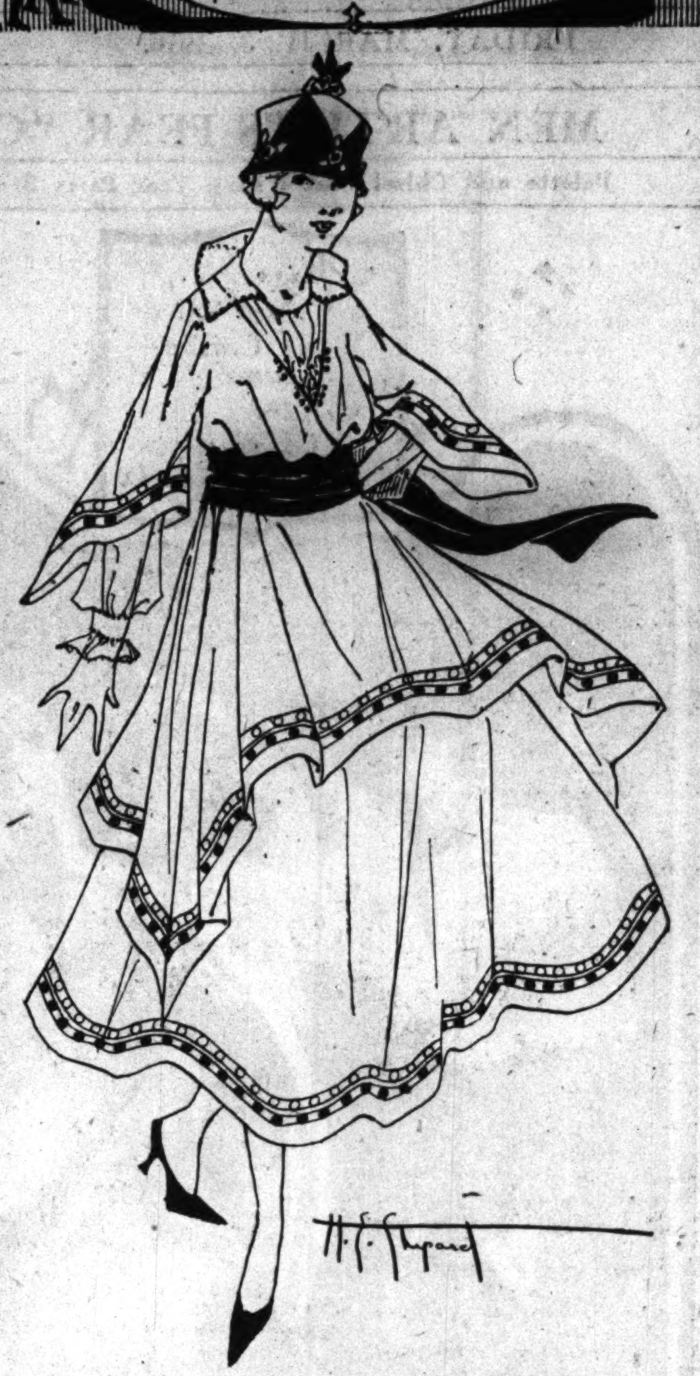
Onion Sauce with Potato.

SOME convalescing patients in hospitals learn to read the nurse's diet chart for their case. "Reac." is in one of the first boxes, reactions being the sure results of any sort of treatment whether with food, medicines or manual treatments. Reactions are what we get from every meal we eat, whether sick or well. Some people are forever conscious of the results of reactions, but when these bring discomfort they go to the doctor for another instead of hunting for causes in their own behavior. Too many people like to think they can do no wrong.

Onion Sauce.

In cutting any quantity of onions with a knife wipe this dry frequently or they will become black. This is why they cannot be put through a food chopper. For a simple sauce, unstrained, chop one or two cups of onions fine and fry until tender in a little butter, stirring constantly so that they will not brown in the least. When tender add one cup of milk to two of onions, stir and boil for two minutes. Add salt and pepper if you choose, but you can get on without them. Serve with potatoes over which may be sprinkled chopped parsley if you choose.

FASHION'S BLUE BOOK



Dainty Frock of Old Blue Pussy Willow.

[Copyright: 1916: By The Chicago Tribune and the New York Globe.]

FROM varied sources come the new styles for spring. One finds in a frock or suit a hint of Russian influence, or a motif decidedly Chinese in its origin, while the peasant dress of a picturesque French village or the graceful lines of the Grecian period are cleverly interpreted to suit the needs of the present. The fabrics that are favored this season are delightfully soft. There are filmy Georgettes, delicately tinted crepe de chines, lovely silk voiles, and supple satins in beautiful shades that inspire the creators of dress with many novel ideas.

A particularly graceful model is pictured in the accompanying illustration. An old blue pussy willow with satin border decorated with black and yellow spots is chosen for its development. The skirt is designed with a prettily cut overskirt that falls in beautiful folds on the sides with the fullness somewhat modified in front.

The upper sleeves are also modeled on the lines of the tunic, while the corsage in surplice style is finished with dainty vestee and collar that match the undersleeves, which are developed in soft brown chiffon. A girdle of black velvet with flyaway ends gives the final touch to this charming frock.

The quaint little hat is made of old blue horsehair braid with novel trimming of black velvet. Between the triangular shaped motifs small conventional pink roses with gold foliage are prettily placed and, as if to bow to fashion's demand for height, a little cluster with upward standing foliage is perched on the top of the brim.

Bright Sayings of Children

"The Tribune" will pay $1 for each childish saying printed. The only condition is the story told must never have been printed in any magazine or paper. Write on one side of the paper only. It is not possible to acknowledge or return unavailable contributions. Address bright sayings to Aunty Bee, "Tribune," Chicago.

Some time ago my small son had a sore foot, which, after being bandaged, obliged him to wear a shoe several sizes larger. After vainly trying to keep up with the other children at play in the yard he hurried over to where I sat and said: "O mamma, do I have to wear this big shoe? It—it makes me feel so difficult."

Lottie had always prayed every night for the safety of a beloved grandfather, who lived far away. The night of his arrival the prayer was omitted. When her brother asked her if she did not want to pray for grandfather she answered, "O, I can take care of him now." T. P. R.

We were riding on a train, when my little sister, Margaret, went to the end of the coach for a drink of water. Coming back the swaying of the train lurched her from side to side. When she got back to mother she exclaimed, "My, but this train is restless." ED WINDES JR.,

Bugaboo of Household Cares.

Antoinette Donnelly

I WISH you would go out more, Elizabeth," said her husband. "You ought to meet more people. You're getting so narrow minded in your way of living and in your views."

Not a very loving way to break the news to his wife, but exactly what she needed. For Elizabeth was slowly and surely allowing herself to become swamped under the cares and worries of her home when there was absolutely no need for the sacrifice.

She is one of that type of woman who thinks it her duty to plan her days so that her house, her children, and her husband occupy every moment of it.

For years she passed up every social duty, such as the paying of calls, entertaining, and keeping up with her friends. She prides herself on being a model wife and mother, quite oblivious of the fact that no woman is justified in making herself a domestic drudge.

To allow oneself to become swamped, as it were, in household worries is, to my mind, a sacrifice that is quite uncalled for and one that does not benefit any one, her husband and children least of all.

She not only robs her husband of the gift of companionship, once so precious, but she troubles no longer to look attractive in his eyes. Naturally, the view she takes in life is a narrow one. It shows itself objectionably plain in the extreme narrow mindedness of her ideas. The street in which she lives, the doings of the neighbors, have become the sole firmament of interest in which the planet of her life revolves.

She is becoming thin and worried looking, too, as the result of worrying over trifles. The children are growing selfish as the result of mother's waiting upon them hand and foot. And she is continually grumbling at having to do this, too, losing sight entirely of the fact that the remedy lies in her own hands.

One day soon I hope she will realize that the best house mistress is the one who recognizes that relaxation from household worries is a duty which she owes herself and her family, and that a certain amount of social life is necessary to make her views interesting and herself companionable.

Antoinette Donnelly's Answers.

HETTY: The squatting exercise, if practiced five minutes daily morning and night, will keep one in excellent trim. Try it. Stand erect with the feet nearly together and hands resting on your hips. Rise upon the toes, then sink the body to the floor in a squatting posture, bending the knees sharply until the thighs and legs are doubled upon each other and the weight of the entire body is supported by the toes. Keep your trunk perfectly erect throughout the movement. Return to the original position and repeat twelve times to begin with, gradually increasing to twenty or thirty times.

PEGGY: A red nose may come from poor circulation, indigestion, tight gloves, or tight wearing apparel. It is curable only by finding out which of the causes to ascribe it to and by removing the cause. In the meantime be careful of your diet. Do not wear tight clothing. Get lots of exercise in the open air. A cold plunge in the morning followed by a vigorous rub with a Turkish towel is excellent for impoverished circulation.

BERTHA: Pure vaseline or olive oil is excellent for a dry scalp. Brushing increases the growth of the hair and counteracts dryness. Brush it at least once a day and let it be a thorough brushing of the entire scalp. I have instructions for scalp massage which I shall be glad to send you if you wish it and will send me a stamped, addressed envelope.

TILLIE P. W.: You can greatly improve the condition of your neck by massaging it night and morning with a good skin food. Rotate the muscles firmly in a slanting direction from under the chin toward the shoulders, and from the middle of the throat backward and upward toward the ear. Deep breathing is beneficial for filling out the hollows in your neck. I shall be glad to send you my instruction for deep breathing and exercises for keeping the neck young and beautiful if you will send me a stamped, addressed envelope.

The AMATEUR GARDENER by Eben E. Rexford

Seed Clubs.

VERY frequently I receive letters from persons who complain about the cost of seed. They say they cannot afford to pay the prices given in the catalogs. I admit that a quantity sufficient to stock a good sized garden will figure up to quite an amount. But it is not necessary to incur so much expense. Get up a seed club among your friends, and thus reduce the sum expended on seed to a figure proportionate to your income. This can easily be done in any neighborhood.

If you have had experience with seed obtained from seedsmen you have, no doubt, found that each package contained more seed than one person cares to make use of unless he or she has a larger garden than most persons care to take care of. This surplus seed is wasted unless you can turn it over to some friend. If held over for your own use another season you run the risk of its failing to germinate, as many kinds lose their germinating quality before next season's garden is made. This being the case, it becomes necessary to procure fresh seed each season.

Now, suppose you go out among your friends who propose to have gardens and talk the matter over with them. Instead of getting packages of "mixed" seed, as most persons do who order alone, select the kinds in which each color or variety is kept by itself. One package of such seed will grow all the plants of that particular kind that half a dozen persons will care to cultivate, unless they have large gardens.

When the seed comes divide it among the subscribers to your seed club. In this way you will be able to get the choicest varieties at less cost than the cheapest kinds would represent if you ordered by yourself.

I know of many neighborhoods in which seed clubs are formed each season, and these neighborhoods have established for themselves a reputation for fine flowers that is very gratifying to the amateur gardeners in them. And this reputation comes from using only the very best seed obtainable.

"Mixed" seed will give you a jumble of colors that is never pleasing to the color sense of discriminating gardeners. It is only when you grow colors together that harmonize that you get the fullest satisfaction from your garden. And you cannot do this with "mixed" seed.

SAVE YOUR HAIR! 25 CENT BOTTLE STOPS DANDRUFF

Try this! Your hair appears glossy, abundant, wavy and beautiful.

Thin, brittle, colorless and scraggy hair is mute evidence of a neglected scalp; of dandruff—that awful scurf.

There is nothing so destructive to the hair as dandruff. It robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life; eventually producing a feverishness and itching of the scalp, which if not remedied causes the hair roots to shrink, loosen and die—then the hair falls out fast. A little Danderine tonight—now—any time—will surely save your hair.

Get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, and after the first application your hair will take on that life, lustre and luxuriance which is so beautiful. It will become wavy and fluffy and have the appearance of abundance, an incomparable gloss and softness; but what will please you most will be after just a few weeks' use, when you will actually see a lot of fine, downy hair—new hair—growing all over the scalp.

Danderine is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. Its exhilarating and life-producing properties cause the hair to grow long, strong and beautiful.—Advertisement.

Miss Helen Louise Johnson.

THE engagement is announced of Miss Helen Louise Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Johnson of 4556 North Pauline street, to James L. Abernethy, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Abernethy of 1427 Irving Park boulevard.

Kiddies Benefit $3,000 by Hat Sale.

WITH more than $3,000 in its coffers, the social service committee of the Children's Memorial hospital closed its third annual hat sale yesterday afternoon with a sense of enthusiastic satisfaction, since the receipts were much in excess of those of last year.

As early as 9 o'clock society gathered to inspect the stock that has been collected for several weeks from the most fashionable shops of New York and Chicago, and society came to buy.

It was not an uncommon thing to see smartly clad women depart through the lobby and the side entrance of the Blackstone hotel, where the sale was held in the crystal ballroom, bearing four and sometimes five hats in bulky parcels to their waiting cars.

Just before the guests entered the ballroom they each and every one stood enthralled before a beautiful table of smart headgear of many colors and many shapes, trimmed with fancies and flowers and made of candy.

Mrs. William J. Chalmers, who has only recently returned from the south, came with her daughter, Mrs. Norman Williams, and her little granddaughter, Joan Williams, and all three generations found among the many beautifully laden tables hats to suit many occasions for the coming summer.

Mrs. Edward F. Carry won the proud reputation of being the most successful model, for every hat she donned was sold promptly, so universally becoming were the styles she chose.

There were hats whose unique trimmings had never yet been seen by Chicago buyers—trimmings made of fringed yarn, of painted leathers, and varnished feathers. There were hats of very shade, trimmed with every color from bright reds and greens to dull gold and purples.

Everybody in Chicago seemed to be at the sale, but even so there were enough absentees to make it possible to have a second sale, Mrs. Cummings, Mrs. Howard Elting, and Mrs. Brewster having offered their houses for the event. Many hats were not even unpacked.

Mrs. Mark Cummings sent a charming souvenir in from her Lake Forest greenhouses to the saleswomen, huge bouquets of great wood violets.

Mrs. Augustus Peabody, who served as saleslady, wearing a frock of pale gray crepe with gray suede slippers, sold a large, bright red hat to Mrs. Ralph Shaw on sight and with no need of pleading.

Mrs. Stanley Field, another successful saleswoman, was there most of the day, and Miss Dorothy Keeley came in the afternoon to serve as a model for some of the smart sport clothes that were offered by the Band Box firm, represented by Mrs. Arthur Orr and Mrs. Howard Linn.

Mrs. Walter Brewster, who wore a dress of black taffeta, sold a number of hats to Mrs. Bruce Borland.

Mrs. Jacob Baur, another saleswoman, served the two little daughters of Mrs. C. B. Lihme of Lake Forest, Anita and Olga, who came wearing rose colored coats fashioned alike and looking like twins in their winter outfits. They bought hats alike of black and white straw and tried on everything they could persuade anyone to show them, so enthusiastic were they over the "pretty hats."

Mrs. George Taylor, chairman of the committee, wearing a gown of dull blue satin, sold an unusual hat of black straw to Mrs. Hathaway Watson which was wanted by three other customers, who waited anxiously until Mrs. Watson found out if she might have it duplicated in purple straw, only to be disappointed when word came "sold" and "not to be duplicated."

Mrs. B. F. Taylor, Mrs. Harry Shearson, Mrs. George Ingalls, Mrs. Howard Elting, Mrs. W. P. Martin, Mrs. Charles Counselman, Mrs. George McLaughlin, Mrs. Orville Babcock, Mrs. Addison Stillwell, Mrs. Charles W. Folds, Mrs. Henry Farnum, Mrs. Ralph Shaw, Mrs. Howard Shaw, Miss Evelyn Shaw, Miss Isabelle Robbins, Mrs. Robert Waller, Mrs. E. W. Cramer, Miss Marion Key, Mrs. Frank O. Lowden, Miss Florence Lowden, Miss Margaret Carry, Miss Grace Tuttle, Miss W. W. Kimball, Mrs. Joseph Adams, and Mrs. David Thompson were among those present at the sale.

Mrs. H. Ferguson of 4801 Grand boulevard, announces the engagement of her daughter, Hannah, to David J. Chatkin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Chatkin of 4534 Michigan avenue. The wedding will take place in April.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank T. Brown of the Virginia are spending the month at Hampton Terrace, Ga.

No Woman Can Keep a Secret, So—

BY CINDERELLA.

EVERY Monday now for the next few weeks the board of directors of the North Side Equal Suffrage association breaks bread together. What ho! breakers ahead—they call it the steering committee. Course these women are hatching something, else they'd never eat together so continuously and consecutively for weeks, being that bridge is not scheduled to follow.

And that reminds me that Miss Elsie McCormick, at present head of the family, as Mrs. R. Hall McCormick has joined Mr. McCormick in Georgia, has invitations for a luncheon and bridge on Monday.

But the suffrage ladies, they are hatching plans for the suffrage parade, I do believe, and the luncheon includes Mrs. James Morrison, Mrs. Dunlap Smith, Miss Suzette Ryerson, Mrs. Peabody, Miss Rozet, Mrs. George Packard, Miss Cornelia Cregier, Miss Virginia Pope, and several others.

MUSIC AND THE MUSICIANS

American Symphony at Orchestra Hall.

BY ERIC DE LAMARTER.

AMY EMERSON NEILL, the local violinist, won the honors of the American Symphony orchestra's concert of last evening at Orchestra hall. Her playing of the new concerto by Cecil Burleigh so impressed the audience with her own prowess and the virtues of the work that, after bowing several times, she presented a charming bit of composition from the pen of Charles G. Dawes, so saith gossip.

Glenn Dillard Gunn, the dauntless and generous conductor of this young orchestra, was aided by Daniel Protheroe and his cohorts of the American Choral society, a group of some five score singers. The program, in consequence, was more varied than heretofore. It was of goodly length, too, despite the postponement of a Wedding March by Isadore Berger, announced for performance at a series of popular concerts by this orchestra at the Grand opera house.

In a general sense the most interesting portion of the evening was the performance of the Burleigh concerto. In itself it is a pleasing work, fluent of theme and gracefully treated in all respects save that of the orchestral portion. Miss Neill's solo playing, too often covered by an obese accompaniment, was brilliant, stable, vital of tone, and technically admirable.

William Henry Berwald's overture, "Walthari," was the initial number. Its composer, German born, has resided in Syracuse, N. Y., for some years. The work, smooth of melody, not too complex as to polyphony, and patterned, as to its orchestral expression, after the old, colorful modern German scheme, is interesting and well handled.

Leo Sowerby, the defiant young "highbrow" of the company, gave the orchestra and the audience its deepest riddle of the evening in a rhapsody on British folk tunes—melodies jotted down at concerts by the Sisters Fuller, "My Man John," and "Brixham Town" being the two most easily recognizable. There were many beautiful passages in the work, and flashes of humor quite unexpected. Despite himself, Mr. Sowerby is an oracle difficult to make audible. His idiom is involved. It requires more study than may have been possible in this case. And yet so individual a score, so sturdy and consistent, rarely has come to hearing in these concerts.

Charles Wakefield Cadman's "Night Song and Intermezzo," an atmospheric page, reflective and dainty, and a "Joyous Prelude" by Avery completed the orchestral portion of the concert. The latter seemed to be hardly buoyant enough for its caption, rather thin as to material, and badly planned as to structure.

The women of the choir sang well Saar's "Shadows of Twilight" and "Spring"—the former very effective and the latter perfunctory as to composition—and the men Mr. Protheroe's "Drontheim," a cantata of the usual mannerchor type. Only one line of the text could be distinguished—"they smoked with thistles aboard"—and we're still wondering where it may be found in the poem. The tone was solid, that of the women's voices pure and of excellent body, and the technical matters of attack and shading commendable. Horatio Parker's "King Gorm the Grim" brought the entire ensemble into play.

In a general survey of the program it must be said that too many of these works were overlong for the power of the composer to sustain interest, that there was a lack of dash and initiative in most of the scores and a lack of facility in producing purely orchestral effect. Climaces were scarce and not surely sustained. The Burleigh concerto made the best impression as to original theme making.

The orchestra, worried with manuscript parts and "first time" works, gave of its best generally and showed gain in the string section. It is still inflexible in a dynamic sense. Guy Woodward, the concert-meister, did especially able service.

Mahler Eighth Symphony Given.

Philadelphia, Pa., March 2.—The Mahler eighth symphony was tonight performed for the first time in America by the Philadelphia orchestra, aided by a chorus of 950 voices and eight solo singers.

The orchestra, under the leadership of Leopold Stokowski, had been augmented to 110 instruments. On anticipation of the event lovers of music had assembled in Philadelphia from the musical centers, and the production was regarded by many as one of the most important events in the musical history of the country.

Rehearsals of the work had been in progress since last fall, and musical experts agreed that its rendition tonight was superb, much praise being bestowed upon Mr. Stokowski for his able handling of musicians and singers.

Mahler's eighth symphony was first produced in Munich in 1910, and since then had only been heard one other time in Europe previous to its production here tonight.

SMALL DECLINE IN WHEAT PRICE; TRADE NARROWS

Fluctuations Less Violent in All Pits—Shipping Conditions Check Business.

Trade in wheat was of smaller volume yesterday than for some time and fluctuations were less violent, although the market was nervous, with quick price changes throughout the session. Cables were steady, and the failure of Liverpool to advance was taken to indicate that the submarine campaign was not feared abroad, and that supplies were expected to be large. On the rallies there was wheat for sale, while the setbacks witnessed a good demand. The market appeared to be more nearly evened up than it has for some time.

Resting prices were a little lower, declines of ⅛@¼c being established. Liquidation did not appear to be extensive. At the same time shorts were enabled to cover easily.

Argentine Shipments Heavy.

A bearish influence was the increase in Argentine shipments, which were estimated at 3,500,000 bu for the week, or about three times as much as a year ago. Moreover, it was said tonnage for the movement of Argentine wheat and oats had been secured for additional amounts. The quality of the Argentine crop is good. Foreign news generally was bearish. Barring any decided interruption of the sea commerce by German raiders, foreigners evidently expect to have little if any trouble in filling their requirements from now on.

Heavy purchases of Canadian wheat have been made by the British government recently, and this wheat will have preference as far as boats are concerned, it is supposed. The domestic wheat demand was slow. Sales of Manitobas were reported at the highest premiums on the crop.

Snow General in West.

Weather conditions were not unfavorable, the drop in temperatures being preceded over the winter wheat belt by a quite general fall of snow. The crop reports from many sections indicate considerable damage, but these advices so far have had little effect. The flour demand was fair and good sales have been made recently from Minneapolis. Stocks at the latter point increased 240,000 bu for five days.

Receipts were 233 cars and primary arrivals were 1,240,000 bu, against 653,000 bu a year ago. Northwest arrivals were 458 cars, against 267 cars a year ago, and Winnipeg had 565 cars, against 195 cars a year ago. Clearances were 769,000 bu for the day.

Corn Prices Trifle Lower.

Corn prices were a shade to ¼c lower at the close. The trade during the day was nervous, as in wheat. Cutten and Nye-Jenks were credited with buying. Commission houses sold on the advances. A fair cash demand developed, with sales of 110,000 bu. Shipping conditions east and the crowding of Atlantic port facilities make it almost impossible to do any export business. Country offerings show a big falling off and were small yesterday.

Cables were unchanged to ½d off. Argentine shipments were estimated at 850,000 bu, against 5,193,000 bu a year ago. Clearances of corn were 57,000 bu. Receipts were 207 cars, with primary receipts of 863,000 bu, against 492,000 bu a year ago. Colder weather was regarded as favorable for movement.

Oats Show Steady Tone.

Oats were steady to a shade higher at the close. Offerings were not especially heavy, and during most of the session there was a good demand. The cash demand was moderate, and sales were 100,000 bu, prices in the sample crowd being steady. Receipts were 137 cars, with primary receipts of 632,000 bu, against 669,000 bu a year ago. Clearances were 6,000. Country offerings were moderate.

Pork was strong and sharply higher, with moderate gains also in lard and ribs. The demand was fair for products. The big lard stocks did not exert much bearish pressure. The meat showing made in monthly stocks was regarded as rather bullish. The cash trade is moderate, as a rule. Hogs continue strong, advancing 5@10c for the day. Receipts were 32,000, with 26,000 the estimate for today. Western receipts were 99,800, compared to 105,000 a year ago. Receipts of products were [illegible] cars, and shipments were 134 cars. Liverpool cash prices were unchanged.

Barley Prices Are Firm.

Rye was dull, with No. 2 quoted at 90½c. Receipts were 2 cars.

Barley ruled firm, malting selling at 64@76c, and screenings 52@58½c. Sales of 10,000 bu were made for export. Receipts, 36 cars.

Timothy seed was easy. March was quoted $8.50 nominal and cash lots $4.50@7.50 nominal. Clover seed was easy, with cash lots $10.00@19.00 nominal.

Duluth flax closed ¼@½c lower. Cash on track, $2.28¾; May, $2.28¾, and July, $2.28⅝. Receipts, 4 cars. Minneapolis closed ½c lower, with cash on track $2.28¾@2.32¾; receipts were 26 cars. Winnipeg closed ¼@1¼c lower, with May $2.07¼ and July $2.08⅜. Receipts, 14 cars.

NEWS AND GOSSIP OF BOARD OF TRADE.

Leaders in the wheat trade look for comparatively quiet markets for a time. The trade volume has contracted severely in the last few days, and yesterday commission houses generally reported a big falling off in the trade. The market was regarded as well evened up by pit traders, although some commission men said they still had a good deal of long wheat on their books. Bearish sentiment was emphasized by the big estimate of Argentine shipments. Evidence of extensive export buying of American wheat would change sentiment materially. At present the news in regard to crop conditions does not meet with much buying response.

Cash corn and cash oats prices here were not much changed. Receivers said there was little grain being offered to arrive. Shipping conditions east are bad, and this is crippling the shipping business. There is no relief in the east from the embargo conditions, and this is working against export business, which, it is believed, would be good for both corn and oats if it was possible to ship the grain out. Argentine shipments of corn were estimated at only 850,000 bu, against 5,192,000 bu a year ago. From this it would appear the demand for corn from this country would be active with conditions anywhere near normal. Local sales were 110,000 bu corn and 100,000 bu oats.

Bulls in wheat were disappointed in the cash trade. In spite of the big shrinkage in prices recently there has been but little business for export reported. Yesterday's advices from the seaboard indicated but little inquiry for domestic wheat, with sales of 250,000 bu reported. St. Louis wired that the cash demand was dead, and Kansas City exporters said there was no demand there. In the northwest prices for cash wheat were steady relatively. Local sales were only 15,000 bu, and prices were about steady relative to the futures. Country offerings of wheat were still liberal in the northwest.

There was more trading in job lots of corn and oats, and some of the brokers believe it will become quite active when the trade generally becomes aware of the fact that trade in small lots is being done. President Griffin had a message from Minneapolis yesterday saying a petition was being circulated there to increase the commission on small lots to ¼c per bu.

Stocks of provisions at western packing centers, as compiled by Schwarz & Co., show a total of 284,788,000 lbs of cut meat, compared to 235,000,000 lbs a month ago and 365,000,000 lbs a year ago. During February there was an increase of 49,741,000 lbs, compared to a gain of 66,000,000 lbs in February last year.

According to Logan-Bryan, farm reserves of wheat are 170,000,000 bu, against 152,000,000 bu a year ago; corn, 1,205,000,000 bu, against 919,000,000 bu a year ago; oats, 560,000,000 bu, against 879,000,000 bu a year ago. The figures are based on reports from 400 correspondents in the grain belt.

Peoria wired: "There will be no further accumulations of grain in Peoria, and after this week stocks will decrease rapidly. While weather is favorable for moving corn, dealers and farmers are not offering."

A representative of a big Winnipeg house was quoted in Minneapolis as saying that in the last three days of last week 14,000,000 bu of wheat was bought by six brokers for the English government.

Receipts inspected yesterday: Wheat, 233 cars; corn, 207 cars; oats, 137 cars; rye, 2 cars, and barley, 36 cars. Hogs estimated for today, 26,000 head.

Argentine shipments were estimated at 3,500,000 bu wheat, against 1,242,000 bu a year ago, and 850,000 bu corn, against 5,193,000 bu a year ago.

The spring movement of grains from Russia via the northern ports will be light, as the railroads are tied up.

Hitch-Cardner had a message from Pike county, Illinois, saying wheat was damaged 30 to 50 per cent.

Broomhall's international wheat review for the week was regarded as bearish.

Minneapolis wheat stocks increased 240,000 bu for five days.

Duluth wheat stocks increased 638,000 bu for four days.

Advances of 5@10c were made in hog prices at Chicago yesterday, top sale being at $9.10, highest since last September. Demand for lightweight hogs was not as brisk as for other sorts and this kind was barely 5c higher on the average, with the close weak. Speculators and shippers supported the market early, while packers took hold in a satisfactory manner later. Bulk of sales were at $8.80@9.00. Receipts were about as expected at 31,000.

Cattle generally sold up to Wednesday's best levels with the choice lots finding quick clearance, although few of the latter were on sale. Cheap lightweight steers sold well, despite the fact that feeder cattle buyers unloaded numerous of their holdings into the beef trade, these selling chiefly down from $7.60. Cows and heifers ruled strong and higher, bulls were firm, and calves steady. Receipts were 4,500.

Sheep and Lambs Steady.

Prices for sheep and lambs were generally steady, with demand not urgent, but receipts light at 12,000. Yearlings sold up to $10.25 and best western ewes at $8.15. General quality of lambs was the poorest of the week with no finished Colorados of suitable weight showing up. $11.35 was paid for a load of finished western lambs.

J. V. FARWELL CO. REVIEW.

The John V. Farwell company's weekly review of the wholesale dry goods trade says:

"Wholesale dry goods business continues brisk on a firm and rising market. With Japan raw silk at the $6 mark and highest grades of raw silk practically above the record figures of 1907, merchants realize that present prices on the finished products may look low within the next thirty or sixty days.

"A new situation is facing cutters. They are now obliged to show stock on hand, goods in transit, or confirmed orders for wool dress goods before large distributors to the consumer will place their orders. This is making the demand by the cutters unusually active."

MILLERS BUY MAY WHEAT.

Minneapolis, Minn., March 2.—Five million bushels of May wheat have been bought by milling interests in the last week as prices tumbled, according to estimates of Minneapolis chamber of commerce traders today. This, they say, would represent sales of 1,000,000 barrels of flour. Most of this product is said to be for eastern bakers. Millers also said they had been buying on a large scale, but that it was not unusual at this season of the year.

PEORIA HOGS SELL AT $9.

Peoria, Ill., March 2.—Mixed hogs sold at $9.00 here today, the highest figure in six years, according to stockyards officials. The demand was strong.

Corn Products Refining.

E. J. C.—The stockholders of the Corn Products Refining company voted on March 24, 1914, to make a substantial reduction in the amount of common stock outstanding, but no definite plan has been formed yet. The company has outstanding $49,777,300 of common stock, which has a market value of only about $10,453,233. If it were decided to reduce the amount of stock by one-half, stockholders would be asked to send in their certificates and receive new ones. The holder of an old certificate of 100 shares would get a new one of fifty, but he would still own exactly the same fraction of the company's property as before.

Illinois Brick.

L. W. D.—The Illinois Brick company has paid dividends of 6 per cent a year on its $4,700,000 of stock for the last three years. Previous to 1914 the rate fluctuated widely. Net earnings were nearly $600,000 in 1912 and in 1913. In 1914 they dropped to $517,196, and in 1915 they were $530,642. Dividends and a depreciation charge of $207,610 took practically all this, leaving only $15,032 to be added to surplus, making it $380,275. A report last autumn that the company was about to improve its position by selling some unused real estate proved unfounded. The real estate item in the balance sheet of Dec. 31 last is $1,207,219, an increase of about $38,000.

Brief Answers.

A. F. W., Dundee, Ill.—The Gulf Sulphur company has a fifty acre tract near the property of the Union Sulphur company, which is the richest sulphur mine in the world. The Gulf company is selling lots to defray the cost of boring for sulphur. The company has reputable backing, but a purchase of lots would, of course, be purely a speculation.

F. E. P., Boulder, Colo.—Pierce Oil debentures are not a conservative investment. They offer some possibilities of profit for any one who can afford a risk. Cosden Refining stock is of $5 par. The Sapulpa company has $750,000 of stock of $5 par value. It pays dividends. All these companies have been reviewed heretofore.

J. S. K.—The motion picture company you ask about has been selling stock since two or three years ago. Inquiries among moving picture exchanges fail to disclose any evidence that it has ever sold or even produced a film. The company ignores requests for information.

M. W. L.—Japanese bonds are selling on a lower level now than four years ago, partly because Japan's credit is not quite so good and partly because of the discount in exchange. If war with Japan occurred there would be difficulty in selling the bonds.

J. J.—There is no market for the stock you ask about, unless the company itself will buy the shares. It distributed them. The company has issued no reports of earnings or dividends.

L. L. S., Galesburg, Ill.—The Illinois Mausoleum company has ignored requests for official information.

May contracts sold up to 8.14c and September to 8.30c, or into new high ground for the movement, but the advance seemed to attract a great deal of realizing and the selling was promoted by reports that ocean freight room was offering more freely at slight concessions from recent official quotations. MARCH COMES IN WITH NO CHANGE IN MONEY RATES

Inflow of Funds from Foreign Trade Continues—Banks Hold to 3 Per Cent.

With the beginning of March there is no appreciable change in the money market. Rates are easier in New York than Chicago. The banks here are holding well to a minimum of 3 per cent for commercial paper, while in New York the rate is from 2½ to 2¾ per cent.

If Wall street predictions prove correct, there will be within the next few weeks another influx of buying orders from the allied governments, and this will mean the transfer of further credit or cash to this country. There is nothing in the war situation promising firmer conditions of consequence. So long as the war lasts the balance of trade will be in favor of the United States and the money market will adjust itself to the inflow of funds.

It seems probable that if the allies do not send over a large volume of orders the domestic demand may absorb to a greater extent surplus supplies of credit. But more war orders will reverse this situation.

Weakness in Allies' Bonds.

The occasion for weakness in Anglo-French bonds is set forth by a Boston banker as follows:

"The new low record of 93⅝ for the Anglo-French 5 per cent bonds to my mind does not reflect so much the composite estimate of the chances of the allies in this war as it reflects the technical position of the issue itself. I have recently had occasion to examine the statements of a number of industrial corporations, and all had Anglo-French 5 per cent bonds listed among their assets. So far as they were able to the allied governments swapped bonds for shells, and now the munitions manufacturers are beginning to dispose of the bonds in the form of dividends.

"What should the Du Pont company, for instance, which can earn 94 per cent on its common stock, want with bonds paying 6 per cent? Du Pont, of course, is an exception, but there are plenty of industrials which can earn 20 or 30 per cent on capital from war orders. While the safety of the bonds is beyond question, the fact remains that a large part of the $500,000,000 issue was left with the underwriters and another considerable portion was taken for business reasons by manufacturing corporations which are not likely to hold them to maturity."

Industrial Alcohol Earnings.

Net earnings of the United States Industrial Alcohol company for the year ended Dec. 31, 1915, were equal to 33.22 per cent on the $12,000,000 common stock, against 1.94 per cent for the previous year. The increase is due to the demand for alcohol required in the manufacture of powder. Following are the financial statements:

Heavy Corporate Financing.

Corporate financing in February was the heaviest in years, according to the New York Journal of Commerce. The total was $308,554,300, compared with $264,246,100 in the same month in 1915, an increase of $39,308,200. Railroad financing amounted to $88,550,000, a decrease of $91,407,100, while industrial corporations contributed $220,002,300, an increase of $130,715,300.

In March the maturities will aggregate $52,965,000, against $36,826,400 in February. Incorporation papers for new companies filed in eastern states in February with a capital of $1,000,000 or more amounted to $365,935,300, compared with $88,950,000 in 1915 and $51,575,000 in 1914.

Copper Production Smaller.

The production of copper by the Utah, Ray, Chino, and Nevada Consolidated companies in January was considerably less than in December, as a result of the severe weather experienced during the greater part of January. The January output compares with the two months preceding as follows:

	January. Pounds.	December. Pounds.	November. Pounds.

Nevada	6,157,869	6,291,247	5,495,487

Chicago Securities.

On the local stock exchange prices were irregular with a higher trend. Sears-Roebuck common was the feature, showing an advance of 174 from a close on Wednesday of 169½. The February figures of sales proved reassuring to the market. Diamond Match, Pneumatic Tool, and Peoples Gas were all higher. Stewart-Warner common declined fractionally, while Union Carbide was steady.

Money and Exchange.

Money rates in Chicago steady at 3½@4 per cent on collateral, 3@4 per cent on commercial paper, and 4@4½ per cent over the counter. New York exchange sold at 5c and 10c discount. Chicago bank clearings were $86,019,310.

Standard Oil of Indiana.

Net profits of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana for the fiscal year ended Dec. 31, after all expenses and adjustments, were $15,998,376, or 53.32 per cent on the $30,000,000 common stock. The net earnings in 1915 were equal to 21.96 per cent. The comparative statements follow:

NEWS OF THE FINANCIAL WORLD

A marked change of view toward the German submarine contention is being noted in the market. It appears that the reiterated statement of the German position has led to a considerable element accepting in the main the Teutonic view. What effect this may have on prices may not be predicted, but the spread of the view that a merchantman or liner carrying guns is an auxiliary warship is expected to lessen the chances of war with Germany, though it is noted in the market that the president may cause the withdrawal of ambassadors of the two countries.

President John D. Ryan of the Anaconda Copper company says that while copper consumers are not bidding for metal as excitedly as several weeks ago, the demand is still exceptionally strong, and good business is being done in distant deliveries. Mr. Ryan's statement is the first authoritative indication of a lull in the copper market. Mr. Ryan does not expect a recession in copper prices, since the important producers are sold so far ahead that they are under no necessity of seeking or competing for business.

Market interests in Wall street are watching the Morgan coterie of speculators. It is believed that events of the last two weeks will lead to a resumption of munitions orders from abroad and that such orders necessarily will be placed through the Morgan firm. Buying by those close to the banking house will be accepted as certain indication of a revival in foreign buying and a consequent uplift in the price of stocks of munition companies. The opinion is becoming general that by April the allies will begin turning again to this market.

It is gossip in Wall street that the proposed French loan in this country for $100,000,000 or $200,000,000 will be raised by means of debentures offered against French government securities as collateral. It is proposed to deposit French bonds with banking houses and then have the latter issue for sale their own obligations in the form of debentures against the deposited bonds. Such debentures, it is thought, will prove more popular with the investing public than would original French securities.

The annual report of the American Bank Note company for the year ended Dec. 31, 1915, will show about 10¼ per cent earned on the $4,495,760 common stock, compared with 5.32 per cent in 1914. The report will be issued some time this week.

At the close of January unfilled orders on the books of the United States Steel corporation aggregated 7,806,220 tons. It is estimated that new business in February was at the rate of 70,000 tons a day, making the excess of orders over shipments about 24,000 tons a day. On this basis of figuring the increased tonnage statement to be issued March 10 should show an increase in unfilled tonnage for February of about 600,000 tons.

The Missouri public service commission has rejected tentative plans for the Frisco reorganization submitted by F. J. Wade. The commission, however, has taken no action regarding a modified plan to be submitted by the reorganization managers. The Wade plan has no connection with Speyer & Co. or J. & W. Seligman & Co., who will file a plan with the commission in the near future.

Word comes from Kansas City that Great Britain has discontinued there and in the United States the purchase of horses and mules for war purposes. The foreign agents have gone directly from Kansas City to Argentina. It is held that Argentina has about 9,000,000 horses and more than 500,000 mules which Kansas City dealers say can be sold under prices prevailing in the United States.

It is announced that with the exception of a few details the plan of reorganization of the Assets Realization company has been arranged. The plan as a whole has been approved by the directors. The new company will take over the liquidation of the present concern. The capitalization will be considerably less than the $10,000,000 capital of the present company.

Announcement comes from London that the copper business there has been suspended owing to the government proclamation in regard to speculation, which provides that metal must be in the seller's possession, or in the course of production. Buyers must purchase only on behalf of a customer.

An active demand is now reported for scrap material and any of this old metal available is being eagerly taken by purchasers of all kinds. The United States Steel corporation has purchased 100,000 tons of scrap, taking 50,000 tons in the Chicago district and the other 50,000 tons in the Pittsburgh district.

The Tobacco Products corporation has purchased and taken possession of Schinasi Brothers, manufacturers of cigarets. The reported price paid is $3,300,000 cash. Friends of the corporation estimate net profits from the Schinasi Bros. plant at $400,000 a year.

W. F. Roberts has been elected vice president of the Bethlehem Steel corporation and has been given charge of operations of all the steel plants.

NEW YORK TAILORS STRIKE.

New York, March 2.—Five thousand custom tailors here, many of whom were employed in Fifth avenue shops, struck today for higher wages and the abolition of Sunday work and the so-called free shop. Officials of the union said tonight that they expected 15,000 other workers to join the strike by Saturday, and that there was a possibility of the strike spreading to the 150,000 custom tailors belonging to the union throughout the country.

END PACKING HOUSE STRIKE.

Sioux City, Ia., March 2.—The Sioux City packing house strike, involving 2,500 men, was settled this morning at a mass meeting of the strikers.

MARKET SLUMP UNBROKEN.

New York, March 2.—Efforts to lift the market out of its long continued slough of depression were almost altogether futile today, prices moving with more or less uncertainty during the greater part of the dull session and closing with a number of moderate net declines.

The international situation and its attendant uncertainties, as reflected in Democratic political conditions, more than counterbalanced a variety of favorable developments. These latter included increased copper dividends, record buying of steel and iron, further excellent statements of earnings by railroads and industrial corporations, and the encouraging trade review submitted by the federal reserve board.

ADVANCES ARE REGISTERED.

Advances of substantial fractions to a point or more were registered at the opening, and some specialties made greater headway, but these gains were soon forfeited on moderate selling orders. During the midsession the early price level was regained, and in some instances exceeded, mainly in consequence of the increased disbursements declared in Utah, Butte and Superior, and Chino copper.

Trading dragged in the last half of the session, but changes were mainly downward, though orderly. To the constructive side account the ease with which prices receded on light offerings was most discouraging.

Rails were less active than recently, but manifested more stability. United States Steel hung around yesterday's final quotation, its steadiness showing moderate accumulation.

London Metals Close.

The most interesting news from abroad was contained in cables announcing the virtual closing of the London metal market, to prevent further speculation in copper and allied products. This occasioned no surprise in local circles, where the artificial character of the foreign markets for those commodities had long been a matter of gossip.

Another large gain in gold constituted the chief feature of the Bank of England's statement, the increase amounting to about $5,600,000. Exchange between London and this center now has reached the level where further imports of gold are highly improbable.

Large net gains for January were reported by the Atlantic Coast Line and the New Haven.

Bonds, including Anglo-French 5s, were firm. United States bonds were unchanged on call.

EQUITABLE TRUST COMPANY OF NEW YORK, TRUSTEE

Tax Exempt in the State of Pennsylvania

Application will be made to list these bonds on the New York Stock Exchange

The West Penn Power Company was organized under the laws of Pennsylvania, March 1st, 1916, for the purpose of consolidating under a single fee ownership the principal electric light and power properties formerly owned by the West Penn Traction Company. The West Penn Power Company does a general electric lighting and power business, serving some 75 cities and towns in the territory surrounding Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, having an estimated population of almost 400,000.

From information contained in a letter from Samuel Insull, Esquire, President of the Company, we summarize the following:

These bonds, in the opinion of counsel, are secured by an absolute first mortgage on all the physical property now owned by the West Penn Power Company, and now constitute the only mortgage indebtedness of that Company.

On the basis of the appraisal of our examining engineers and the investment of cash realized from the present financing, the value of the property is very largely in excess of the outstanding bonds.

The Mortgage provides a graduated minimum Maintenance Fund, ranging from 1½% to 2½% annually of the par value of First Mortgage Bonds outstanding, thus assuring adequate maintenance and renewal of the physical property; and in addition the Mortgage provides a Depreciation Reserve Fund amounting to 2% annually of the First Mortgage Bonds outstanding.

Additional bonds may be issued only in compliance with the stringent provisions of the mortgage relating thereto.

Net earnings of the component properties for twelve months ended December 31, 1915, as adjusted and certified by independent auditors, are nearly 2¾ times annual interest on first mortgage bonds now outstanding.

With the exception of a few small communities from which the Company derives less than 5% of its gross earnings, all of the franchises, in the opinion of counsel, are unlimited as to duration.

The territory served comprises one of the very best power situations in the United States and offers exceptional opportunities for largely increasing the Company's business.

We Recommend These Bonds for Investment

Price, 95½ and interest, to yield 5.30%

The statements herein made are not guaranteed, but are based upon information which we believe to be accurate and reliable, and upon which we have acted in the purchase of these securities.

BUYS A HALSTED STREET CORNER FOR $108,500

Louis Bomash Secures Property at Intersection of Harrison—Evanston Flat Sold.

A sale of Halsted street business property was the most notable feature in a real estate market way yesterday. The property is at the northeast corner of Halsted and Harrison street, 112x132 feet, the leasehold interest in which and the improvements were purchased by Louis Bomash from Alexander W. Hannah and John G. Campbell for a reported consideration of $108,500, subject to an incumbrance of $42,500. The ground is under a lease for ninety-nine years from May 1, 1912, from William L. Newman et al. to the sellers at an average annual rent of $7,450.

When the sellers leased this property they purchased the improvements, consisting of a three story and basement building, containing ten stores on the ground floor, with offices and lofts in the upper stories, for $55,000.

Add Improvements.

They have since added a 600 seat theater and made other improvements at a reported cost of about $35,000. It is stated that Mr. Bomash expects to make further improvements in the property.

In part payment Mr. Bomash conveyed to John D. Peterson the three story twelve apartment building of eight and nine rooms each at 4925-31 Grand boulevard at a reported consideration of $100,000, subject to an incumbrance of $50,000. The building occupies a lot 100x150 feet, and is said to have a gross annual rental of $11,200. Regelin, Jenson & Co. were the brokers representing both parties, and will have charge of the properties.

Evanston Deal.

An important transaction in Evanston apartment house property, including also two Chicago six apartment buildings, was also among the transfers filed for record. The Evanston property was the eighteen apartment building of four, five, and six rooms, at the southeast corner of Judson avenue and Dempster street. It occupies a lot 100x150 feet, and has a gross annual rental of about $12,000. It was sold by William C. Slatts to Richard S. Donnelly for an indicated consideration of $75,500, made up of an incumbrance of $35,000, a purchase money mortgage of $20,500, and $20,000 paid for the equity, according to the revenue stamps on the document.

In this connection Albert A. Wilbur conveyed to Mr. Slatts the six apartment building at 421-23 East Forty-fifth street, 216 feet east of Grand boulevard, lot 50x124 feet, north front, for an indicated consideration of $30,000, subject to an incumbrance of $20,000, while Mrs. Elizabeth L. Chase conveyed to Mr. Slatts the six flat building at 4552-54 Oakenwald avenue, lot fifty feet, east front, to an alley, for an indicated consideration of $20,000, subject to an incumbrance of $13,000. Ballard, Rowe & Whitman were the brokers.

Buys Vacant Properties.

Benjamin Z. Silverman has purchased the vacant properties at 4124-26 West Twelfth street, 50x125 feet, and 4224-26 West Twelfth street, 50x125 feet, for a reported consideration of $22,500 cash. It is stated the purchaser plans to improve immediately the property at 4124-26 Twelfth street with a building to contain stores, a theater, and offices in the upper floor to cost about $45,000. The other properties, it is stated, will be improved with store and flat buildings. Seymour Marks was the broker and will have charge of the properties.

David D. Chidester of Philadelphia has sold through William A. Bond & Co. to James B. Kaine a total frontage of 964 feet on Seventy-fourth street, between Vincennes road and South State street, including the southeast corner of Wentworth avenue and the southeast and southwest corners of Perry avenue. A nominal consideration was given, but the revenue stamps indicate a consideration of $118,000.

Halsted Street Sale.

The same brokers in connection with Matthew J. Harmon have sold for Mr. Chidester to Samuel Inlander for $12,500 the 100x117 feet on South Halsted street, east front, 147 feet south of Seventy-seventh street.

E. F. Keebler & Co. have leased for Ernest Belfeld, representing the Hotel Sherman company, to the Bedford Shirt company the double store at 119-21 West Van Buren street, in the Fort Dearborn Hotel building, for ten years and two months from March 1 at a term rent of $61,000. The lessee company, which has six other stores in the loop, will occupy it with a men's furnishing store.

The same brokers also have leased for Charles Frankenthal to Clarence Martin the store and basement at 222 West South Water street for ten years and three months at a term rent of $23,500. Mr. Martin will occupy the premises for commission business. The same brokers have leased for Wilhelmine Keebler to the Unity Drug company the corner store, northwest corner of Wentworth avenue and Thirty-first street, for ten years from May 1 at a term rent of $24,000.

Talks About Terminal.

A. M. Schoyer, vice president of the Pennsylvania road and a member of the executive committee of the Union Station committee, told the members of the Chicago Real Estate board at the weekly luncheon of that body yesterday a number of interesting things concerning the new west side terminal, which, he said, they hoped to have completed in the spring of 1920. He stated that $50,000,000 would be nearer the cost than the figure of $60,000,000, which is commonly used.

He said that of the total cost at least $32,000,000 represented the cost of the real estate purchases, possibly $5,000,000 to $6,000,000 the interest on the cost of the work during the course of construction. In addition, he said, the city is to be paid about $1,500,000 in return for the vacation of streets necessary to the terminal plans. Several millions will be also expended, he said, in the reconstruction of sewers, public utility galleries, and tunnels.

He said there were four roads equally interested in the ownership of the terminal, the Pennsylvania, the Panhandle, the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy, and the Milwaukee and St. Paul road.

Finest in the Country.

He expressed the opinion that no city in the country would have so complete, up to date in every particular, and convenient station as this would be when completed.

He said he would not venture to predict what the future of the west side would be, but he declared there was no doubt as to the need of certain things to further its development. One, he declared, was the much talked of new postoffice, which he said should be located in close proximity to the new Union station and the Northwestern station.

The other, he said, was a new and high grade hotel in that vicinity—one that would cost from $2,000,000 to $3,000,000. He said it was not necessary it should be on the west side of the river, but it should be in that vicinity, convenient for the traveling public as well as in easy reach of the central business district.

The attendance was about 175, a record for these functions.

After the luncheon he declared the Pennsylvania road was in no way behind any hotel project, as was intimated in a story published several days ago.

JUSTICE ASKS JURY TRIAL.

Edward Wallace, the Lake Bluff justice of the peace who was arrested charged with insulting a girl who applied to him for a position, demanded a jury trial yesterday when his case was called in the South Clark street court before Judge Arnold Heap. Wallace is manager of the Red Cross Chemical company, 169 North Fifth avenue. The girl, Miss Clara Mecklenberg, 19 years old, 1520 North Crawford avenue, says she went to his office in answering an advertisement. His suggestive remarks, she says, frightened her.

Urge "Start and Stop" Signs.

A recommendation that the city council pass an ordinance adopting the "stop and start" sign to move traffic in the loop was passed yesterday by the citizens' traffic and safety commission in the city hall.

RAILWAY STRIKE COSTLIER THAN WAR IN EUROPE

Commerce Men, in Urging Arbitration, Say Public Must Not Be Sacrificed.

If the threatened railroad strike should last only twelve hours, it would result in a sheer loss to the United States and Canada of more than the daily outlay for the European war.

This is the conclusion that is bringing an extra effort from the business men of Chicago in the campaign they have started through the Association of Commerce to force the railroad managers and the 300,000 members of the four train service brotherhoods to agree to arbitrate the demands for higher wages or shorter hours.

The leaders of the business men yesterday restated the position they will take before the public. They are not against the railroads. They are not against the demands of organized labor. They are against a strike and for arbitration. They will bear down hardest on the side that shows the more hot headed fighting.

Must Preserve Prosperity.

"The only thing the association is against is a strike," said Henry C. Barlow, traffic director of the organization. "The purpose of the Chicago Association of Commerce and the membership in taking the stand they have on the threatened trouble is the preservation of the industry and commerce of the country.

"Business is moving along better than normal. The country is prosperous. A railroad strike, or the continued talk of one, will not nip this renewed buying and trading confidence, but smother it. The cessation of transportation facilities, even for a limited period, is a calamity to which the public as a whole should not be subjected. Some method or plan should be devised that will avoid it. We mean arbitration."

Santa Fe Issues Statement.

Other developments included action taken by the Santa Fé railroad, inclosing its arguments against the trainmens' demands in the dividend disbursement envelopes. Following is a copy of the statement in part:

"This is not really a demand for a shorter working day, but a demand for greater pay. It is ordinarily impossible to run freight trains from one end of an operating division to the other in eight hours. To shorten the operating divisions would cost an enormous amount of money, besides the effect on existing towns of the shifting of division terminals. The men claim their requirements can be accomplished by reducing the tonnage of trains. This would not have the desired effect, as the number of trains, and consequently the meets, would be very greatly increased, and thus, while the time between stations might be quicker, the actual time over the division might not be shortened. A reduction of tonnage would also increase enormously the operating cost per ton mile.

Concerning Overtime Pay.

"At present trainmen are paid overtime after ten hours' work. For example: If a freight train is on the road twelve hours the trainman gets 120 per cent of what his regular pay would be for ten hours. The present demand is that for eight hours work the trainmen shall get the same pay as he now does for ten hours work and that for all overtime he shall be paid 'at the rate of time and a half.'

"This means that if a trainman is on the road twelve hours he will get 175 per cent instead of 120 per cent of his regular daily pay. It is probable that the granting of the present demands would involve an increase of not less than $100,000,000 in operating expenses of the railroads in the United States.

"It must be remembered that while a trainman may be on the road more than the expected time this does not mean that he is laboring continuously, but that merely by delays he is kept away from his home or place of rest and that nearly always for a substantial part of the delayed time he is kept in idleness, although admittedly on duty. On an average he does not work over twenty to twenty-two days, and hence has eight or ten days of complete rest during the month."

MILK PRODUCERS DEMAND FOUR CENTS PER QUART.

Mokena, Ill., March 2.—[Special.]—Milk producers of Will county are demanding that Chicago dealers and bottling plants pay more for their milk, and at a meeting here today appointed a board to sell their milk at an average of $1.26 per can and $1.55 per hundred pounds to bottling plants for the ensuing six months.

The chief aim of the milk producers is to get 4 cents a quart for their milk, or half of what the dealers and bottling plants get from the consumer.

Secretary Kittle of the Milk Producers' association stated 10,500 dairymen in the Chicago dairy district will unite to obtain their price.

HARVESTER BANK ACCOUNT SHOWN

ASSAILED, DEFENDED.

Washington, D. C., March 2.—Charges that the International Harvester company had attempted to prevent the Continental and Commercial National bank of Chicago from lending money to help finance the Mexican sisal crop were followed today by placing in evidence in the senate's sisal investigation a statement of the company's daily balance and monthly averages at the bank for the last three years.

The average balance for November, 1915, when Sol Wexler, then a New Orleans banker, was negotiating with Arthur Reynolds, vice president of the bank, was $1,270,600. It was then, Wexler charged, that Reynolds said Cyrus McCormick, president of the Harvester company, had threatened to withdraw the company's business if the bank gave aid to the sisal growers. The next month, December, 1915, the average balance was $798,800. In January, 1916, it was $63,100.

Fisher Explains Big Decrease.

The much disputed bank statement was introduced with the consent of Walter Fisher, attorney for the Harvester company. Both sides expressed keen joy, the Mexicans calling attention to the decrease in the company's deposit from $798,800 on Dec. 1 to $63,100 on Jan. 1. Mr. Fisher presented a check for $497,295 dated Dec. 7, this being to retire some of the company's notes held by the same bank.

Perhaps the chief interest in the statement is quite aside from the Mexican question. No monthly average in 1913 was higher than $12,500, which also remained a record through the first seven months of 1914, but since the start of the European war the company's deposit has generally been high in six figures. Last October the company carried a deposit with this one bank of $1,091,200, and in November reached the record height of $1,270,600. With the taking up of the notes the balance dropped sharply, and on Feb. 19 stood at $63,836.

May Call More Witnesses.

The possibility of Arthur Reynolds, vice president of the Continental and Commercial National bank of Chicago, and several officials of the International Harvester company would be asked to come to Washington as witnesses increased today. Mr. Wexler's attorney, Levy Mayer of Chicago, advised the senate subcommittee which is hearing the evidence to call the Chicagoans.

"I am not at liberty to state my conversation with bank officials, but the testimony they could give would have a profound importance," Attorney Mayer said.

Doggett, was dismissed by Judge Henry Horner yesterday. The adjustment of their financial differences has been reached outside of the court.

Dr. Ruhland said he will at once send doctors and nurses into the homes where the disease is known to exist, with instructions to employ medical treatment that will be effective not alone in the speedy cure, but also in preventing other members of the family or neighbors from becoming infected.

Janitors of schools have been instructed to boil the water for use in classrooms. Artesian water is pure, and the schools have been advised by the health department to accept the offer of breweries to supply vast quantities free.
